Rail Heads Refuse To Change Air Base Views

WILL MAINTAIN OBJECTIONS ON USE OF HARBOR

Presidents of C.P.R. and C.N.R. Remain Firm in Objections to Victoria Base for Seaplanes, Despite Plea From City Council and Chamber of Commerce; Attitude Viewed With Dissatisfaction Among Civic Authorities.

Neither the Canadian Pacific Railway nor the Canadian National Railway will withdraw their objections to the establishment of a seapane base in Victoria harbor by the Pacific International Airways Ltd., according to telegrams received by the City and Chamber of Commerce in response to urgent requests that reconsideration be given the matter.

E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the C.P.R. and Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C.N.R. yesterday replied with refusals to withdraw their objections to the base, maintaining adequate air regulations to govern the traffic could not be drafted.

STIRS PROTEST

This attitude of the railway heads has immediately raised a storm of protest here, and more vigorous action may follow to secure harbor rights for planes. By signatures to a petition circulated in James Bay, through various civic bodies and the City Council itself, the Victoria public has expressed itself wholeheartedly in favor of the proposition and the blocking of the plan by the Federal Government and the railways is keenly criticized. Further action in the matter is anticipated.

FROM C.P.R.

Mr. Beatty's telegram reads as follows:

"Your telegram seventeenth am advised that Department Marine reached conclusion that it is undesirable in public interes that application for lease of water lots in Inner Harbor Victoria for purpose of establishing seaplane base should be entertained and in this we concur. This company has large capital investment in Inner Harbor and the ships using it. It is considered by competent authorities that establishment of hydroplane base in this harbor would be serious menace to shipping We appreciate your anxiety to establish this small industry in Victoria it is our opinion that navigation must be given every protection in entering and leaving what is already a congested port. Do not consider that adequate regulations could be drawn that would give sufficient protection to regular lines of shipping and many hundreds of pleasure boats now using the harbor. Do not feel that we could consistently withdraw our objections to establishment of regular hydroplane base in the Harbor."

FROM C.N.R.

Sir Henry Thornton's telegram reads as folows:

"Your telegram seventeenth received. Understand Marine Department decided not in public interest to lease water lots Inner Harbor for seaplane base in which we concur. Do not consider regulations can be drawn to adequately protect shipping and regret therefore unable withdraw our objections to establishment seaplane base in Inner Harbor."

MAYOR'S STATEMENT

As far as the city was concerned further action on the matter would await the result of the interview between Hon. A. Duranleau, Minister of Marine, and departmental officials at Ottawa, promised by the minister on his recent visit here, Mayor Anscomb said. The Mayor issued the following statement:

"I naturally regret to receive a wire from Mr. Beatty, advising that his company and the Canadian National Steamship Company decline to withdraw their objections lodged with the Marine Department against the suggested seaplane base in Victoria Harbor.

CONFERENCE PROMISED

"At a conference I had with the Honorable the Minister of Marine, which was followed by a conference with a joint committee of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, the Honorable the Minister, after being acquainted with all the facts, stated that on his return to Ottawa he would bring both the Marine Department and Aviation Department officials together to discuss the situation. This, of course, he has not yet been able to do, as he has hardly had time to get back to Ottawa.

"From a layman's point of view, it perhaps seems somewhat singular to find that two steamship companies should take such a rooted objection to the inauguration of a seaplane service, when the aviators themselves, who are surely in the greatest danger, if any exists, repeatedly state that the site selected is the right one and there is no danger to anybody. In other words, they take the position that if a ship is coming in or out of the harbor, when a flying boat is about to alight or take off, the pilot of the flying boat simply waits until he has a clear waterway.

EIGHT DEAD AND TWENTY ARE MISSING

Honolulu, Nov. 19.—Eight bodies were recovered to-day and at least twenty persons were missing as the result of a flood which tore down into Honolulu late yesterday from nearby mountains, caused by a heavy rain.

OKLAHOMA STORM KILLS OVER SCORE

100 Persons Injured When Tornado Sweeps District of Little Town of Bethany

Houses and Stores Totaling 100 Destroyed To-day By Violent Twister

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 19.—Striking suddenly during a heavy rain to-day, a tornado took a known death toll of twenty-three and injured 100 persons in and near the little town of Bethany, seven miles west of here.

The downpour of rain continued several hours after the tornado had twisted past, handicapping the efforts of relief workers. Over a foot of water stood in the town, in which 100 buildings were destroyed.

SCHOOL PUPILS KILLED

Before the wind struck Bethany it demolished a schoolhouse at Camel, a short distance away, killing two pupils and injuring the teacher and other children.

As the rain subsided, Red Cross, Salvation Army and National Guard relief workers were able to work faster in removing the dead and injured from the debris.

They found the wind virtually had destroyed all the eastern section of the town. A survey made from the air showed the damage had been limited to the vicinity of Bethany.

CHICKEN THIEF KILLED

Seattle, Nov. 19.—Henry Pillakauhn, chicken rancher, shot and killed an elderly unidentified man in a gun duel after he had surprised him in his chicken house at Sunnydale, near here, early to-day.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Nov. 19.—Hon. Charles Dalton, pioneer fox rancher, is slated for appointment as Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island, to succeed Hon. Frank R. Heartz.

GREAT DISPLAYS AT FARM WINTER FAIR IN TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 19.—The choice of Canada's agricultural products and the bluebloods of the country's cattle and other domestic animals and poultry were on display here to-day.

At 10 a.m. without any ceremony or speech-making, the gates of the Royal Winter Fair were opened to the public. Housed in the buildings on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds are hundreds of horses, cattle, sheep, poultry, foxes and cats and dogs, seeking glory in their respective classes, while in other buildings are rows and rows of fruit, flowers, dairy products, seed grains—the best Canada and the United States have to offer.

[illegible] great display of apples, entered for competition by farmers and associates from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. The displays consist of boxes of apples packed for shipment, and placed one box beside the other, ten crates high and twenty-five crates wide, forming a great, glistening sea of red and green.

The show will be officially opened by Sir Robert Borden this evening, when the former Premier of Canada will address the throng in the great Coliseum.

One of the features of to-day's programme was the parade of 500 young farmers who are guests of the Ontario Government.

Farmers Ask Dairy Industry Be Given Added Protection

Advisory Board of Farmers' Institutes Sees Menace in Butter and Meat Importations From Australasia; Shipments on Consignment Avoid Dump Duty and Prevent Price Recovery.

The Government of Canada should take immediate steps to protect the dairy and sheep industries from further demoralization, in the opinion of the Advisory Board of Farmer's Institutes, which this morning adopted the following resolution, presented by E. W. Neel, Duncan and H. Bose, Lower Fraser Valley:

"That in view of the reported negotiations now in progres between the Canadian Government and the Governments of Australian and New Zealand, the attention of the Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce be drawn to the demoralized conditions existing in the dairy, sheep and allied industries, owing to the low-priced importations from Australasia;

"That the Minister of Trade and Commerce be requested to take immediate steps to protect these industries from any further demoralization;

"And further, that the Minister of Agriculture of British Columbia be asked to submit facts and figures in connection with the above."

The British Columbia butter market was depressed far below the cost of production, the board was informed yesterday afternoon. The demoralization was attributable substantially to the Australian treaty. A secondary factor of immediate importance was the recent enormous importations of butter from New Zealand.

Huge consignments of New Zealand butter, now in cold storage in this province, await release the moment prices show the slightest sign of recovery from the existing depression, the delegates were assured.

Much butter had entered Canada on consignment to brokers, to sell at the best price obtainable By virtue of the absence of a stated price the butter did not come within the provisions of the anti-dumping clauses of the Tariff Act, it was stated.

WINNIPEG MAN BEATEN, BUT FOILS ROBBER

Manager of Stores Saves $250, But Is Hurt; Thug Makes His Escape

Crime Is Seventeenth of Its Sort in City of Winnipeg During November

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—With blood streaming from a cut in his head, but still clutching tightly a bag containing $250 in cash, Charles Horton, supervisor of the Picardy Stores in this city, to-day frustrated the attempt of an armed bandit to hold him up near the intersection of Portage Avenue and Main Street. The bandit escaped.

Horton had just left a Portage Avenue branch store by the rear door with the store receipts on his way to a bank. As he stepped toward his automobile the bandit, unmasked and flourishing a revolver, made a grab for the bag, ordering Horton to throw up his hands.

Gripping the money firmly, Horton wrestled with the bandit, who, angered by the opposition, crashed his revolver over Horton's head, breaking the barrel, which fell in the snow, and made his getaway.

It w's the second hold-up crime within twenty-four hours and the seventeenth this month. Yesterday afternoon two armed men held up the office of the Hargrave Coal Company, escaping with cash amounting to $60.

AGED CYCLIST HURT WHEN CAR HITS BICYCLE

Alfred Deardon Taken to Hospital After Accident on Johnson Street

Knocked from his bicycle when in collision with an automobile at the intersection of Johnson and Blanshard Streets early this morning, Alfred Deardon, septuagenarian cyclist, 1161 Pembroke Street, was in the Jubilee Hospital to-day with a broken ankle and serious head injuries.

Dr. E. L. McNiven, who attended the injured man, said he would probably be confined for six or eight weeks. Two bones in the ankle were broken and there was a scalp wound with concussion.

According to the City Police report of the accident, Mr. Deardon was traveling east on Johnson Street when a car driven in the same direction by H. B. Sandy, 4 Menzies Street, collided with his bicycle. Mr. Deardon suffered through being thrown to the pavement.

CONFERENCE ON INDIA IS SPEEDED UP

Ten-minute Speech Limit For London Discussion; Hindu Leader Speaks

Dr. B. S. Monje Says Indian People Will Not Be Cowed By Physical Force

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, Nov. 19.—The India Round-Table Conference to-day entered the third day of debate on the advantages of a federal system of government against a unitary system in the future constitution of India.

With twenty-seven speakers still to come, the conference was faced with the probability of having to hold day and night sittings if the debate was to be concluded within reasonable time.

Consequently the conference adopted a ten-minute closure rule. The chairman, however, was left with descretion to suspend this ten-minute limit for speeches of unusual importance or in exceptional cases.

DR. MONJE SPEAKS

The conference to-day heard a dramatic story of alleged oppression in India. Dr. B. S. Monje, a leader of the Hindu Mahasabha, or protection society, quoted from a statement by Miss Madeleine Slade, daughter of a British admiral and one of Mahatma Gandhi's disciples, on cruelty in India. "The whole affair is one of the most devilish, cold-blooded and unjustifiable in the history of mankind," Dr. Monje quoted Miss Slade.

"This has passed," declared Dr. Monje, "and the time will never come again when any show of physical force is going to cow the Indian people.

550 LIVES SAVED AS SHIP LOST

Passengers and Crew of British Ss. Highland Hope Land on Portuguese Coast

Canadian Press

Libson, Portugal, Nov. 19.—Riding through a thick barrier of fog, lifeboats carried to safety 550 passengers and crew of the British steamship Highland Hope, which ran on a reef off the Black Cliff of Berlengas, on the coast of Portugal, to-day.

The only casualty was a Spanish emigrant who lost his balance and fell into the sea, being seriously injured.

The Highland Hope, a twin screw steamship, owned by the Nelson Steam Navigation Company, was en route from London to Buenos Aires. The vessel of 14,129 tons, was constructed last year.

After the crash, which roused the ship's passengers, numbering between 200 and 300, from their berths in the dark hours of this morning, the order was given to take to the lifeboats. This was accomplished despite the fog and darkness. Although many of the passengers had no time to dress, there was no panic and perfect order prevailed.

The salvage boats Lisbon and Gibraltar rushed to the scene and took the boats under tow, landing them safely at Peniche. From there the passengers were taken by motor busses to Sao Mamede and from there they came on to Lisbon aboard a special train.

Other salvage boats tried to get the stranded liner off the rocks, but were unsuccessful, their efforts being hindered by the dense fog.

MANY RUSH TO RESCUE

The SOS message sent out by the Highland Hope's captain when the ship fouled on the ugly rocks off the coast sent numbers of rescue craft scurrying toward the spot, and the water soon was dotted with boats bringing aid to the shipwrecked people.

Late to-day the liner lay on the rocks, the stern pounded by seas and with weather conditions making it impossible for other craft to get close to the vessel. It was given up as a total loss.

The captain and a few members of the crew stuck to the ship for a time.

Peniche is about forty miles from Lisbon.

Among the Highland Hope's passengers was Mary, Dowager Duchess of Hamilton, widow of the Twelfth Duke of Hamilton. She is seventy-six years of age. The present Duke of Hamilton is the premier peer of Scotland.

Late to-day, with the holds full of water, the vessel was a total loss. It was sinking.

BROWNLEE HAS NOT HEARD CALL FROM BENNETT

Canadian Press

Montreal, Nov. 18.—"Someone has been having a bad dream," said Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta here today when asked as to rumors he might resign as head of the Alberta Government to enter the Federal Cabinet.

The Premier added he "had heard nothing about it."

Toronto, Nov. 19. — "I have never heard of any such suggestion and I do not believe any such thing is in contemplation," was the comment of Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture of Alberta, when interviewed today with reference to the rumor published locally that Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Premier of Alberta, was about to resign to enter the Bennett Cabinet.

NAVAL SHIP TONNAGE AND GUNS DEBATED AT GENEVA

Canadian Press

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 19.—Maxim Litvinoff, Russian delegate to the Preparatory Disarmament Commission meeting, to-day moved to reduce the maximum tonnage of capital ships to 10,000 tons with 12-inch guns. The commission, however, declined to enter into the merits of the question.

The draft under consideration contains the maximum figures of the Washington Treaty—35,000 tons with 16-inch guns—as submitted by the great naval powers.

The Soviet, said Litvinoff, wished to do away with arms of offensive nations, regarding present day battleships as belonging to that class.

Viscount Cecil said the British Government favored such a move as Litvinoff suggested, but felt the Preparatory Commission was not competent to fix the figures.

The commission finally voted unanimously to remove the figures of tonnage and calibre from the draft treaty, leaving blanks for the general conference to fill.

The commission adopted article B and C of the naval draft, embodying the principles of limitation by category and the privilege of transferring part of the tonnage as in the London Treaty.

The draft finally approved allows navies under 100,000 tons freedom of transfer, with the reservation that some limit may be arranged for the percentage of tonnage which may be put into submarines.

THREE STEAMERS STAND BY AS CREW RESCUED

Men Abandon Swedish Ss. Ovidia in Two Lifeboats 400 Miles Southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, and Are Picked Up by Mauretania; U.S. Liner America, Capt. Fried, and U.S. Freighter Endicott Also Answer SOS Calls.

By Rates Raney, Associated Press Staff Writer

Ss. America, Nov. 19.—The steamship Mauretania, edging up close to the sinking Swedish steamship Ovidia this afternoon, took aboard the crew, who had abandoned the ship in two lifeboats.

Meanwhile the liner America, with Captain George Fried on her bridge, after steaming for almost ten hours in response to SOS. from the Ovidia, at a point 400 miles south by southeast of Cape Race, Nfd., stood alongside, as did the United States Shipping Board freighter Endicott.

An earlier dispatch from the liner America said:

S.S. America, Nov. 10.—An SOS signal from the Swedish steamship Ovidia, whose captain radioed the vessel was sinking 400 miles south by southeast of Cape Race, took the America off her course at 2 a.m., E.S.T., to-day to speed to the rescue of the stricken vessel, a freighter of 1,808 tons.

Capt. George Fried, the America's skipper, hero already of two ocean rescues, the Antinoe and the Florida, expected to reach the Ovidia, which was bound from Newport News to St. Nazaire, France, about 2 p.m., E.S.T., to-day.

HEAVY LIST

The Endicott is a United States Shipping Board freighter of 4,720 tons net register, operated by the Southern States Line of New Orleans, and is bound from Corpus Christi, Texas, for Bremen.

DOOR OPEN FOR TRADE IN SOUTH CHINA

With Buying Power of Millions China Has Purchased But One Per Cent From Canada

Paul Sykes, Trade Commissioner, Establishes New Lines and Predicts Big Business

Hongkong, which is he distributing point for South China, offers a receptive market for Canadian products, according to Paul Sykes, Canadian trade commissioner stationed at Hongkong, who is in the city to-day interviewing manufacturers and exporters.

In the course of an address given to the Victoria branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association this afternoon, Mr. Sykes said the South China market through Hongkong might be of almost equal benefit to Canada in trade as the great central area of China, which was reached through the port of Shanghai.

Exporters in Canada, however, must take more interest in trading with this section of China and send representatives over to study the territory as well as keeping in touch with the Canadian trade office.

Most of the import firms of Hongkong and South China were British and Chinese who favored Canadian goods, the speaker said.

MORE INITIATIVE NEEDED

Lack of initiative on the part of some Canadian houses, however, had been the cause of losing good trade opportunities.

The Canadian trade office at Hongkong, Mr. Sykes stated, was opened one and a half years ago, and within that time at least twenty new Cana-

NO COMPULSION IN VANCOUVER WORK CAMPAIGN

Criticism of Citizens' Committee Due to Misunderstanding, Says Mayor

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—Criticism by the Vancouver District Trades and Labor Council yesterday evening of the Citizen's Committee Campaign to provide 1,000,000 days' work for jobless in the city seems to be the result of a misunderstanding, according to Mayor W. H. Malkin.

"There is no idea of compulsion in the scheme at all," said the Mayor today. "What we shall try to do is to have industrial firms in Vancouver commence work which they would otherwise delay.

"If any man in steady work wishes to give one day's pay a month he may, but there is certainly no suggestion anyone will be compelled to help out. We plan to form an organization which will act as a means of obtaining employment for those out of work in Vancouver."

B.C. Force to Learn If Indians Guiding Grounded Fliers Well Equipped

Eckmann, Bringing Ill Woman South, to Meet Northbound United States Planes

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—Request that its representative at Takla Lake in northern British Columbia ascertain that the two Indian guides who set out to rescue Pilot R. I. Van der Byl and Air Engineer T. H. Cressy, marooned at Thudade Lake, were properly equipped, has been laid before the provincial police by Major D. R. Maclaren, chairman of the Vancouver advisory search committee.

Pilot Van der Byl of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria, B.C., and Air Engineer Cressy of Vancouver were left at Thudade Lake last Thursday when the Air - Land Manufacturing Company plane aboard which they were attempting to fly to Atlin was nearly frozen in. Unable to get off with a full load, the plane was flown out from the lake nearly empty by Pilot W. A. Joerss and is now back at Vancouver.

SUGGESTIONS MADE

"If the provincial police post at Takla Lake reports the rescue party is well equipped and able to bring the two men out, it will not be necessary for us to take any action," Major Maclaren said. "In any event, we are only an advisory body forme dto assist the Air-Land body formed to assist the Air-Land operations. We can only suggest. We cannot command."

DO-X EXPECTED TO-MORROW TO BE AT CORUNNA, SPAIN

Bordeaux, France, Nov. 19.—A southwesterly breeze, dispelling an early morning rain and low hanging clouds, to-day gave indications the great German flying boat DO-X would take off to-morrow morning, or possibly this evening, for Corunna, Spain, on the next lap of its projected flight to New York by way of the Azores and Bermuda.

Although the breeze, which increased in force as the day wore on, made flying conditions more favorable, it made it decidedly uncomfortable for the blue plane, moored in the Gironde River. Three times waves swept over the plane's motors, but Commander Christiansen, after a test, said they had not been affected. However, the plane was moved from close to shore to midstream.

Lisbon, Nov. 19.—Maurice Dornier to-day announced it was almost certain the projected transatlantic flight of the flying boat DO-X would be abandoned because of adverse weather al lalong the Portuguese coast and across the Atlantic.

POLICE ASKED TO AID TWO ON LONG TREK

Major Maclaren said the chief hope in the hunt for Capt. E. J. A. Burke and his two companions, missing in the Liard River district of northern British Columbia since October 11, was that the Royal Canadian Air Force would consent to send two ski-equipped planes to Atlin.

"The Department of National Defence asked us for more information regarding conditions, gasoline caches and the whole history of the case and this we have supplied," he explained.

THREE PLANES TO SEARCH

Two United States navy amphibian planes, at Seattle this morning, en route to Ketchikan, Alaska, to join the search for Pilot Robin "Pat" Renahan and his two companions, who disappeared October 28 while on the way from Vancouver to Atlin, are expected soon to join Anscel Eckmann, chief pilot of the Alaska-Washington Airways Limited, who was flying south from Ketchikan to-day to put a new motor in his seaplane. He has flown nearly 6,000 miles in his search operations out of Prince Rupert and Ketchikan.

DELAYED AT SMITHERS

Two Pacific International Airways planes which are on their way to Atlin are stormbound at Smithers, where they have been held up for six days. The planes are piloted by W. J. Barrows and Harry Blunt, and Edward A. Lowe, president of the company, and his wife are passengers.

No word was received to-day of E. L. Wasson, Treadwell-Yukon Company pilot who has been carrying on the search for the Burke party single-handed for some time. It is thought he was unable to fly Tuesday because of wintry storms in the Whitehorse, Y.T., region.

Pilot Eckmann's plane, on its flight south to have a new motor installed, is reported to be carrying a critically ill woman who was sent south to obtain emergency medical treatment.

TAXIED LONG DISTANCE

During a flight Pilot Eckmann and two companions narrowly escaped death in a blinding blizzard which forced them down in Dixon Inlet. They taxied 150 miles to safety over storm-swept seas. With Eckmann were Larry Parks and Frank Wadman.

ECKMANN AT RUPERT

Prince Rupert, B.C., Nov. 19.—Pilot Anscel Eckmann, who has played a valiant part in the hunt for Robin "Pat" Renahan and two companions missing since October 28, arrived here to-day from Wrangell, Alaska, en route to Seattle with his seaplane, the Wrangell, worn by 6,000 miles of search flying.

Eckmann came in through stormy weather, his engine giving faulty action, and is remaining here to-day to make temporary repairs. He will wait for clear weather before proceeding south.

The aviator reported continuing bad weather off the southeast of Alaska, with heavy seas in Dixon Entrance.

There have been no developments in the search for the Renahan party.

LEVINE MAY BE FREED AT VIENNA

Vienna, Nov. 19.—Vienna police to-day formally delivered Charles Levine, United States aviation enthusiast, to the superior court on charges of having prepared to counterfeit a foreign coinage.

Police said the French commission which will arrive here shortly can affect Levine's release if it declares his alleged attempts at counterfeiting would not have endangered the French monetary system.

IMMIGRATION MINISTER ON COAST TO-DAY

Gordon, as Mines Minister, Studies B.C. Coal Position; May Visit Victoria

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—What steps the Federal Government may take to aid the coast division of British Columbia's coal industry is one of the principal matters which will occupy the attention of Hon. W. A. Gordon, Federal Minister of Mines and Minister of Immigration and Colonization, during his present brief visit in Vancouver.

The Minister admitted the coal mining industry was one of his chief objectives for investigation when he arrived at the Hotel Vancouver this morning from the east. He may visit Victoria during his stay on the coast.

"I want to get a line on all angles of the situation to see if the department can render any assistance," said the minister in speaking of coal mining.

He will visit the Crow's Nest district on his way east and he has brought with him Frank Neate, secretary of the Dominion Fuel Board. Mr. Neate returned to the coast with the minister after having spent some time here within the last few weeks.

INVESTIGATION MADE

Asked about the case of Mrs. Lim Fat Chung, nineteen-year-old Vancouver Chinese mother, the order for whose deportation has caused considerable protest, Mr. Gordon, in his role of Minister of Immigration, said action had been postponed pending a thorough investigation.

"There are many of these cases," continued the minister, "and it is our duty to exercise care that no injustice is done, and, at the same time, carry out the law.

"In some of these what might be termed 'border cases,' it is necessary to exercise a great deal of care. Most of them are capable of sentimental interpretation, and officials are liable to human error; but we must not be carried away from the facts. I believe our main objective should be justice to ourselves as Canadians and justice to the immigrant."

The minister is accompanied by his wife and M. Cullen, his secretary. During his stay in Vancouver he will be a guest at the mining meetings now in progress at the Hotel Vancouver.

ALLEGES EXPLOITATION

Dr. Monje voiced his view there had been exploitation of India, at India's expense, for British profit.

Dr. Monje declared the British during 100 years of administration in India had destroyed Indian shipping and industry and the Indian cotton industry and had forced British goods on India without payment of any duty.

QUESTION OF MONOPOLIES

Taking the address yesterday of Lord Peel, former Conservative Secretary of State for India, as the text for his speech, Dr. Manje contested the earl's statement the British held no monopolies in India.

"India's fighting races, which have established empires and which are looking toward establishing empires again, were denied army commissions until ten years ago," Dr. Monje stated. "Is that a monopoly?" He then declared the Indian civil service and Indian medical service also represented British monopolies.

The Hindu leader compared Britain's devotion to India with that of a farmer to his cow. "The farmer gives devoted attention to his cow so that every morning he may take an ample supply of milk for his tea," he said. "Britain, he declared, was like the landlord who looked after his land so ample rent could be obtained."

"India wants to be a dominion within the British Empire," Dr. Monje said. "We will be satisfied with nothing less than responsible government. I want to be as free in my country as the Englishman in England, the Canadian in Canada, the New Zealander in New Zealand, the Australian in Australia. Nothing less than that is going to satisfiy me."

WITHIN COMMONWEALTH

The Maharajah of Patiala, one of the ruling princes, explained that in saying they were willing to join an all-India federation, the native princes did not contemplate any severance of the Imperial tie.

"The maintenance of the British connection," he emphasized, "is the fundamental assumption of our whole position. We look forward to the birth of a greater India.

"Whether that greater India will take the form of a United States of India or a Dominion of India, we may know more clearly before this conference comes to the conclusion of its work."

SPEAKS FOR INDEPENDENCE

Maulana Muha Mhad Ali, prominent Moslem politician who has served prison terms for his activities against British rule in India, told the conference he was committed to complete independence for India.

"I have not come to ask for dominion status," he said.

At the close of his speech, Delegate Ali turned to Premier Ramsay MacDonald, chairman, and said: "I take my seat and hope I shall not be called on to speak again until you announce India is as free as England."

Muhammed Ali, though in former years a close ally of Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, has been an opponent of the recent civil disobedience campaign in India.

PLANE WRECKAGE REPORTED FOUND ON BANKS ISLAND

Prince Rupert, Nov. 19.—An unconfirmed report that wreckage of an airplane had been sighted on Banks Island, reached here this morning and will be investigated as soon as weather conditions permit.

Banks Island is on Hecate Strait, some seventy-five miles south of Prince Rupert. Pilot Robert Renahan and two companions were reported in that vicinity in the late afternoon of October 28 after departing from Butedale Cannery en route to Prince Rupert.

WRECKED PLANE AND BODIES ARE FOUND

Glendale, Calif., Nov. 19. — Tony Schwamm, Glendale commercial aviator, reported shortly before noon today he had discovered what he believed to be the wreckage of a Pacific Air Transport plane, missing with three occupants since it left Burbank for Oakland Monday night.

Schwamm, flying one of the forty airplanes searching the Tehachipi Mountains for the misisng plane, said the apparent wreckage was in the bottom of a gully near Lebec.

TEST VOTE IN BRITISH HOUSE NEXT WEEK

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, Nov. 19.—When it produces its report on the Imperial Conference in the House of Commons, the MacDonald Government probably will face a motion of censure from the Conservative opoistion.

Discussion of the Imperial Conference is scheduled for next Wednesday in the Commons, and Lord Stanley, Conservative, Fylde, Lancashire, will move a motion regretting the government's failure to make any progress with a policy of intro-Empire trade. It will be a private member's motion, Lord Stanley having been successful in the ballot taken to decide who would move it.

STRIKERS AND POLICE FIGHT IN SEVILLE

General Strike Called There in Support of Movements in Other Spanish Cities

Seville, Spain, Nov. 19.—A general strike was called in Seville to-day, disorders following immediately when striking workmen clashed with police. Two persons were wounded.

Strike delegations visited shops and factories and dragged out workmen who did not cease their labors willingly. The two persons injured were hurt when strikers stoned a motor car on which there was a motorman and conductor.

The strike was entirely unexpected, but was called apparently in sympathy with the movements earlier this week in Madrid and Barcelona.

RIOTS AT ALICANTE

Alicante, Spain, Nov. 19.—Rioting broke out again here late this afternoon, and a dozen or more men were wounded when strikers clashed with police and civil guards. The disturbance was quickly put down, but it left business at a standstill.

The government at Madrid stated yesterday evening it had discovered a plot designed by Communist agitators to overthrow the monarchy. Sixty leaders were arrested.

Officials charged the arrested movement had as its object the establishment of a republic, with Communists working with certain Republican elements.

The government telegraphed all provincial governors and ordered them to round up strike agitators, promising those arrested would be severely punished.

SEVERAL MISSING AFTER SINKING OF STEAMSHIP

London, Nov. 19.—Lloyds to-day reported several men were missing after a collision in Antwerp Roads between the British steamer Hebble and a freighter which was sunk.

RAIL HEADS REFUSE TO CHANGE AIR BASE VIEWS

OTHER POSSIBILITY

"There is also another possibility from a shipping point of view. I am not any too sure that a flying boat, when it alights on the water, has not just as much right in any harbor, as a steam or gas boat, in which event, if flying boats are used, the problem might solve itself.

"I do feel it should be generally recognized that all citizens are anxious to do everything possible to facilitate the transportation of the two great railroad companies, but it should not be forgotten that, extensive as their joint boat services now are, they only use the harbor for relatively a few minutes every twenty-four hours."

LOSS OF DEVELOPMENT

R. H. B. Ker, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, commenting on the situation, declared that objections to the base were apparently based on imagination, rather than facts or practical experience.

"It is unfortunate for Victoria that the presidents of both the C.P.R. and C.N.R. declare their continued opposition to the use of Victoria Harbor by commercial aircraft. If their opposition is successful with the Department of Marine at Ottawa it will mean the loss of development which would be of great importance and value to this city in the future, and particularly welcome at the pesent time on account of the expenditure involved," Mr. Ker said.

"Experienced flying experts of the [illegible] Civil Aviation Department in Ottawa have announced their opinions on several occasions, after having investigated the situation thoroughly, that commercial aircraft operations in Victoria Harbor are safe and practical. In spite of these views other transportation interests visualize a lot of dangers based, not on practical facts or experience, but simply on imagination. Anyone can see dangers in any form of transportation if he allows his mind to run in those directions, but it is to be noted that apparently those who have opposing views cannot admit that they have actually been up in a modern flying machine and looked at Victoria Harbor from the air. Anyone who has not traveled on a ship could hardly be qualified to express a view as to the manoeuverability or suitability of ships in certain waters; the same argument might apply in even greater degree as regards aircraft.

BY SUITABLE REGULATIONS

"At the same time all traffic, whether land, sea or air, has to be governed by suitable regulations, otherwise accidents would occur everywhere, and particularly with ships and aircraft, the pilots and crews have to be governed by discipline so that regulations can be strictly enforced. Under those conditions, and with the wonderful control by the pilot that exists in modern aircraft, there can be no legitimate objection or undue danger in the use of Victoria Harbor by commercial flying boats or seaplanes.

SHOULD BACK MOVE

"If the citizens of Victoria want this development, as I believe they do, they should strongly back up the activities of the City Council and Chamber of Commerce in the matter, and bring every influence to bear on Ottawa.

"In view of the apparent wish of the Defence Department to keep Esquimalt Harbor closed, Victoria will be without seaplane facilities if it cannot use its own harbor.

"Incidentally, as far as the use of the harbor is concerned, it might be pointed out that the actual use of the right-of-way by shipping is only a small portion of the daylight hours, and on the few occasions when planes and ships might meet, planes could easily avoid accidents.

"As an instance of what is happening in other places, you might consider Oakland Estuary in California, where planes land daily and which is much more congested than Victoria Harbor."

SAYS MONTREAL GOVERNS

Determination of Victoria's interest by officials at Montreal was charged by Alderman W. T. Straith, chairman of the city industrial committee, in discussing the matter.

"The insistence of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce with respect to this subject has brought to light the startling fact that the management of our harbor is dependent upon the wishes of Montreal authorities," he said. "In August of this year a meeting of all parties interested in the matter, including representatives of the C.P.R., the C.N.R. and other transportation companies, the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce, and also including the agent of the Marine Department, came to the unanimous conclusion that Victoria Harbor could be used safely for both shipping and seaplanes, provided that the proper air regulations were brought into effect which would meet the local [illegible]

"In spite of this unanimous opinion of all interested parties in Victoria, the public interest of our city has been determined by the Marine Department apparently after Montreal had dictated the circumstances. The situation is all the more serious because the Marine Department, through its local agent, gave its approval of the matter [illegible]

"As the matter is still before the Minister of Marine, it is to be hoped that he will decide the matter in accordance with the public opinion of Victoria, so that Victoria's public interest shall not be determined by authorities in the east. The destiny of Victoria and her harbor should at least be in the hands of parties who have first-hand knowledge of the situation, and should not depend upon officials who are 3,000 miles from our harbor."

OPEN DOOR FOR TRADE IN SOUTH CHINA

APPLES FIND MARKET

These included British Columbia apples, which were now finding a good market and replacing the product of the United States.

There was also an increasing demand for copper and nickel alloys, which are extensively used by the Chinese for metal working.

The principal shipments from Canada at the present time were flour, salt herring, chemical fertilizer, automobiles, electrical goods, lumber and cheese. Among the score of new lines introduced within the last eighteen months was building board, for which there was a ready market in South China. There were also opportunities for moving canned salmon, and electrical appliances, although there was much competition in these products.

Reasonably priced automobiles were finding a good market and practically the entire Canadian shipments in this line went forward from Oshawa, Ont.

LOW GRADE FLOUR

When Canadian flour was of a low grade, there was always a good market for it in the trade territory covered by Mr. Sykes in China.

The salted fish market was now very poor, the operators on this side finding it unprofitable to salt it down for export, Mr. Sykes remarked.

There would be an increasing demand for ammonium sulphate, as chemical fertilizers were being used more extensively in that country.

The Island of Hongkong, which is a British colony, had a population of 1,250,000, of which 17,000 were Europeans, but South China, of which territory Hongkong was the chief import centre, embraced five provinces with a total area of 400,000 square miles and with a population of 85,000,000 people.

Of the average annual import total of $250,000,000, South China had been buying but one per cent from Canada.

Mr. Sykes believed there was room for trade expansion.

DROP IN CURRENCY

Present business conditions in China have been very seriously handicapped through the depreciation of the Chinese silver-based currency, he said. Coins formerly valued at forty-eight cents had dropped to about thirty [illegible] months.

With silver falling regularly, importers were never sure of the cost of goods on delivery, and consequently were afraid to place orders, he said.

The Nationalist government, he hoped, would stay in power. If it did, and if the currency became stable, China would regain a little prosperity, and its trade with Canada's would increase.

The Canadian Oriental trade started in Japan and extended to China. The centre had moved to central China and would eventually move to South China, the speaker said.

In closing, he voiced his confidence

DENIES REPORT OF LARGE BANK WHEAT HOLDINGS

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—"Pure bunk," exclaimed A. J. McPhail, president of the Canadian Wheat Pool, when informed here of a report that the grain market collapse was due to concentration of holdings in the hands of Canadian banks. The report, which emanated from Winnipeg, claimed the pool did not own any wheat and that prices had been deflated through uncertainty on the part of buyers as to the intentions of the banks.

The Wheat Pool president refused to comment further on the report. He said he had returned from England only a couple of days ago and was not in a position to make a public statement on the market situation as a whole.

When informed of another report to the effect that United States interests had "hedged" yesterday and the United States stabilization board had sold in Winnipeg and bought in Chicago, Mr. MacPhail said he had heard the same rumor from other sources. He was not in a position, however, either to deny or confirm the report from his own knowledge.

ITALY CUTS SALARIES

Rome, Nov. 19.—In a forceful attempt to overcome the considerable deficit shown in the current national budget, Premier Mussolini yesterday had the Council of Ministers approve a measure providing for drastic slashes in salaries of all state officials from top to bottom. The council faced a deficit of 729,000,000 lire (about $36,450,000) and admitted frankly the heaviest expenditures of the last fiscal period were for military purposes and the [illegible] of public works to relieve unemployment.

ADVERTISING OF LIQUOR IS NOW OPPOSED

B.C. Prohibition Association Passes Resolutions at Convention in Vancouver

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—Abolition of all forms of liquor advertising, holding of a referendum on the liquor question at the next provincial general election, and curtailment of the hours of licensed beer parlors were some of the things recommended by nearly 150 delegates at the annual convention of the British Columbia Prohibition Association, which ended a two-day session in Vancouver yesterday evening.

The convention recommended that until a provincial referendum could be taken no new liquor stores should be opened in the province, and that in dry constituencies petitions should be prepared according to the provisions of the Plebiscite Act, asking for referendums for abolition of government liquor stores and the repeal of the Government Liquor Act in such constituencies.

Resolutions were passed asking the government to appoint a superviser of temperance education to promote scientific temperance teaching in the schools, and to reduce the hours for beer parlors from thirteen, as at present, to eight hours a day.

It was also asked that it be made compulsory to close parlors at 7 o'clock Saturday evenings.

The government was also asked to investigate charges that, in some cases, more than one liquor permit had been issued to the same person.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Rev. Dr. W. S. Reid was elected president at yesterday's session to succeed Rev. C. J. Robson. Other officers chosen were: First vice-president, W. R. Hamilton, Vancouver; second vice-president, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, Vancouver; third vice-president, Thomas Humphreys, Victoria; fourth vice-president, E. A. Wells, Sardis; fifth vice-president, Mrs. Rex Eaton, Vancouver; sixth vice-president, Knight Harris, Armstrong.

FINANCIAL TIMES OF LONDON SEES WHEAT DISASTER

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 19.—The present downward movement of the wheat market is but a harbinger of even worse events to follow, says a gloomy article on the world wheat situation given prominence in The Financial Times.

A close scrutiny of available statistics, says The Financiay Times, reveals the world surplus is sufficiently large to prevent new crops from finding buyers for about twenty months.

The publication quotes a wheat expert as saying: "The wheat markets of the world are now confronted by a set of circumstances which could not even be equalled by the lamentable collapse of 1895. There is every possibility prices will fall below the record low level. The general position is unsound and I can visualize no recovery unless there is more financial backing forthcoming to avert a panic."

PORT ALBERNI

Special to The Times

Port Alberni, Nov. 19—The annual West Coast Hospital ball will be held on November 28 at the Community Hall. Decorations will be on an elaborate scale and refreshments will be in the hands of an expert committee. A three-tier Christmas cake iced and ornamented will be drawn for to aid the revenue required by the needs of the hospital. These arrangements were decided upon at the meeting held Friday by the members of the women's auxiliary to the hospital, under whose auspices the ball is being held.

Mrs. F. Vradenburgh, president, was in the chair, and favorable reports were submitted by Mrs. H. P. Strain, Mrs. H. Bradley, Mrs. J. B. Wood and Mrs. C. A. Manning.

Mrs. D. R. Kelly gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. H. B. Mair and Mrs. C. A. Manning were appointed joint general conveners.

Decorations will be in the hands of Mrs. J. B. Wood and Mrs. H. P. Strain. Display posters and advertising conveners are Mrs. H. B. Mair and Mrs. E. J. Cronk.

The sum of $300 was taken at the carnival and bazaar staged by the members of the Catholic Women's League on Friday at the Canadian Memorial Hall, with Mrs. McDonald as general convener. Attractive decorations of streamers of colored paper in trellis work booths added to the display of merchandise, home cooking, fancy work and candy, on sale under the convenership of Mrs. T. Spencer, Mrs. W. Barrett, Mrs. J. A. McNiff and Miss Margaret McNiff.

Teacup reading was in charge of Mrs. E. Kowalchuck, and housey housey experienced brisk business under the supervision of W. Barrett. Afternoon tea at dainty tables was in charge of Mrs. K. Glaspie and Mrs. M. MacKenzie.

Port Alberni, Nov. 19.—Complimenting Miss Honey Burke, whose marriage will take place at the beginning of next month, Miss Mamie and Miss Helen McDonald were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at their home on Wednesday evening when they entertained at three tables of bridge.

The table was centred with a novel tree of gold and wisteria blossoms, from which was suspended individual gifts from the guests.

Among those preesnt were Mrs. H. P. Estlin, Mrs. E. B. Coulthard, Mrs. G. W. Morton, Mrs. Cliff Lee, Mrs. Stanley Knowles, Mrs. Harold Haines, Mrs. Harry Welsh, Miss Nan and Miss Nell Burke and Miss Nan McCranor.

Miss Betty Hilton returned on Saturday from a visit spent at Vancouver, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D'Arcy Goldrick, formerly of Benfield.

ALBERTA PACIFIC OUT TO RECOVER STAGGERING LOSS

Calgary, Nov. 19.—While investigations are pending regarding the responsibility for the company's losses, Alberta Pacific Grain Company Limited is adequately financed to start rehabilitation and prospects for the year are that the volume of grain handled will show a fair increase over that of 1929.

This was the status of the company as outlined here yesterday at the annual meeting of shareholders in the head offices.

Shareholders re-elected the directorate and at a subsequent meeting the following officers were appointed: President, J. C. Gage; vice-president and general manager, J. R. Murray; secretary, Cecil Lamont. Directors were chosen as follows: C. W. Band, A. F. Culver, Lawrence Killam and H. E. Sellers.

On the question of C. J. Ford, K.C., representing J. W. Cook of Montreal, Mr. Gage explained to shareholders that a thorough investigation was being made of the responsibility of James Stewart, former president, in connection with purchases of stocks on a margin basis under the latter's regime. Other matters of a similar nature were being investigated, Mr. Gage declared.

Losses of the company were in the neighborhood of $2,500,000.

SEATTLE MAN IS KILLED BY FALL

Seattle, Nov. 19.—A man identified as Julius Kasper plunged seven stories from a hallway in the Frye Hotel here to his death at an early hour this morning. He was reported missing earlier by his nephew, Joe Bernbaum.

Ray Sheldon, hotel manager, said Kasper had not been a guest of the hotel.

An elevator operator said the man entered the building about midnight and ascended to the eighth floor.

Two Face Trial As Result of Death

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—Charges of manslaughter are faced by two young Winnipeg men, Herbert Warren and Earl Andrews, as the result of an automobile crash in which Robert Simpson, aged twenty-two, lost his life. Andrews was the driver of a car which crashed into an auto driven by Warren November 12.

Following an inquest on Simpson's death yesterday evening the manslaughter charges were placed against the two men, who were given their freedom on bail of $10,000 each. The coroner's jury's finding stated there was "a suggestion of liquor being partaken of by both parties, and we are of the opinion both drivers are culpable, but we are inclined to believe that of the two Herbert Warren was the more negligent."

Simpson died in a hospital shortly after the accident from a fracture of the skull and other injuries received when he was thrown onto the pavement from Warren's car as the two autos crashed.

SALVATION ARMY RULES ARE CHANGED

London, Nov. 19.—The old autocracy within the Salvation Army was dealt a severe blow yesterday when the forty-two commissioners in conference here unanimously voted to take from the commanding general the final decision in all matters disputed by subordinates except in matters of administration and appointment to rank.

A board of arbitration was brought into being to have the last word—formerly the general's prerogative—in all "misunderstandings and grievances of any description whatever" other than administrative and appointment matters.

The board will consist of five members, two to be appointed by the general, two by the officer concerned in the dispute and the fifth to be jointly selected by the first four.

Power to call a board into session is given the officer concerned or the general.

Yesterday's action curtailing the powers of the commanding general followed closely an official denial of published stories that a "rift" or a "crisis" existed in conference circles.

The communique, signed on behalf of the forty-two commissioners, also denied published stories that the United States delegates had united against General Edward J. Higgins. The statement said "the American delegates are co-operating heartily."

HOURS-OF-WORK BILL

London, Nov. 19.—The Government yesterday made public the text of its Hours of Industrial Employment Bill. It sets statutory working hours of industrial workers at eight a day and forty-eight a week. Hines, chief clerk of the local branch of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, was appointed secretary of the Vancouver School Board at a meeting of the trustees yesterday evening. Mr. Hines was born in England and has lived in Vancouver since 1910, with the exception of a period of war service overseas.

LOW PRICE MAKES WHEAT LIVESTOCK FEED AT PRESENT

Albany, N.Y., Nov. 19.—Only at infrequent intervals does the price of wheat reach a level compared with prices of other cereals that makes it a cheap livestock feed, says H. B. Morrison, head of the department of animal husbandry at Cornell University. The world wheat situation has brought about such a condition within the last few months, he says.

"The chief differences between wheat and corn," explains the expert, "are in amounts of protein and fat. Wheat is decidedly richer in protein than corn, containing, on the average, 12.4 per cent crude protein to 9.6 per cent in corn. The protein content of wheat varies much more, however, than does that of corn, because it is profoundly influenced by the climate where the wheat is grown."

While wheat excels in protein content, corn contains much more fat or oil than does wheat, according to Mr. Morrison, the average percentage of fat being 2.1 per cent in wheat and 4.8 per cent in corn. This richness of corn in fat or oil is one reason why it is so well liked by stock, the expert believes. Its concentrated nature and lowness in fibre makes wheat rank high in total digestible nutriments. Wheat, on the average, provides 80.1 pounds of digestible nutrients for each 100 pounds, in comparison with 81.7 pounds for corn, 79.4 barley and 70.4 pounds for oats.

For fattening cattle, says Mr. Morrison, ground wheat is about equal to corn, pound by pound. It is superior to ground corn for fattening swine, and it may be used as the only grain. Wheat is excellent for fattening lambs and is about equal to corn and slightly better, pound for pound, than barley. It is good for horses, but should be ground or crushed, and enough bulky feed must be included to avoid trouble from colic.

DISEASE AND PREVENTION

IT IS NOT POSSIBLE TO ERADICATE A disease by individual cures; but it can be wiped out by prevention. It would be money in the pockets of the taxpayers if they realized the importance of preventing disease. This was the underlying theme of Dr. H. E. Young's important address yesterday to the Kiwanis Club, which is about to send out its T.B. seals to the community.

Taking tuberculosis as an example, Dr. Young declared there were thousands of victims unable to obtain cures who were unaware of the menace they were to people with whom they came in contact, a condition, however, now being remedied as rapidly as possible as funds were made available by such movements as that which the Kiwanis Club sponsors each year in the sale of Christmas seals. But it still had to be remembered, Dr. Young pointed out, that institutions for the cure of disease in British Columbia entailed as much expenditure as the province's whole educational system.

To illustrate the value of preventive work, such as the examination of suspects, Dr. Young told his audience that of 230 cases with no apparent symptoms of tuberculosis examined recently, eighteen were in the positive stage, and were spreading the disease without knowledge of it. Directly related to the arguments he advanced, of course, are the comparative statistics for the last two years and what an extension of the preventive work has revealed: They follow:

	1928-29	1929-30
Total examinations	991	1,779
Re-examinations	290	557
New cases	701	1,222
Positive T.B. (new)	117	186
T.B. (non-pulmonary)	10	34
Suspects	95	137
Non-T.B.	479	865

It will be observed from the above that the number of examinations practically doubled in one year, revealing, by the same token, an increase in the number of new cases. But it also will be observed that where 479 in the year 1928-29 had their fears dissipated, 865 were placed in the non-T.B. class in 1929-30. Here is a telling argument in favor of preventive, or educational, work. It enables suspects to get advice in time and positive cases to receive proper treatment and training so as to benefit themselves and remove the menace they are to the health of those with whom they come in contact as long as they remain uninstructed in their habits.

Funds from the sale of Christmas seals have been allocated from time to time for the purpose of assisting persons who may be suspicious of their condition to get expert examination. This is a considerable undertaking in more ways than one. There is always on the part of some the fear of being told to be true what they have suspected. And it is not a simple matter to persuade them that they have little to fear if they will only follow instructions.

Dr. Young's idea—and it should appeal to the practical as well as the humanitarian mind—is the division of the province into districts with a medical man who has specialized in tuberculosis and a nurse in charge. As a case in its incipient stage is discovered, he would have it removed for institutional treatment, while the nurse would give her instruction in the home from which the patient came. All this would cost money; but it would mean the saving each year of more of our producing assets—our citizens.

The fact that will not be downed is that there are 330 beds at Tranquille Sanatorium and between 4,000 and 5,000 cases of tuberculosis in British Columbia at the present time—and the annual death rate is more than 400!

BRITAIN AND THE U.S.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT FIGURES, lamentations of politicians thirsty for office, and dismal forebodings from London, that vast citadel of gloom which never permits itself to enjoy for a fleeting moment the luxury of optimism, have created in many quarters abroad, and no doubt at home, an impression that Great Britain is reeling into the late Mr. Mantalini's "demnition bow-wows." It is refreshing, therefore, to observe from a comparison of economic conditions in Great Britain and the United States made by R. J. Deachman, of Ottawa, that the republic has suffered much more from world-wide depression than the Old Country.

The exports of Great Britain during the first seven months of 1929, amounted to £424,261,977. During the corresponding period of 1930, exports totaled £355,597,725. There was, therefore, in this period a decline of exports of £68,664,252. To make it slip easier on the tongue on this side of the water, let us state it in dollars and say that in the seven months ending July last, exports from Great Britain were $334,000,000 less than they were in the corresponding period of 1929. Put on a percentage basis, this represents a decline of 16.2 per cent.

Turning now to the United States, Mr. Deachman finds that during the first seven months of 1929, their domestic exports totaled $2,972,313,000, and during the corresponding period of 1930, the total was $2,301,842,000, a decline of $670,471,000. Putting this on a percentage basis exports from the United States declined 22.6 per cent.

Both countries record declines in the volume of exports of manufactured goods. The world's purchasing power has fallen off. Great Britain's exports of manufactured products fell from £337,260,901 in the first seven months of 1929 to £279,280,082 in the corresponding period of 1930. This is a decline of £57,980,819, or putting it upon a percentage basis it represents a decline in exports during this period of 17.2 per cent. During the same period United States exports of manufactured goods declined from $2,290,964,000 to $1,800,572,000, a drop of $490,392,000, or a decline in this period of 21.4 per cent.

In Mr. Deachman's opinion, the United States is approaching a new economic era in which stern facts must be taken into consideration. For years that country has been the world's main source of cotton supply. The situation has changed. The production of cotton outside the United States has increased to such an extent that both absolutely and relatively the outside production shows marked gains over the product of the United States. During the six months ending July 31, last, less than one-half of the world's consumption was supplied by the United States.

These, Mr. Deachman believes, are definite and specific instances of the new era, but there is another process going on even more noticeable. The United States has an extremely high tariff. That tariff has antagonized the leading nations of the world. Protests were entered by thirty nations. Many countries have set up their own tariffs in answer to the United States tariff. As a result, United States industries have been setting up plants in the countries of continental Europe in order to get inside the tariff walls. This tends to decrease United States exports. The factories abroad intensify competition for the home plants. Ford has his factories in England and on the continent. Other large automobile companies are following his example. Large agricultural implement establishments have built their foreign factories. United States exports of automobiles fell off during the first eight months of the year, from $457,244,000 to $244,103,000. Slowly, but surely, United States policy is reacting upon the American people, lessening employment, restricting business and bringing the United States people face to face with some very real problems.

Against this may be placed some factors which seem to improve the position of Great Britain. Britain is an importer of raw materials—an exporter of finished products. During the past year raw materials, including foods, have declined much more than manufactured goods. The blow has fallen heavily on countries like the United States, Canada, Australia, Brazil and the Argentine, which are large producers and exporters of raw materials. The price decline means a tremendous saving to Great Britain. In the nine months ending September 30, Great Britain's bill for these products will be £99,129,471 less than in the same period last year—a tremendous saving. In any calculation of the British position, cognizance must be taken of the fact that Great Britain is still the world's greatest foreign investor and that her foreign investments total $20,000,000,000 against United States foreign investments of $13,000,000,000.

During the past year, the actual net credit balance of the United Kingdom, available for investment abroad, was greater than that of any other country and exceeded that of the United States by fifty per cent. This is accomplished, too, on a wage scale very definitely higher than the wage scale of any country in Europe. So basically favorable is the British position, Mr. Deachman concludes, that it would not be surprising to see the beginning of world improvement manifest itself first in Great Britain.

TROUBLED SPAIN

ONLY A WEEK OR SO AGO THE REpublican party in Spain organized a great meeting in Madrid, at which nearly 20,000 persons were present, and the leader of the movement called upon King Alphonso to leave the country quietly "while there is time." His consort and two of the children are already holidaying in Britain; but the monarch himself evidently does not see any reason why he should accept the invitation which has been extended to him by the party hostile to him.

Since the mass demonstration took place in the Spanish capital conditions seem to have grown worse. The country now is in the throes of an industrial crisis, with strikes prevalent in many sections, while frequent clashes between the military and the populace indicate the seriousness of the situation.

The significant feature of the new developments was the well-organized gathering in the capital recently. These were not the deliberations of a frenzied mob. In all the reports emphasis was laid upon the orderliness of the proceedings and the restraint which all the speakers exercised. There seemed to be no deep-rooted antipathy to the king himself; but merely a desire, on the part of intelligent and law-abiding citizens, to displace the system under which they think Spain has lagged behind in the march of progress. Hence the request that Alphonso leave the country quietly "while there is time."

APPROVES COAL BAN

The Halifax Herald

The "Soviet Menace" is not just a meaningless phrase. It is very real, and serious. And the best way to combat it, to prevent its intrusion into Canda, is the sane plan now adopted by the Federal Government—the banning of the importation of Russian coal, under agreement with the Canadian importers. This action of the Government should commend itself to the Canadian people generally, and especially to Nova Scotia and other coal producing provinces where it will ultimately mean increased employment of our own Canadian miners.

THE FREE TRADE FETISH*

Wickham Steed in The Review of Reviews (London)

The increases of taxation which Mr. Snowden imposed in his last budget have checked industrial enterprise and tended to increase unemployment. They have also driven abroad large amounts of British capital which will hardly return until the policy of the Exchequer is changed. Thus Mr. Snowden is losing assets and increasing liabilities. . . . If Mr. Snowden stands fast in defence of the fetish of orthodox "Free Trade" he may split the Labor Party from top to bottom and play into the hands of the Conservatives.

WINTER AND UNEMPLOYMENT

The New York World

Even if business improvement in the next few months should surpass all expectations, only a portion of the unemployed will be able to find jobs before the end of winter, and in some districts, as in the bituminous coal fields, for example, the immediate prospect is anything but cheerful. THE NEW EXODUS; FROM PRAIRIE TO THE BLUE PACIFIC

ALEX H. SUTHERLAND

We found ourselves approaching the venerable age of sixty, when we were advised that, as the bank was celebrating its jubilee year, we might retire ahead of time, if we so wished.

A very few days sufficed to place our effects in storage and we on our way to visit for the first time the historic and scenic points in eastern Canada.

How good it was to feel the fresh air and the smooth level road slipping past at an almost incredible pace. Only in dreams had we ever thought it possible to be freed from the daily grind, and now we had to reassure ourselves each morning that we did not have to report at the office.

Oh! the wonders of Niagara, Montmorency, Chaudiere, and the ever recurring beauties of orchard, hill and lake, so different from the wide reaches of the level plain with its own soft attraction of poplar groves and countless flowers.

On our return we decided that Victoria was the only suitable place for wealthy, retired bankers, and leaving the wife to come on by train, we again set forth with the car to locate at least a temporary home.

What advice we listened to—we would never speak it. It is so terrifying and different from the level prairie roads. Uncle Wilson had taken eleven days to come in a big Packard from Seattle and had shipped his car back rather than go through the experience twice. Well, here we were in Victoria in less than five days, but, say, talk about enjoying the scenery on the way. It was a burlesque, and we are still in our dreams going round and round precipices on a road four-inches wide and we forced our hearts back down our throats at least a million times.

We had never concealed our doubts of ever reaching the heavenly pastures, but if the celestial city is not around some of the mountain peaks we climbed, then we must have passed it on our way up.

So we found ourselves facing a doubting sister, whom we had awakened in the evening hours and so knew that we must indeed be in Victoria.

We were scarcely seated to the accustomed tea and toast, when we were told—"Katie McKissock and the Tait girls were inquiring to-day when I expected you to arrive, and Mr. Houston was calling up. His brother wrote him that you were coming. There is a Mr. Broderick here who was asking about you. He worked in the same bank." Of course it could be no other than the genial Arthur and we hastened to call him at his snug club-rooms. Yes, the old gang are all here, Vibert, Chandler, Alex Lowe and Dick Alleyn. Pierson and his two brothers have come out and you will remember Christie of Brandon. Oh! there are shoals of Winnipegers.

When the wife arrived a few days later, after a two day's visit in Vancouver, it started all over again. It was—"I was at the Vancouver Hotel for tea with Mrs. Currie's sister Edith, and say, half the city or more are from Manitoba. I heard of the Shores and the Shepherds, the Callanders, Smiths, Reids, McKenzies, Taylors, Lyalls, Hartricks and ever so many more that I cannot remember and did not even get a minute to visit my cousins, the Greigs, though sister Jen told me about the Kerrs and the Allardyces. We must take a day off some time and go over and spend a month looking up some of them.

We were not unpacked when the door-bell rang and who should be there but Annie Kerr Logan. Hello, Mary! I saw a Manitoba license on your car and simply had to find out who you were. Why, yes, we came out last spring and live just around the corner. Must have a tea for you next week and have in a few 'Peggers. The town is simply alive with them. You will know the Nields surely. They are just down by the beach.

So it wnt—Pattersons and Calverts, McDonalds and Flemings, McCarthy's and Langs, Hyndmans and Pinfolds, Mathesons, Gunns, etc., on and on in endless procession.

In the meantime, after a rather sketchy introduction to the various golf courses where we read the lists of members—Merricks, Allens, Adamsons, etc.—until we could scarcely believe that we were not out at St. Charles or Birds Hill, we were introduced to the intricacies of salmon fishing.

Our last fishing had been unimaginable years ago when we were summoned from the lure by an anxious mother and reminded that we would be late for the ceremony if we did not hurry, and as it was our wedding day it was rather important that we be on hand.

Our first attempt was at catching grilse and the old boyish thrill returned at the first sudden jerking of the line. Our companion, however, got a real strike a moment later. We saw a great streak of silver leap out of the water. The slight line snapped and one more fifty pounder was added to the long list of uncaught fish.

Our sporting blood was at fever height and we could scarcely wait to get back to the city for rod and line, as we were determined that our captures, mark the plural, were to be made on a purely sporting basis.

We pass painfully over the first long day, which yielded never a nibble, but on the second we were suddenly brought to our feet by a yank that almost had us out of the boat. A few minutes tense struggle and we were dismayed by our reel flying from the rod. Our effort to replace it was rewarded by a sudden snap and the disappearance of five hundred feet of steel wire.

We did not mind that so much, but, oh, that 60 pound fish! Our nephew Chance's consolation — "If you could recover the hundredth part of the tackle in the bottom of the bay and put it in the boat, you would have to swim ashore," had little effect and next day we were back again with a reel that a tractor could not pull loose. But alas, another desperate struggle, and, with unpracticed hands and skinned knuckles we contributed 300 feet of line to the sea and the prosperity of Peden Bros.

Again we were reduced to fish for grilse with our abbreviated line, but imagine our excitement when we got another strike from a real salmon. Out of the water he would leap, now circling the boat in long sweeps, now deep [illegible] light line, but at last the frail tackle had him alongside and our first cohoe was landed.

Believe it or not, that was the first living thing we had met on the island that had not come from Manitoba, and I have a sneaking suspicion that, at that, it might be some relation of somebody on Portage Avenue.

While we were examining our prize, Chance exclaimed, "See who is looking you over now" and turning to the shore we beheld a great round face perched on a long slender neck and staring at us with large solemn eyes.

We had never seen a hairless seal and could only gasp in astonishment, "Bless my soul, if it isn't old Mrs . . . of . . . Street, as she turned up after having her hair bobbed," and we reached for the locker, but Chance was ahead of us again and we barely caught sight of the empty bottle as it disappeared overboard.

At any rate we are completely in love with the beautiful island and its delightful climate, which is not lessened in the least by the gentle raillery constantly on our lips.

Even as we write we can hear the better-half at the phone razzing a new acquaintance—"How long do you leave a washing out here until it dries, I thought you said that it only rained in Victoria at night," etc., which was capped by the observation of our Vancouver cousin visitor last week, who assured up that she liked Victoria very much if it were not for the terrible fogs, with which we instantly agreed, to the dismay of our various relatives, who frantically refuted the outrageous calumny.

In any event the effect has been so disastrous as to bring on another attack of versifying:

Victoria

Draped in her mantle of green and brown,
Queen of her spacious bays,
Unheeding the swift world's tragic frown,
The slow-eyed, leisurely, lovable town
Clings to her ancient ways.

A flame of gold sweeps over the sky
Where the wild Olympics range.
Their craggy crests upreared on high
Through tireless centuries defy
The challenge of time and change.

In the light of the rising moon.
Beneath the quaint arbutus trees
We sip the scent of the salt-sea breeze
'Til darkness comes too soon.

Go forth, ye bargainers of the mart,
Ye truckers of trade and gain.
Your greed is a pitiful thing apart.

FIRST ORCHARDS

To the Editor:—You have had several letters about the first orchards in British Columbia. To-day we include Vancouver Island in speaking of British Columbia. There were several orchards in and around Victoria previous to dates given. I came to Victoria in 1864. Mr. Jos. Trutch, afterwards Sir Joseph Trutch, Lieutenant-Governor, had an orchard on Vancouver Street and Fairfield Road, and there was another on the other side of Fairfield Road. There was also, if memory serves me right, an old orchard on the Work estate. Harry King, on the Church Farm, Cedar Hill, had two or three acres which he must have planted in 1863. I worked for him in 1864, and they had been then a year or two old at that time. By the way, who introduced broom into British Columbia? It was on King's place I first noticed it. Mr. King had been connected with the Veitch Seed Company of London, England, before he came to British Columbia.

Inter-provincial Trade Increase For Farmers Is Purpose of New Measures

Provincial Ministers of Agriculture, Meeting Federal Minister in Toronto, Decide Conference Will Be Annual Event

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 19.—The development of interprovincial marketing and agreement for closer co-operation in the collecting of information beneficial to agriculture marked the first of what was unanimously decided would be an annual conference of Ministers of Agriculture here yesterday.

Domestic freight rates were deemed the greatest obstacle in the way of the great possibilities of interprovincial trade in the products of the farms. It was decided to study all possible data in this connection with a view to arriving at a solution that would encourage interprovincial marketing and afford in some measure immediate relief to the farmers.

SPREADING INFORMATION

The machinery of the provincial Departments of Agriculture was placed at the disposal of the Federal Department of Agriculture for the dissemination of approved agricultural policies. It was also agreed each provincial department would submit to the Federal department any discoveries made which would be of benefit to agriculture as a whole, thus making the Federal department a clearing house for information.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS AID

The importance of agricultural education in keeping farmers abreast of the time was discussed. In this connection the Federal Department offered to give provincial agricultural schools the use of experimental farms and their staffs.

Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, announced he proposed calling two conferences, one of the Ministers of Agriculture in the west and another of the Ministers of Agriculture in the east, to deal with problems of peculiar interest to those sections of the country.

The conference yesterday was called for a twofold purpose by Hon. Robert Weir—first, to discuss Federal and provincial agricultural policies with a view to eliminating wastage through overlapping, and, secondly, to make a complete survey of the conditions of farmers through Canada.

Other matters discussed included the question of a national livestock policy for Canada and whether or not grants paid to exhibitions resulted in a proportionate return to agriculture. No decision was announced on these questions.

Every province was represented at the conference and the delegates were unanimous in their decision to make the conference an annual affair.

THOSE PRESENT

Those who attended the conference were:

Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture; Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture of British Columbia; Hon. G. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture of Alberta; Hon. W. C. Buckle, Minister of Agriculture of Saskatchewan; Hon. A. Prefontaine, Minister of Agriculture of Manitoba; Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture of Ontario; J. A. Grenier, Deputy Minister of Agriculture of Quebec; Dr. R. P. Roy, Director of Extension, Quebec; Hon. Lewis Smith, Minister of Agriculture of New Brunswick; Hon. O. P. Goucher, Minister of Natural Resources of Nova Scotia, and Hon. Walter M. Lea, Premier and Minister of Agriculture of Prince Edward Island.

MODERATOR DUE HERE THURSDAY

Dr. Frank Baird, Head of Presbyterian Church, to Be Greeted at Function

Presbyterians of Victoria will gather at St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening to greet Rev. Frank Baird, M.A., D.D., Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, who is expected to arrive in this city to-morrow.

The gathering on Friday evening will be held under the auspices of the Session and Women's Guild, and will be in the form of a reception.

On Sunday morning Dr. Baird will occupy the pulpit at St. Andrew's Church for the 11 o'clock service. Arrangements are also being made for him to make further addresses while in the city. Owing to the short notice it has not been possible to extend formal invitations to the Friday evening gathering, but all Presbyterians of Victoria are asked to attend the function.

BECOMES BRIDE VANCOUVER MAN

Miss Lavada Rowe Wed at St. Barnabas to Hugo L. Pallantier

St. Barnabas Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday evening, November 18, at 8.15 o'clock, when Rev. N. E. Smith united in marriage Lavada, daughter of Mr. Peter Rowe, Beckley Avenue, and Mr. Hugo L. Pallentier of Vancouver. For the happy occasion, friends of the bride had decorated the church with mauve and white chrysanthemums and autumn foliage. The guest pews were denoted by large white tulle bows.

As the bridal party entered the church, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by the organist, Mr. J. E. Watson. The bride, given in marriage by her father, made a charming picture in her wedding gown of white moire, with which she wore an embroidered veil of tulle and coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of Calla lilies, tied with silver streamers.

Attending the bride was Miss Margery after wearing a gown of peach taffeta, with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of chrysanthemums in mauve and amber tones. Little Phyllis Hearle was the winsome flower girl, in a quaint frock and poke bonnet of ruffled peach taffeta, and carried a colonial bouquet.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. J. Pallentier, and the ushers were Mr. L. Rowe and Mr. J. E. Dentith Jr. During the signing of the register, Mr. G. H. Llewellyn sang "Because," accompanied at the organ by Mr. J. E. Watson.

Following the service at the church a reception was held at the home of Mrs. L. B. Carter, 129 Simcoe Street, where a large number of guests assembled to extend their good wishes to the happy couple, who stood beneath an arch, decorated with white tulle and fernery. As the guests arrived they were received by Mrs. Carter, assisted by Mrs. J. Pallentier.

The bride cut the wedding cake at a table arranged with silver vases and white blossoms and silver sconces holding ivory tapers, tied with silver bows and silver and white streamers. Similar decorations were used throughout the reception rooms.

After a motor trip to Up-Island points, Mr. and Mrs. Pallentier will make their home in Vancouver.

Writes Biography Of Daughter Of Duchess Of York

London, Nov. 19.—If the movies need an offstage voice representing bears or tigers, or sea lions, they might try applying to the King and Queen of England for the services of their four-year-old granddaughter, the Princess Elizabeth.

In a biography of the little daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York—probably one of the first biographies with so young a subject—her liking for animal imitation is revealed.

After her first visit to the Zoo the Princess came home to practice, with evident delight, all the squeals, roars and whinnies she had heard.

"Its the quaintest thing in the world," writes Anne Ring, the biographer, who formerly was in the household of the child's parents, "to see her sitting on a stool at home, producing from somewhere under her white bodice the hollow, hungry bark of a sea lion at feeding time."

First United W.M.S. In Busy Session

A beautiful opening service along the line of proportionate giving, led by Mrs. McKillop, Christian stewardship secretary, marked the November meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of First Church United. Mrs. McIntyre, the president, emphasized the splendid work of the Y.W.C.A. and spoke of the new branch in Jerusalem of that enterprising institution, closing her remarks in a prayer used by the Y.W.C.A. in their recent world prayer week.

A nominating committee to suggest officers for the coming year was appointed by Mrs. McIntyre, consisting of Mesdames R. W. Mayhew, Drake, Calvert and MacLennan.

The society warmly welcomed Mrs. Travis back on a visit from Pouce Coupe in Peace River country, and enjoyed a brief recital of her experiences. Mrs. Mayhew took up the concluding chapter in the study book: "From Jerusalem to Jerusalm," called "An Unfinished Task." She gave a clearly forcible resume of the chapter, showing how many millions there are who have never heard the Gospel—Arabians, Indians of Mexico and South America, and the Jews, persecuted and scattered. A call was made for greater effort on behalf of these.

The treasurer, Mrs. Campbell, reported the quarter's collections up to the mark and Mrs. McLennan, Presbyterial secretary, said the societies were all measuring up well, the stronger ones supplying what the weaker ones lacked. The meeting closed with a prayer for sick members by Mrs. W. G. Wilson.

I.O.D.E. AWARDS POST-GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIP

Frank S. Morley, B.A., Reappointed Overseas Scholar; Award Valued $1,600

Brilliant Young U.B.C. Graduate Now at Edinburgh University

Frank Selkirk Morley, B.A., was yesterday awarded the annual $1,600 I.O.D.E. post-graduate overseas scholarship by the British Columbia committee of selection. Mr. Morley is at present at Edinburgh University, holding the 1930-31 scholarship, and his is a reappointment by the I.O.D.E., such reappointment being within the discretion of the Provincial committee, whose personnel includes: Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Provincial president; Mrs. Andrew Wright, elected I.O.D.E. member; the Bishop of Columbia, Judge Lampman, Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of education; B. C. Nicholas, member board of governor U.B.C.; F. J. Brand, B.Sc. (Oxon), and Miss A. B. Cooke, Provincial educational secretary of the I.O.D.E. and convener of the committee.

SON OF LATE OFFICER

Mr. Morley is the son of Second-Lieut. F. W. Morley, who enlisted with a Kingston regiment then transferred to the East Kents, the Buffs, and was killed at Lille in October, 1918. Three of his uncles also served overseas, two being wounded and one seriously gassed.

Young Morley took his degree of B.A. at the University of British Columbia with honors in history, 1930, and was awarded the I.O.D.E. overseas scholarship of $1,600 for 1930-31. He chose Edinburgh University and is proceeding to the degree of Ph.D. over a period of two years, writing a thesis on "British Opinion of the Development of the Commonwealth," under the direction of Professor A. Berridale Keith, one of the greatest scholars in Imperial history. Mr. Morley intends returning to Canada to enter the Presbyterian Church.

This is the second time that a post-graduate scholarship has been granted a B.C. student for the second year, and such reappointment is at the discretion of the Provincial committee.

AMOUNT INCREASED

The value of the scholarship is $1,600 and is tenable for one year in any university in the Old Country, the selection being made by the student.

From 1920-1929 the value was $1,400 and between fifty and sixty awards were made in the Dominion—seven of which were in British Columbia.

The amount of the scholarship was increased by resolution at the national annual meeting of I.O.D.E. this year, when at the same time $500 a year was set aside to assist with the traveling expense of the students from the four western provinces. These scholarships form the permanent war memorial of the order, a sufficent capital sum being invested to assure nine scholarships annually of at least $1,400. The value is set from time to time, according to rate of interest received in invested capital—provision having been made to assure it never falling below $1,400 a year.

GIRL FLIER TO MARRY

Married? Well, despite their reticence regarding the ceremony, a marriage license at least has been issued to Amelia Earhart, above, ocean flier and aviation businesswoman, and George Palmer Putnam, below, New York publisher. In applying for the license at Groton, Conn., Putnam gave his age as forty-two, and Miss Earhart as thirty-two. The publisher was divorced from his first wife in September of this year.

REBECCA WEST MARRIED

Her name, according to the register at St. James's Church, in England, was Cicely Fairchild, but it was as Rebecca West that she won international fame as a novelist. Now, however, she is Mrs. Henry Andrews, for she is pictured here after her marriage to the London banker at her side. The name Rebecca West was chosen from a character in Ibsen's play, Resmersholm," in which she appeared in London at the age of seventeen.

WANTS ACT FOR LAZY HUSBANDS

Rev. Ada Tonkin Suggests They Go to Prison and Earnings to Wives

New Westminster, Nov. 19.—"There should be a lazy husbands' act in British Columbia whereby men who refuse to work could be sent to prison and given employment and their earnings sent to the wives," said Rev. Mrs. Ada Tonkin, Vancouver police superintendent, in addressing the Kiwanis Club here yesterday in Queen's Avenue United Church Hall on work of Vancouver police women.

"There also should be a domestic relations court where such matters could be dealt with in private," Mrs. Tonkin went on. "We need a new industrial home for girls. In the present institution there are no proper facilities for segregation and trades are not taught property.

OAKALLA DEFICIENCIES

"At Oakalla Prison farm, women inmates' feet never touch the ground. They are forced to use a roof for their exercise. A prison farm for woman only is a necessity at the present time.

"We spend enormous sums on asylums. In spite of that a properly equipped psychopathic hospital is badly needed. A drug addict hospital should also be established where experts would work on the drug question and give addicts adequate treatment."

U.B.C. CHAIR OF HOME SCIENCE IS AGAIN URGED

Mrs. C. de V. Schofield Tells Women's Canadian Club of Value of Such Endowment

Describes Women's Work With Head and Hands in Great Britain

Do you realize that if you had a chair of household economics in the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, it would open the door to a great deal in the way of arts and crafts which could be developed in this province," said Mrs. C de V. Schofield in her address on "Accomplishments of Women With Their Heads and Hands," the title chosen by her to designate her delightful account of her trip abroad given yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, held in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, which in anticipation of Mrs. Schofield's talk, was filled to capacity.

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES

The development of the cottage industries in England and the different types of work taught in the Women's Institutes were outlined by Mrs. Schofield, ranging from bulb farming, pottery, weaving, etc., to the making of gloves, a pair of which, made by Mrs. Schofield while in England, was exhibited to the audience. In paying tribute to the work shown in the exhibition of the Arts and Crafts Society in Victoria recently, Mrs. Schofield stated that the exhibits compared most favorably with those she had seen in England, and in some instances, were infinitely better. Teachers in the cottage industries and Women's Institutes in England visited by Mrs. Schofield urged her, upon her return, to stress upon the women of Canada the development of their arts and crafts on Canadian lines, to make their own designs and to promote the Indian patterns in their work.

SOCIAL SERVICE

While in England, Mrs. Schofield made a study of the method adopted in social service work and in the treatment of mentally deficient children. In London, there are twenty-eight social service centres, all of which are managed entirely by women, while one centre is in charge of a Victoria girl, Miss R. Hartley. Mrs. Schofield cited the redemption of slum areas in London, one of which was the district behind Euston Station, which had been rebuilt with houses fitted with bathrooms, proper plumbing, and where clubhouses and a model "pub" had been established by Father Jellicoe, as well as a nursery school, where working mothers could leave their small children during their working hours. Schools have been established throughout England for the various classes of the mentally unfit, with trained attendants in charge, and great strides have been made in the treatment of these unfortunates, said Mrs. Schofield.

Touching on the matter of the "dole" system, she said it had been absolutely essential for the existence of mothers and children in England, who would have starved without it, although, like many other instances of beneficial legislation, it had been much abused.

In reference to the large number of women doctors engaged in the work of social hygiene in England, Mrs. Schofield stated that women were coming into their own in the profession of medicine.

SCENES EN ROUTE

Scenes en route to Europe and in the cities on the continent visited by Bishop and Mrs. Schofield were described by the speaker. A unique scene was witnessed while passing through the Culebra Cut in the Panama Canal, when early one morning a cloud was seen in the sky, shaped like the letter "S," while on closer observation was found to be a cloud of birds in their migration north.

Places visited in Italy and France were described by Mrs. Schofield, who singled out Florence as the most beautiful city and one to which she intended to return at some later date again to enjoy its beauties.

LAMBETH CONFERENCE

The Lambeth Conference in London was touched upon by Mrs. Schofield, who said it would be a long day before women would be allowed in that august body. While the Anglican Bishops from all over the world were in attendance at this conference, their wives, instead of idling away their time in Bond Street and Piccadilly, were studying serious problems at Westfield College, North London, where trained experts addressed them. Here contacts were made with a number of interesting people, one of whom was the wife of the Bishop of Nigeria, a charming, cultured native woman, whose English was perfect, the speaker observed.

DONATION OF $100

It has been brought to the attention of the larger Canadian Clubs in British Columbia that a number of the clubs in the small towns are suffering from a dearth of speakers for their meetings, and to assist these clubs $100 was granted at the meeting yesterday, the same to be applied to Canadian Clubs on Vancouver Island to enable them to procure speakers.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. William Ellis, who had convened ten corners allotted to the Canadian Club in the collection of funds for the Armistice Period.

Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, president of the club, presided, and the vote of thanks to Mrs. Schofield was made by Mrs. J. W. Gibson, the verbal expression being supplemented by a sheaf of roses.

District W.C.T.U.—The monthly meeting of the District W.C.T.U. will be held at the Y.W.C.A. on Friday at 3 o'clock.

YOUNG WIFE STRENGTHENED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bancroft, Ontario—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had been married about a year and my strength was leaving me on account of my condition. I was only 19 and it was my first child. My mother told me I needed something to steady my nerves and a girl chum told me to take the Vegetable Compound. I am so thankful I did because it strengthened my whole system and now I feel perfectly well and have a sweet little baby boy."—Mrs. J. B. Stalker, Bancroft, Ontario.

Woolworth Heiress and Tobacco Magnate's Daughter to Make Bow to Society

Don's Duke to Inherit $50,000,000 and Barbara Hutton $60,000,000

New York, Nov. 19.—Two of the richest heiresses in the United States are making their bows to New York society this winter in the splendor which wealth bestows.

Doris Duke, golden-haired and blue-eyed, who inherits from her father, James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, a fortune variously estimated from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, has already stepped into the limelight with a presentation at Buckingham Palace and an initial debut at her family estate in Newport this summer.

"NICKEL AND DIME" HEIRESS

Barbara Hutton, dark-haired granddaughter of Frank W. Woolworth, and heiress to the estimated $60,000,000 which he gleaned from a chain of nickel and dime emporiums, will make her first bow December 22, at a ball in the new Hotel Pierre in New York.

Both have been quietly, though luxuriously, reared; both are eighteen; both possess simplicity and charm of manner, and both will move in a brilliant spotlight on which the eyes of the world are focused.

The spotlight flashed on Doris Duke five years ago with her father's death when, as a slim girl of thirteen, she became known as the heiress to the vast wealth which he founded on tobacco and increased in the aluminum industry.

A Fifth Avenue home, appraised with its contents at $1,600,000, a 2,000 acre estate at Somerville, N.J., the family home "Rough Point" at Newport, R.I., a private Pullman car with "Doris" gilded on the panelling, motor cars and horses were among the things included in that wealth.

SIMPLE TASTES

Yet, a few months later, when she and her mother sailed for Europe, they selected a first cabin, entirely lacking the ostentation of a suite. Camera men, who hadn't the ghost of an idea who she was, were attracted by the girl's smile as she watched celebrites being photographed before departure and asked to take her picture. They discovered her identity only when that ceremony was over.
smile as she watched celebrities being plays tennis, and as a child dashed up and down the New Jersey country roads on a Shetland pony, which is now replaced by a saddle horse. Recently she joined a dancing class with other sub-debs and could be found several mornings a week clogging away for dear life.

PRESENTED TO ROYALTY

Last spring she donned white satin gown and ostrich feathers and made her bow before King George and Queen Mary.

Then came her debut at her home in Newport. A large marquee, lined with smilax and hung with baskets of golden gladioli, received the 600 guests, while trees and gardens were flooded with colored lights and searchlights played over the waves that broke against the shore near her home.

This winter she will join a throng of almost 300 debutantes and will be the guest of honor at a number of the festivities which go to make the New York debutante season the gayest in America.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

IS YOUR CHILD CONSTANTLY DEMANDING ENTERTAINMENT?

Many of our modern, intelligent children are singularly lacking in ingenuity. They seem unable to "think up" amusements for themselves, and depend upon adult inspiration and adult-conceived amusements for their entertainment.

The really harmful aspect of movies for children is their completeness. The content may be over a child's head, just as are adult books, but his dependence upon the screen for entertainment is a growing evil.

In past generations there were fewer ways in which children could be entertained. Children were thrown upon their own resources and had to make individual efforts. They spent days and weeks in preparation for a "play," made the costumes, painted the scenery, and printed the tickets, thus learning every angle of the project first hand. They achieved far more than the temporary thrill of the performance.

HARD TO SATISFY

Naturally the modern child is hard to satisfy. He goes to the movies for something to do. He joins with the school, the church, the local clubs, and business organizations in carrying out their own pet projects. He is just a pawn in an adult game and not the moving spirit behind it. If he managed his own entertainments and put into them hard work, worry, and imagination, the result would be enjoyment and profit. The result in the above instances is purely excitement.

Organizations which make use of children to carry out their plans do it for selfish motives. They know that children are always appealing and that parents can be interested because of their children's participation. The effect upon the children is unnatural excitement, fatigue, and encouragement in demanding more and more adult entertainments. After he has been fed such sophisticated fare, the child loses his taste for the simple things he can do.

LACK INGENUITY

We might profitably return to the days when entertainments for children were not all ready-made. They are poor nourishment for the child's imagination. The cook adds nothing to her education when she opens tin cans. She needs to know the ingredients and the how and why of mixing in order to develop her own standards.

Children are being starved for chances to use their own imaginations. Everything is done for them. The result is that the modern child is insatiable in his demands for something to do. Without an apparent understanding of the cause, his mother bewails his lack of ingenuity in entertaining himself.

Don't frown when children demand to rummage in the attic for old clothes, or mess up the cellar for an entertainment. Give them the raw materials for their enterprise and then throw them upon their own resources. They will develop by each independent step they take. We have compiled a list of simple plays which children can carry out alone. Send with your request a self-addressed, stamped envelope for this leaflet, "Plays for Home Use." Address your communication to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Widow Wins Suit Against Harold Lloyd, Film Star

Los Angeles, Nov. 19.—Federal Judge George R. Cosgrave late yesterday handed down a judgment in favor of Mrs. Saxie S. Witwer, widow of the author, H. C. Witwer, in the suit she brought against Harold Lloyd, film star and producer, alleging infringement of the copyright laws in his production of "The Freshman."

EARLY DAYS OF MUSIC RECALLED

G. Jennings Burnett Gives History Before Musical Arts Club; Artists Assist

An interesting review of the early musical history from the thirteenth to the seventeenth century was given by G. Jennings Burnett before an interested audience under the auspices of the Victoria Musical Art Club in the Shrine auditorium yesterday afternoon. The address was delightfully illustrated with several Orthophonic records and musical numbers by Mrs. W. E. Goodman, Miss Gwen Harper and Dr. T. H. Johns, with Miss Eileen Dumbleton and Mrs. Johns at the piano.

OLD SONG UNRIVALLED

Tuching upon musical traditions in England in the thirteenth century, the speaker compared the standard of its music with that of France of the same period, pointing out that the old song, "Summer Is I'Cumen In," stands unequalled for tunefulness and management of parts, a record of the old song revealing its beauty.

Conditions in England, owing to political unrest, wars and religious intolerance halted musical production during the next century, and the reawakening of musical activity was first manifested in England in the works of John Dunstable, who was called the father of English contrapuntists.

The Reformation saw much musical activity, Martin Luther himself being an able musician and composer. Reference was also made to the Elizabethan age with its great musical traditions. In the year 1598 appeared the first set of madrigals by John Wilbye, and the outstanding collection of twenty-five madrigals "Triumphs of Oriana" were of highest standard.

Mr. Burnett spoke of the work of Delius, Monteverde and Strauss, and, in concuding, referred to four notable musicians who lived in the time that overlaps the period allotted for the address, Tully, Rameau, Scarlatti, Couperin and Borelli.

COUNTESS WILL WED AMERICAN

Idina, Countess of Erroll, to Take Fourth Husband This Week

London, Nov. 19.—The London Daily Express says that Idian, Countess of Erroll, will be married this week to Donald Halderman, an American. This will be the fourth marriage for the countess, as her first husband divorced her and she divorced the other two. Halderman was educated at Eton College and served in the World War with the British Hussars.

The paper adds that the couple will sail for America next week, but will return to live in England.

The Countess of Erroll divorced the Earl of Erroll in June, 1929. She was Lady Idina Gordon, daughter of the Earl of De La Warr, when she married him in 1923 and was widely known in London society, particularly for her ability to wear beautiful clothes.

Lighthouse-keeper's Wife Undergoes Ordeal; Baby Dies

Canadian Press

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 19.—Following the death of her baby girl, which was born while a doctor was fighting his way to her aid across a rough sea in an open motor boat, Mrs. C. A. Myers, wife of the head lighthouse-keeper of Cliffy Island, is in Yarram Hospital. She is expected to recover.

Though she was in terrible agony, it was necessary to lower the plucky woman forty feet in a basket to the doctor's boat. The doctor had previously tried to signal instructions to the island for the guidance of Mrs. Myers's helpers, but a mist made them indistinguishable.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Should a mother have any interests outside her family?

Yes, she should.

It seems superlative to say so in this age when a woman now is looked upon as a human being and not as a machine, and yet quite recently I heard a man make a sarcastic remark because his wife wanted to go to an afternoon party and have a high school girl come in and take care of the children.

Let me explain that this woman is no gadabout, but she has a nice circle of friends whom she enjoys occasionally.

Her husband, too, I must admit, sems like a normal sensible person, who did not impress me as either a slave-driver or a jailer in the slightest sense of the word. He is a good provider, too, but he has his little economies, I understand.

HOW HE GOT THAT WAY

However, the dollar for the girl to come in and look after the children was not the reason for his objection.

His wife told me later, with a certain cheeriness that I am sure she did not feel, that he'd always been that way. He had the old-fashioned idea that when a woman had a family of children to look after, she ought to stay at home. That was her job, the same as a man's job was with his business.

Putting it that way there is just enough truth almost to floor any argument to the contrary. Because housekeeping and child care is the first and realest business of a mother.

But I wonder how long this man would feel the way he does about his wife having a little recreation during the day if he were to change places with her for a week. We'll put it a little stronger and say a month, for the monotony and wear of just such work as she is doing owes some of its breaking power to the pull of time.

COULDN'T STAND STRAIN

I rather imagine not only that he'd be calling for succor but that he'd be throwing up his hands and jumping overboard completely. No man was ever born who could stand the nerve strain and emotional exhaustion of the average mother with the average house and average family of children, particularly if she has no help and no chance for a bit of a good time.

Many women stand it. Thousands do—for reasons that can not be helped.

But it is the most natural thing in the world for a mother to want to get away occasionally and be her own very self for a few hours, and when it is possible, it is inconceivable that her husband should object.

PROVIDES RELAXATION

This particular man is not socially minded. It is no crime to lack the social urge, but it is also no crime to have it.

Most women have it stronger than men. Then what misery it must be not to be able once in a while to make contact with friendly persons whom they like!

Mothers give out a lot in nervous emotional energy, aside from physical effort, to their families. This spring must be fed or it will dry up.

If they get some inspiration and strength to go on, by seeing their friends now and then, what but good can come of it?

AROUND THE TOWN With Mistress Pepys

Seventeenth—Up at 8 o'clock after restless night spent in fitful dreams of the new Ford motor car which Samuel has promised to buy me.

Busy all morning with my household accounts, which have got in great muddle and do vex Samuel, but which have finally unraveled.

In afternoon to town in car. Pick up Mistress Whyte now living in Oak Bay. Very trim and smart looking. Had this morning been to Hilda Hairdressing Parlor in Newport Block on advice of a neighbor and well pleased with marcel given by Mistress Hilda (Tyrrell) Corbett, who she says had her early training with Mister Tyrrell in London, and after a number of years experience at the Maison Tyrrell, two years ago opened up this convenient shoppe for Oak Bay folk. Mistress Whyte liked the pleasant parlors decorated in green and orchid.

Take Mistress Whyte to Wilkerson's Jewelry Shoppe, where she do leave her watch for repair. Stop to look at marcasite ornaments in window. Mistress Whyte, having a fondness for this fascinating French jewelry, prices some of it. Taken with pendant, which has charming setting of chalcedony, priced at $15.50, also lovely bracelet of chalcedony; the soft lavender blue of this stone methinks should be flattering. Marcasite sets off gleaming black onyx, chrysoprase and amethysts to much advantage. A dainty brooch fashioned like to a basket is filled with flowers of semi-precious stones. In truth it is a reasonable gift at $7.50 and one withal different. Rings, pendants, bracelets and necklets there be in bewildering array. Mistress Whyte buys captivating chrysoprase set of pendant, ring and long drop ear rings, myself a dainty ring for modest price of $4.00, but know not yet for whom I get it.

Parted from Mistress Whyte and took back "Philippa," which I did thoroughly enjoy, to Marionette Library. Overheard gentlewoman giving order for library subscription as gift and myself did make inquiries. Determined to give subscription to Samuel for Yuletide when find can do so for only $5.00, a saving of $1.00, which would please Samuel mightily. Will start him with "The Power and Secret of the Jesuits." Myself did take a tale called "The Portrait of a Rebel."

Meet Samuel at Murphy Electric Company and look at Kelvinators. 'Tis in sooth quite the latest thinge, after a substantial dinner, to serve dainty frozen desserts, made in one's own Kelvinator. Hostesses do vie with each other in finding new and tempting recipes, so easily and quickly made they be. Indeed, delicate ices may be fashioned with but water, sugar and fruit juice. Samuel hath promised to buy one for me. Truly in these days we do enjoy the very quintessence of comfort and luxury.

the National Motor Company Limited where mightily captivated with the charming collection of beautiful cars, so much so, that, were Samuel not with me, I should be at my wits end which to choose. Samuel not nearly so concerned with lovely colors, luxurious fittings and graceful body lines but will inquire only into mechanical features and says he has determined on a Ford because of the smoothness, speed and power of the engine, the economy of operation and the safety of the triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. Decide on the new town sedan.

Samuel back to office and myself to Hibbens to see these new first copyrighted editions which I'm told I can buy for $1.00. Learn 'tis true and marvel to think I can get latest fiction by such authors as Philip Gibbs, W. B. Maxwell, Coningsby Dawson, Sax Rohmer, Robert Ames Bennett, Kathleen Norris and many others. At the same price, James Oliver Curwood's last book, "Son of the Forests," an autobiography left in manuscript and notes.

How one's appetite is whetted by the sight of daintily prepared viands. Did pass by Dale's windows, where are displayed such tempting dainties. On second thoughts returned and entered and did find such delicacies as cooked ham, roast beef and cooked meat of all kinds, salads and pickles, rich potato salad for only 20 cents a pound, their own pickled onions 25 cents the half pint and delicious mint chutney for 20 cents the half pint. Truly one can buy a complete meal here.

Fatigued with shopping did drop into Stevenson's for a cup of tea where Heliodora did with rare skill, read my tea cup. In signs, prophesies and spells she did abound.

Did there enquire about some attractive decorative art metal boxes filled with sweetmeats. Was told they should be ordered now to reach absent friends in Australia and other distant parts for Christmas. They pack and post them and charge only postage, some boxes as low at $1.00. Pretty glove and kerchief boxes will they afterwards make.

To Samuel's office where vexed at waiting half hour for him. Out on to street. Dinner in town, as Samuel much interested in miniature golf tournament. Over $500 in prizes. La! methinks we should win at least one. So to Pacific Library Golf Course, at the sign of the little golfer. Played round in sixty and Samuel in fifty-four. Find they are most courteous in showing players simplest way to play various holes and improve in second round to fifty-five. Samuel down to fifty. Meet Mr. Whyte again. Tells us he is practicing every day and understand he is in the running for first prize. Enjoy the friendly atmosphere. After another game decide we have had a good evening's entertainment and so home and to [illegible]

How Women Lose Fat In England

How would you like to lose unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want, and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen, and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal, and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salt. Take one-half teaspoonful every morning in a glass of hot water, and when you have finished the first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat, and you'll also know that the six vitalizing salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

That's the way Englishwomen keep slim—why not you? (Advt.)

Royal Oak

A successful concert was held in the Royal Oak Community Hall on Friday evening in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium sponsored by Mrs. F. Cariss and Mrs. Thorpe. A programme of songs and recitations was given and Mr. Harkness contributed to the amusement with sleight-of-hand tricks. An interesting address was given by Mrs. Appleton and solos were rendered by Mrs. Bamford, Mrs. Spurr and Mr. Boorman, with recitations by Miss Helen Coton, W. McPhail and Rev. F. Comley.

RIVER FLOOD DROWNS TWO AT HONOLULU

Honolulu, Nov. 19.—Two men, a Japanese and a Hawaiian, were drowned late yesterday when they drove their automobiles into the flooded waters of the Kahili, a small stream in the north section of this city. Four others who attempted to drive along King Street, which intersects the stream, were rescued, although their automobiles were washed away.

Four houses were washed away by the stream, which was swollen to flood proportions by a heavy downpour in the afternoon.

Police broadcast radio warnings to residents of the Nuana Valley to leave their homes if the Nuana River should rise any higher. The water department feared the dam at the head of the Nuana Valley might break and flood the valley if the rains should continue.

The road from Pearl Harbor to Honolulu was covered in places by four feet of water. Seven hundred automobiles of navy yard workers were stalled on the flooded highway, and a train on the Oahu Railroad and Land Company line ran into the flood en route from Pearl Harbor to the city. Several cars of livestock were submerged and the animals drowned.

Honolulu and the Island of Oahu, on which the city is situated, are subjected to sudden floods caused by heavy rains. Because of the steepness of the island, water flows to the ocean with great speed. A heavy rain causes small streams to become rushing rivers.

The Kahili Stream, where two men were drowned, ordinarily empties into storm sewers at King Street in Honolulu, which describes an S at that point. Apparently the sewers were unable to carry off the excess water and the street became flooded. Evidently the men strayed from the flooded street and plunged into a marsh on the ocean side of the street.

Happy Valley

A card party under the auspices of the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute was held in Luxton Hall on November 15.

There were fourteen tables including bridge and whist. The prizes were won by the following: First, whist, ladies, Mrs. J. Little; first, whist, gentlemen, Mr. A. Woodruff; consolation, Mrs. A. Hankin, Mr. Weber; first, bridge, ladies, Miss D. Chambers; first, bridge, gentlemen, A. Page; consolation, Mrs. S. Mr. Shemilt.

Ten couples took part in an amusing contest, "dressmaking," the gentlemen making the dresses of newspapers, the ladies being the models.

R. Mee and Miss D. Chambers received the prize for the neatest dress and A. Page and Mrs. Trace for the most original.

Betty Hutchinson drew the tickets for tombola prizes, which went to Mrs. H. Baxter, Mrs. McDonald of Langford, Miss D. Chambers, L. Weber and W. Caton.

There were many visitors from Langford, Colwood and Victoria.

Among those from Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. J. Trace Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. Mee and son, Miss D. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sconler, Mrs. Day and Mr. and Mrs. Shemilt.

Refreshments were served by the members of the Women's Institute.

Credit for the success of the evening is due to the efforts of Mrs. J. Trace, Mrs. W. Heath and J. Trace, who acted as M.C., also to J. G. Crosby for his generous donation of tea for tombolas, and Messrs. Scott and Peden for flour.

Langford

Mrs. Frederick Butterworth has her mother, Mrs. M. A. Barnes and brother William visiting her from Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. West and family from Ladysmith have rented J. Thomas's bungalow at Langford Lake.

The district Girl Guides will meet on Saturday afternoon next at 2 o'clock at Langford Lakeside.

National Hockey League Standings In Topsy Turvy Condition

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Skill of Canadian Doctors Save Young Hockey Stars

* * *

* * *

Indicates Wonderful Hardihood of Canadian Youth

* * *

Supreme Confidence Reigns in Every N.H.L. Camp

AN INTERESTING tale is being told in eastern hockey circles of how two of the greatest young players in the game to-day are chasing the elusive disc because of the skill of Canadian doctors, and because of the hardihood of Canadian youth. One of the youngsters is Charlie Conacher, who starred with Toronto Maple Leafs last season and the other is Johnny Gottselig, who plays left wing for the Chicago Black Hawks.

* * *

Conacher is one of the outstanding wing men in hockey. A younger brother of Lionel Conacher, Canada's greatest all-round athlete, he turned pro with Toronto a year ago. Last season he collected about twenty-seven points in the scoring column and this winter he is expected to prove he rates on a par with Bill Cook, New York Rangers' star wingman. Keen critics say there is no hockey player in the world with a harder shot; no forward more dangerous when he gets "inside" than the same Conacher.

* * *

Gottselig hails from Regina and made the jump to the salaried ranks a couple of years ago. He was almost a sensation right from the start and ranks with the pick of the first string left wingers in the N.H.L. Yet each boy is lucky to be alive, let alone playing hockey. Gottselig recovered from a ruptured kidney and Conacher lost one kidney under the knife.

* * *

Six years ago, when Regina Pats were opening the playoff that carried them to a Canadian junior hockey championship, Gottselig ruptured a kidney in a game at home against Manitoba University. His mates went on to win that series, but Johnny was rushed to a hospital. As the Pats started to win their jaunt east, winning every single game and finally beating the Aura Lee team for the title, Gottselig was fighting a wonderful fight in a hospital ward. Skillful treatment made an operation unnecessary and the ruptured organ started to clear up.

* * *

It is still something of a miracle how he came around so fast. In two or three days he was completely out of danger. Then, cheered on by the good news from the hockey front, he gained strength so quickly that he was sitting up barely a week after the day he entered hospital.

* * *

Finally came the supreme miracle. He insisted that he was well enough to leave the hospital and the doctors had to admit he was right. So Johnny was bundled on a train and started east in the wake of his mates. He was in Toronto for the final game when the Pats won the Canadian championship and took part in the big celebration. From that time on Gottselig has not been troubled by his injury. He has played rugby, football and hockey.

* * *

The case of Conacher is similar, except that he carried on for two years with an injured and poisoned kidney. It was removed in an operation last summer and just in time, the doctors agreed. To-day instead of being weakened by the ordeal Charlie is bigger and stronger than ever. He weighed 183 pounds last season; this winter he tips the beam at 198.

* * *

Many other hockey stars have overcome physical handicaps to climb on, or back, to stardom. The Windsor Bulldogs have two examples in their goal tenders. Clint Benedict is back in form after a nasty injury last winter and Abbie Cox has fully recovered from a mishap quite as serious. But it's an odd coincidence that two such prominent young stars have suffered from the same kind of accident and have completely overcome it.

The Montreal Herald making a round-up of the National Hockey League, says briefly, managers and fans and owners are looking forward with hope, for these reasons:

* * *

Montreal Canadiens—Because the team finished last season in a mighty rush to annex the world's title, and not only entered the present race with the confidence that a championship begets, but is physically strengthened at the one shaky point, right wing, by the addition of Johnny Gagnon.

* * *

Montreal Maroons—Because the team has been rebuilt by the purchase of Lionel Conacher, a powerful defence player of the team's rugged type, and by the acquisition of almost the entire amateur champion Montreal A.A.A. team.

* * *

Boston Bruins—Because they are a really great machine. They created many new records last season, and have strengthened somewhat by the addition of new talent this year.

* * *

Toronto Maple Leafs—Because by the purchase of the $50,000 Beauty Frank "King" Clancy, they believe they have secured the spark who will blaze this fine but uninspired hockey club to new life.

* * *

Philadelphia Quakers—Because they get a break by being removed from the depressing Pittsburgh surroundings, are under new management, have some new talent and can't do worse than last season.

* * *

Detroit Falcons—Because they have shaken the old and unlucky "Cougar" cognomen, and the team is reinforced with considerable new materials from the International League club of the same city.

* * *

New York Rangers—Because they have a great forward line in the two Cooks and Boucher, and have improved their other supporting forward combinations. Defence weakness their only "soft spot."

* * *

Chicago Black Hawks—Because they have a fighting club that came with a rush at the end last season and were eliminated in the playoffs only under a terrific pair of duels and should carry on this year from that point.

* * *

New York Americans—Because they are under the management of one of the shrewdest, most constructive and most capable pilots in hockey, Eddie Gerard, and have acquired fine new playing talent that will get full and intelligent development.

* * *

Ottawa Senators—Because they're still in the major league, and have a steady-going all-round team, but minus Clancy, their outlook is not so bright.

Toronto Leafs Win And Cling to Lead In Canadian Group

Connie Smythe's Club Hands Maroons 3 to 0 Defeat for Third Straight Whitewash Montrealers Have Suffered This Season; Detroit, Boston and New York Rangers Tied for Lead in American Section; Boston Proves Too Powerful for Canadiens; Rangers and Americans in Scoreless Draw.

Canadian Press

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 19.—The National Hockey League standing continues to present a topsy turvy appearance to what the fans have been accustomed to seeing in other years. After four games were played yesterday evening, Toronto Maple Leafs still maintained their grip at the top of the Canadian section while Detroit, Boston and New York Rangers are deadlocked for the lead in the American group.

The Leaf's well-earned victory over games participated in by Canadian Montreal Maroons was the highlight of teams. Playing their first match away from home this season, the Clancy-strengthened Torontonians scored once in the second and twice in the third period, to administer the third straight coat of kalsomine on the Montrealers.

Montreal Canadiens were no match for the Boston Bruins, and lost a fast game, 5 to 2.

A surprise occurred in Philadelphia where the Quakers staged a rousing thirty-period rally to score two goals and tie the Ottawa Senators. The Philadelphians got both markers when their opponents were short handed.

New York's two representatives in the league, Americans and Rangers, battled to a scoreless tie in their first intra-city clash, which was featured by heavy checking.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Some of the prestige that the Boston Bruins lost last season when Les Canadiens stripped them of the Stanley Cup, was regained here yesterday evening when they turned savagely on the Flying Frenchmen and smashed out a 5-2 victory.

The game was deadlocked until the Bruins started their furious drive in the final period. Boston opened the scoring early in the fray when Clapper caged Welland's pass, but Howie Morenz squared matters by firing the puck into Tiny Thompson's cage, unassisted.

The line-ups:

Canadiens—Hainsworth; S. Mantha, Burke; Morenz, Larochelle, Joliat. Subs: G. Mantha, Lepine, Wasnie, Mondou, Rivers.

Summary:

First period—1, Boston, Clapper (Welland), 3.41; 2, Canadiens, (Morenz), 6.51.

Second period—No score.

Third period—3, Boston, Gainer (Oliver), .52; 4, Boston, Weildan (Clapper), 1.28; 5, Boston, Chapman (Harris), 5.20; 6, Boston, Barry (Oliver), 7.35; 7 Canadiens, Ganon (Morenz and Mondou), 2.35.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Working like Trojans in front of superb goal tending by Lorne Chabot, the still undefeated Toronto Maple Leafs took their second victory of the young National Hockey League season yesterday evening, defeating Montreal Maroons 3 to 0 here. In three games Maroons have not scored a single goal.

Toronto—Chabot; Day, Clancy; Blair, Bailey, Cotton. Subs: C. Conacher, Horner, Primeau, Jackson, Dye, Grant.

Montreal—Walsh; Wilcox, L. Conacher; Stewart, Smith, Smith, Siebert. Subs: McVicar, Ward Trottier, Boucher, E. Roche, D. Roche, Phillips, Haynes, Gallagher, Huggins, Kerr.

Officials—Bert Corbeau and Vic Wagner.

Summary:

First period— No score.

Second period—1, Toronto, Clancy (Jackson), 13.40.

Third period—2, Toronto, Bailey (awarded goal), 4.45; 3, Toronto, Horner, 14.15.

ARMOUR OUT OF RYDER CUP GOLF SERIES

Only Players Born in America Eligible For Team; Von Elm Without "Home"

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Friends of Tommy Armour, professional golf champion of the United States, have lost their fight to gain a position for him on the United States Ryder Cup team.

The Professional Golfers' Association of America, in annual convention here, yesterday evening voted no player be permitted to compete on the team in the international matches with Great Britain unless born in America. The decision automatically barred the Detroit professional as he was born in Scotland. Armour did not play on the 1930 team either, but his absence brought a storm of protests.

Dates for the 1931 Ryder Cup matches, to be decided over the Scioto Country Club course at Columbus, Ohio, were set for June 26 and 27 by the convention delegates.

The field for future national P.G.A. championships was increased from 64 to 100 by the association's vote yesterday evening. Included in the new rule was the provision the defending champion be spared the task of qualifying. The increase in the field was voted upon after its proponents argued it provided too severe a test with only sixty-four available places and good players too often failed to wedge in, a failure that shoved Walter Hagen out of the running this year.

VON ELM WITHOUT "HOPE"

Applications for membership by so-called "business men golfers" were rejected by the association, which announced it would welcome such players in tournament competition for cash prizes but would not recognize them as professionals until they served at least three years apprenticeship under a recognized professional. Thus, in a notab3le case, George Von Elm, found himself a golfer player without a "home." He surrendeed his amateur status to become a "business man golfer."

Charles Hall of Birmingham, Ala., was elected president of the association, succeeding Alex Pirie of Chicago. Former President Pirie was elected honorary president, an honor awarded only once before in P.G.A. history. Jack Pirie of New York was re-elected secretary, and J. McKie, New York, was re-elected treasurer.

SAANICHTON SCORE THEIR SECOND WIN

Defeat North Saanich 13 to 3 in Third Division of Badminton League

Saanichton, J.B.A.A. and "Y" Undefeated in This Section; Keen Competition

Saanichton Athletic Club chalked up its second victory in the third division of the Lower Island Badminton League by administering a thirteen to three defeat to the North Saanich club at the former's hall yesterday evening. Saanichton are stronger than last year and will prove tough competition for the other clubs in this section. J.B.A.A., Saanichton and the Y.M.C.A. first team are undefeated in this division.

Saanichton won three of the four women's doubles to gain a lead which they increased in the men's doubles by winning all four matches. North Saanich won only two of the twelve mixed doubles.

The results follow with the Saanichton players being named first:

Welker Cochran Gains Big Lead Over Cue Champ

New York, Nov. 19.—With one-third of the long grind behind him, Welker Cochran held a lead of 630 points over Willie Hoppe in their world's 18.1 balkline billiards championship today. The grand totals were: Cochran 1,200, Hoppe 570. Eighth more blocks will be played.

British Turf Champ Is Nominated For $140,000 Handicap

Challenger Second, Champion Two-year-old in Britain Last Year, Will Be Competitor in Agua Caliente Handicap; Thoroughbred Owned By Late Lord Dewar Now in Possession of Maryland Stable; Greatest Horse to Ever Visit Pacific Coast; Is Being Put Into Perfect Condition.

Agua Caliente, Baja California, Mexico, Nov. 19.—Challenger Second, $125,000 equine blue-blood star of the Brancastle Stable, undoubtedly the greatest horse to ever come to the Pacific Coast and champion two-year-old last year, of the British turf, has been nominated for the second renewal of the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, to be run on March 22, at the coming eighty-two-day meeting of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club, which opens on Christmas Day.

The nomination of this royal thoroughbred for the world's richest race has been received by General Manager James N. Crofton, from Messrs. Castle and Brann, from Maryland, where they are now "pointing" him for the late fall stakes. Eleven other racers will be in the shipment for Agua Caliente.

Challenger Second was bred by Lord Dewar, and upon the demise of that celebrated British sportsman, the estate disposed of the turf champion to the U.S. turfmen for above stated sum. He shipped to this country in perfect style and stepped off the boat in splendid health, sound as the proverbial dollar. Furthermore, he has flourished on U.S. soil, climate and oats.

OTHERS HAVE SAILED

Few horses of such imposing mein have come to the United States with the view of entering the lists of battle with American champions. Regarding British invaders of recent years, note this: Papyrus failed—Strolling Player did not measure up to expectations—The Satrap was too lumbering and gross a fellow to stand training. Strolling Player had an infirm leg—The Satrap a cracked hoof before they reached this country. In consequence they were not able to attain English form. The Satrap did not visit the post. He went down preparing for the Kentucky Derby, of which he was one of the winter book choices.

No such mistakes as were made with Papyrus have attended the conditioning of Challenger Second. Foolish training, failure to adopt U.S. customs, ruined the Epsom Derby winner. Zev took him in a romp. Given ample time to fully acclimate himself, Challenger Second was not asked for anything more than light gallops until recently, when his handlers began setting him down for the first time.

Victoria Daily Times Cup Presented to J. Bowcott at Annual Prize-giving

R. Dickinson Receives Colonist Trophy; J. Bowcott Elected President

Cups and medals won by members of the Victoria Racing Pigeon Club were presented at the annual general meeting and prize giving held this week. One of the feature presentations of the evening was that made to J. Bowcott, who received the handsome Victoria Daily Times Cup for the best average 300 to 500 miles. All the trophies were presented by John Stewart.

The challenge cup, donated by The Colonist for the best old bird average 100 to 500 miles, was won by R. Dickinson. J. Bowcott also received the Mayor Anscomb Cup as winner of the 500-mile race. This fancier was also presented with the gold medal donated by Scott & Peden for the best average in young bird races.

J. Bowcott was elected president for the next twelve months, with W. R. Tait as secretary and R. Dickinson assistant secretary. R. H. Green was elected treasurer.

JOKERS TO WORK OUT

A workout of the Jokers soccer team will be held to-night at 8 o'clock at the Tillicum Gymnasium. All players are asked to attend.

Third Monthly Competition At Victoria Club

On November 23 the third monthly competition consisting of eighteen holes, medal play under handicap, will be held at the Victoria Golf Club. Competitors will choose their opponents and ararnge their own starting times. Post entries will be received. Two prizes will be awarded.

Jones Tops List Of Outstanding Athletes In U.S.

World's Greatest Golfer Who Recently Announced His Retirement From Active Competition Judged Most Outstanding Athlete by Committee of Amateur Athletic Union; Jones May Have "Eliminated Himself" From Chance of Winning Memorial Trophy By Retirement; American Olympic Association Opens Session; A.A.U. Receives Gift of $2,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Close on the heels of the National Amateur Athletic Union convention, the American Olympic Association met to-day with prospects of a more harmonious session than four years ago.

Members looked for no repetition of the bitter battle for control which ended in the National Collegiate Athletic Association delegates walking out of the council room at the last quadrennial meeting here.

Leaders of the A.A.U. and the N.C.A.A. were firmly resolved to keep hatchet buried, although determined to give their respective organizations as strong a voice as possible in Olympic affairs.

Meeting every four years, the association headed by Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, faced the task of doing in a single day all the organizing groundwork for America's participation in the Olympic games at Los Angeles a year from next summer.

Among the delegates were many of the individuals prominent in the A.A.U. convention which ended yesterday with the re-election of President Avery Brundage of Chicago, and the selection of Miami Beach for the 1931 convention.

At the concluding session of the convention ten athletes were announced as adjudged outstanding figures in American amateur sport to-day.

BOBBY JONES ON TOP

Bobby Jones's name led them all, although the committee which announced the selections stated the belief Bobby had "eliminated himself" by having withdrawn from amateur competition.

The others were:

Clarence De Mar, marathon runner.

Miss Helene Madison, swimmer.

Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, tennis queen.

Barney Berlinger, track and field.

Miss Stella Walsh, sprinter.

Ray Ruddy, swimmer.

Tommy Hitchcock, polo ace.

George Simpson, Ohio State's sprinter, who has covered 100 yards in 9 2-5 seconds with starting blocks.

SELECT OUTSTANDING ATHLETE

By a vote of a nation-wide tribunal, the outstanding athlete of the ten will be selected in the next few weeks and to him will be awarded the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy of the A.A.U., a gold cup bestowed this year for the first time.

As the A.A.U. delegates prepared to depart they found their organization respectively richer by $2,000,000. An anonymous gift of that sum to be used in establishing an endowment fund for the Union was announced by President Brundage and nobody has proposed turning it down.

PEDENS WILL MEET C.P.S. THIS EVENING

Great Basketball Game Expected When Senior "A" Fives Clash at High School

Lumbermen Need Win to Stay in Running; Two Other Games Are Scheduled

When Ernie Harwood and his band of C.P.S. cagers step on the floor of the High School gymnasium to-night against Pedens they will be out to seek revenge for the early season defeat they suffered at the hands of this five. The lumbermen will also be fighting to keep in the running for first-half honors. In the other two games the High School will meet the Normal School in an intermediate "A" game and the Sons of Canada will play The Colonist in a senior "B" men's encounter.

The senior "A" men's game will find both teams at full strength, with Pedens being slight favorites to win. Last time these two teams battled the lumbermen had sufficient shots to win several games, but poor shooting on their part and some good play on the part of their opponents paved the way for a Peden victory.

To-night, Manager Harwood is expected to start Captain Davis and Ralph Butler at forward with Stew Skillings in the centre position, while Jack McKenzie and Norm Forbes will form the rear line of defence. In addition to these five players the C.P.S. will have Gordon Wooldridge, George Fagerberg and Doug. Robertson to call on at any moment of the fracas.

Against this squad, Ross Hocking is expected to send, in addition to himself, Lloyd Jones at forward with Charlie Chapman at centre. Behind this array of sharpshooters, Joe Ross and Tom Little will play, with Stan Moore in reserve.

SONS FAVORED

The senior "B" men's game will find the Sons of Canada opposing The Colonist. The lodgemen have been traveling at a great clip and they are headed in the direction of first-half honors, with only West Road in their path. The Colonist on past games should be an easy mark for the Canadians, but Bill Spencer and his five are always noted for their fighting spirit, and are capable of playing much better ball than they have exhibited lately.

The opening game will see High School fighting to stay in the race for first-half honors, as the Hustlers, High School and K. of P. are all in position to get into the play-offs.

Alan Lemarquand will referee.

The complete card follows:

7.30—Intermediate "A" men.—High School vs. Normal.

8.30—Senior "B" men.—Sons of Canada vs. Colonist.

FINE ENTRY IN ROLLER HOCKEY LOOP

Twelve Teams Enter Senior and Intermediate Divisions of New League

Seek Two More Entries; Schedules Will Be Drawn Up For Opening of Play

Although entries for the intermediate and senior divisions of the newly formed Victoria Roller Hockey League officially closed yesterday evening, one more team will be admitted to each section in order to bring the two classes an even number of squads. At present seven aggregations are entered in the senior class, while five have signed the membership roll of the intermediates.

At yesterday evening's meeting in the Gray Line Rink, Percy Jones, secretary, was instructed to draw up schedules for the two leagues.

All teams and officials agreed to limit the number of players on each squad to nine, pointing out that under special local rules, only five would be allowed to take the floor at once.

Any team still wishing to enter may do so by communicating with Secretary Jones at the rink after 7.30 o'clock.

THE ENTRIES

Senior Division—B. W. Burnett's team, D. W. Burnett, captain; McDowell & Mann, Ed. de Blaquiere, captain; Jones' Bros., Ernie E. Bayliss, captain; Revers, J. Webley, captain; Jokers, Art Jackson, captain; Plimley & Ritchie, George Farmer, captain; Victoria, Ian Wallace, captain.

Intermediate Division (restricted to 130 pounds) — Monarchs, Bernie Crump, captain; Maple Leafs, C. Millton, captain; Canadians, A. H. White, captain; Cougars, Barney Barnswell, captain; Rose Buds, John Murray, captain.

English Football Team Will Play Here On June 24

Victoria All-stars Will Oppose Crack Picked English Eleven in Game at Royal Athletic Park; Two Games Will Be Played at Vancouver and One at Nanaimo; Third English Team to Visit Victoria and Sixth Old Country Eleven to Play Here.

Victoria sport fans will see the touring English football team in action here next June 24 according to information received today by local soccer officials. Although this date, which falls on a Wednesday, is only tentative, it is not likely there will be a switch. According to present plans made by the Dominion of Canada Football Association, which is handling the tour, the English team will play four matches in British Columbia, two in Vancouver, one in Nanaimo and one here.

This will be the third visit of an English eleven to Victoria, and will be the sixth Old Country team to perform on a local field. The Third Lanarks, of the Scottish First Division at that time, were the first team to visit Victoria from Great Britain. They opposed an all-star local team in a match played at the old stadium located on the present site of the Crystal Garden. This club has been folowed by English, Scottish and Welsh all-stars, professional clubs, the amateur Corinthians, and last summer the famous Glasgow Rangers played here.

Fans and players alike welcome the visit of a team from the Old Country. It proves of great educational value and gives lovers of this game an opportunity of seeing some of the world's greatest stars in action. Such matches have always proved popular in Victoria, drawing immense crowds. The first English team that played in Victoria a number of years ago, was, in the opinion of many, the finest Old Country team to ever play here. Fans still talk about the great exhibition turned in here by Tunstall, internationalist, who played at left wing for the Englishmen.

The match will be played at the Royal Athletic Park with a team of local all-stars opposing the tourists. The local team will be selected a couple of months before the date of the match and will undergo a period of serious training in preparation for the game.

No definite word has been received yet as to the length of the Englishmen's stay in Victoria. All former Old Country teams have made this city a sort of stopover, spending three or four days here resting up. It is more than likely the Englishmen will do the same thing, making the last western city they will perform in their "home" for a few days.

GOLF STARS SEEK PRIZES AT PORTLAND

Charles Lacey, Young English Pro., Entered; Dr. Willing Heads Amateur Field

Portland, Nov. 19.—Five members of the United States 1929 Ryder Cup team will head the list of entries in the Oregon open golf tournament, to be played at the Columbia Country Club here, November 21, 22 and 23, according to an announcement made by Ralph Caldwell, chairman of the general committee. These players are Gene Sarazen of Flushing, L.I.; Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mexico; Ed. Dudley of Wilmington, Del.; Al Espinosa of Chicago and Horton Smith of Cragston, New York.

LACEY TO COMPETE

Besides these Ryder Cup players a number of other well-known tournament golfers have entered. These include the young Englishman, Charlie Lacey of the Pine Valley Country Club of Philadelphia. Lacey, who is twenty-one, was the only young professional to be developed by the big tournaments of last summer. He is one of the longest hitters in professional golf and was sent to this country three years ago by George Duncan.

Other nationally prominent players entered include Frank Walsh and Lew Waldron of Chicago, Craig Wood of New Jersey, Clarence Clark of Tulsa, Ralph Guldahl of Dallas and Francis Schwartz of St. Louis.

STRONG AMATEUR FIELD

The amateur delegation will be headed by Dr. Oscar F. Willing of the American Walker Cup team. Dr. Willing won the Oregon open in 1928. Frank Dolp, Eddie Hogan, Rudy Wilhelm and Roy Moe have also entered.

Ten prizes have been donated for the amateurs and the professionals will contest for a purse of $2,500, which has been put up by the tournament bureau of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

The Oregon open will be seventy-two holes medal play with eighteen holes on Friday, eighteen on Saturday and thirty-six on Sunday.

Young Firpo Puts Ketchell to Sleep

Portland, Nov. 19.—Young Firpo, the Burke, Idaho, miner, knocked out Wesley Ketchell, Portland, in the sixth round of a ten-round fight here yesterday evening. Firpo weighed 175; Ketchell 165.

BILLIARDS

Britannia Branch "C" team added another victory to its list yesterday evening when they took the T.V.A.'s into camp by a 400 to 328 score in the only "C" division fixture of the evening. Each member of the branch scored 100, while none of their opponents had totals with three digits.

Individual scores and teams follow:

Lindrum Clicks Off Breaks of 1,516 And 1,412 in Tournament

London, Nov. 19.—With four more days to go in the fourth match of the international billiard tournament, Walter Lindrum, leading player of the professional quartette at the tables, made two runs of more than 1,000 points each yesterday.

Lindrum's breaks were 1,516 and 1,412 points. He closed the day with a total of 18,488 and was in play. Joe Davis, English champion, closed at 23,367, in play. Lindrum and Davis have ample margins over their opponents, who are Clarke McConachy, with 13,217, and Tom Newman, with 18,313, respectively.

Amateur Status Of Bobby Jones Not Endangered

St. Andrews, Scotland, Nov. 19.—Bobby Jones's status as an amateur golfer, in the opinion of Secretary Henry Cullen of the Royal and Ancient, will not be affected by his making of films.

"Bobby Jones is an ordinary member of the Royal and Ancient Club, having paid his entrance fee and his annual subscription," said Cullen today. "I do not consider the making of films has any effect whatever on a golfer's position as an amateur and, so far as I can gather, Mr. Jones has definitely stated he is not becoming a professional. There has been no time to consider the matter in committee and I am only expressing my own opinion."

Ryder Cup Golf Matches Will Be Held at Columbus

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The Professional Golfers' Association of America yesterday evening elected Charles Hall of Birmingham, Ala., president; picked June 26 and 27 as the dates for the 1931 Ryder Cup matches at the Scioto Country Club, at Columbus, Ohio, and voted to increase the qualifying bracket for its annual P.G.A. championship from sixty-four to 100 players.

Carnera-Uzcudun Bout May Be Held At City of Milan

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 19.—The bout between Paolino Uzcudun and Primo Carnera may be held in Milan if strike conditons do not show rapid improvement, Jeff Dickson, United States promoter of the match said yesterday. Dickson has been forced to suspend the ticket sale because of the strike, but planned to try again to-day. The promoter is pessimistic, however, over chances of holding the match as scheduled on Sunday.

U.S. Army Polo Four Wins Trophy

Buenos Aires, Nov. 19.—The United States Army four defeated the Argentine Army four 10 to 1 yesterday to win the newly offered Ambassador Bliss Cup. The Army won the cup by virtue of two straight victories over the Argentines.

England Gains a Draw in Cricket Game at Kimberly

Kimberley, South Africa, Nov. 19.—Rain halted the cricket match between the English touring team and Griqualand West yesterday and let the former out of a bad hole.

The game was drawn very much in favor of Griqualand West. Scores were, 310 and 156 for two wickets; England, 232. Quinn, the Griqualand West bowler, had the fine average of five wickets for 36 runs.

OARSMEN TO CLASH WITH WANDERERS

Bays' Senior Ruggers to Play Their First League Fixture at Royal Park

Hard Game Expected; College Meets Wanderers; J.B.A.A. Play Scottish

Sadder, but wiser, after their defeat at the hands of the city senir champions last week, the Oak Bay Wanderers will be out in force on Saturday afternoon in an attempt to take the J.B.A.A. into camp in the senior rugby game to be played at the Royal Athletic Park. The Oak Bay boys displayed a fighting spirit that had the Scottish, titleholders, guessing throughout the first half of the match last Saturday.

This year the oarsmen appear to be as strong as ever, with most of their best men of last season back on the line. In addition they have signed up one or two new players who should prove distinct assets to their scrum. Sparks, husky U.B.C. graduate, will be in the scrum, it is understood, while Geof D.Arcy, former College man, is also expected to gain a berth in the pack.

Petticrew, an old player returning to the game after some years' absence, and Moses, are also expected to hold down forwards' jobs. Along with these will be the Bays' Three Musketeers, Dan Parfitt, Horace Goad and George Warnock, all former rep team forwards, whose hammering tactics have left many a dent in the best rugby machines of the province.

GOOD BACKFIELD

Henry Cocklin, diminutive but dynamic half-back, is expected to team up with Benny McMillan behind the scrum, with "Cubby" Godwin playing five-eighths.

The Bays' flying threes, from which countless backfields have been recruited for McKechnie Cup games, appear to be as strong as ever, with Art Fell, Allie Le Marquand, "Sailor" Stagg and Gavin Hume composing the line.

Just at present a question mark is placed where the full-back ought to be. It is understood that Middleton is ill and will not be able to hold down this position. Art Eagle, who has played for the Scottish, may occupy the place, but nothing definite has been settled.

Roberts, outstanding forward for the Wanderers, will have another player of merit in his scrum for the game, when Don Harrison, fiery thatched plunger, replaces Jones. The remainder of the pack will include Golby, De Blaquiere, Douglas, Hood, Hicks and King.

Haines, flashy young half-backs, will pair off with Symons as halves, with Chris Usher, Freddy Pease, Putnam and Hopewell on the three-quarter line. Parfitt will again play full-back

For the first three-quarters of their leage-opening game against the Scottish the Wanderers showed plenty of spirit on the offence and defence. When they stack up against the Bays they are expected to show considerable improvement. As there are a large number of novices in the squad, they should develop a higher brand of rugby as they go through the schedule.

J. B. Acland will handle the whistle for the game, which will be the first of the senior league to be played at the Royal Athletic Park. It will start at 3 o'clock.

In the intermediate league Victoria College will clash with the Oak Bay Wanderers for the second time at Victoria High School ground with G. C. Grant in charge. The J.B.A.A. will run up against the Scottish in the other fixture at Oak Bay Park, with C. Jones refereeing.

Unless the Wanderers, joint cellar occupants with the Scottish, defeat the league-leading College or the militiamen humble the second-place Bays, the games will have no bearing on the league standing.

TORONTO LEAFS WIN AND CLING TO LEAD IN CANADIAN GROUP

sational third-period rally, scored two goals and thus earned a tie with the Ottawa Senators in a National Hockey League match at the Arena yesterday evening.

With the score 2-0 in favor of the Senators and more than half of the third period gone, Gagne was sent to the penalty coop. This gave the Quakers some life, and finally Barton crashed through, captured a pass from Howe and scored. Two minutes later, Starr was given a two-minute sentence, and Jarvis scooped up a rebound to slap the puck into the net.

There was no scoring in the overtime period, although there were many close calls for the goal tenders. The work of Connell in the net saved the day for the Senators.

Line-ups:

Ottawa—Connell; Art Smith, Alex Smith; Finnigan, Lamb, J. Kilrea. Subs: Gagne, Touhey, Cox, Starr.

Philadelphia—Miller; Shields, Fraser; Darragh, Milks, Jarvis. Subs: Barton, Drury, Lowery, Howe, W. Kilrea, White.

Summary:

First period—No score.

Second period—1, Ottawa, Kilrea, 1.19; 2, Ottawa, Starr, 4.21.

Third period—3, Quakers, Barton (Howe), 10.09; 4, Quakers, Jarvis, 2.32.

Overtime period—No score.

New York, Nov. 19.—New York's two National Hockey League teams, the Rangers and Americans, failed to reach a decision in the first intercity struggle of the year yesterday evening, winding up seventy minutes of fast rough and tumble hockey in a scoreless tie.

The game was as even as the score from start to finish, as both teams played at top speed, and neither gave the other an opening good enough to produce a goal. The two goalies, Roy Worters, of the Americans, and John Ross Roach of the Rangers, stood out.

Line-ups:

Rangers—Roach; Johnson, Bourgeault; Boucher, Bill Cook, Bun Cook. Subs: Regan, Peters, Thompson, Murdock, Keeling, Rodden, Carrigan, Waite.

Officials—George Mallinson and Bill Shaver.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 19.—Duluth opened its 1930 American hockey league season in an auspicious manner here yesterday evening by scoring a hard fought 1 to 0 triumph over the strong Chicago Shamrocks. Laurie Scott, one of the league's leading scorers, got credit for the only goal of the game, scoring less than two minutes after the third period opened. He beat Goalie Timmins with a rifle shot after taking a pass from Whyte.

Duluth — Turner; Davis, Langlois; L. Scott, R. Green, Whyte; Subs: Merrill, Forsland, Leswick, Beri Mitchell.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 19.—The Windsor Bulldogs defeated the Detroit Olympics in a local International League hockey fixture here yesterday evening, 3 to 2, before nearly 12,000 spectators.

The Olympics held a slight edge in the first period, but in the second and third periods they were outclassed most of the way. Newman and Robinson scored for Detroit and "Bat" Phillips, Duncan and Robinson for Windsor.

Fort Erie, Ont., Nov. 19.—Buffalo increased their lead in the Internatioanl Hockey League here yesterday evening by defeating Syracuse by 2 to 0 in a well played game before a crowd of 3,500. The visitors put up a stubborn argument throughout, but were unable to penetrate the Bison defence with any great success. Bogardis and Huard scored for Buffalo.

London, Ont., Nov. 19.—Leroy Coldsworthy, brilliant London right wing player, scored the goal which gave London Tecumsehs a 1 to 0 victory over Cleveland Indians in a ten-minute overtime International League game here yesterday evening. The only goal of the torrid contest came after seven minutes of overtime play with Len Grosvenor giving Coldsworthy a perfect pass inside the Cleveland defensive zone.

TUBERCULOSIS SEAL CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY

Kiwanis Club Appeals For Support in Fight Against Dread Disease

In conjunction with the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, the Victoria Kiwanis Club has again launched its Christmas Seal Campaign, by which funds are raised to aid in fighting the dread disease of tuberculosis.

Seals will be mailed to every citizen of Victoria with the appeal for subscriptions. The seals are made up in sheets of 100, selling at $1 a sheet, but those who wish to make a larger donation may do so.

Seventy-five per cent. of the money raised by the campaign each year is used for tuberculosis prevention and treatment in this city. The club pays the salary of a special nurse whose work is entirely devoted to keeping a record of all tuberculosis cases in the city and taking every means possible to control the disease by giving information to patients. Monthly reports on this work, submitted to the club's committee, have shown gratifying results.

The remaining twenty-five per cent. of the money collected is split between the Tranquille Tuberculosis Society at Tranquille B.C. and the Canadian Tuberculosis Association.

"There can be no better advertising for our city than that we can say it is the healthiest in the Dominion." a member of the committee stated. We feel there is no question about the worthiness of our cause and while there is a certain amount of financial stringency in the city at present, we are asking for only $1 from each person and the fund is for the betterment of the city itself."

Members of the Kiwanis Club are now engaged in the task of mailing out letters to all citizens and it is expected that this work will be completed by next Saturday, leaving ample time for the return of donations before Christmas

Brentwood

The West Saanich Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Institute Hall, Brentwood, Mrs. W. O. Wallace in the chair.

The minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. Haddon, who also gave a brief report of the conference recently held in Victoria. A letter from the Institute for the Blind resulted in the sum of $10 being voted them.

In response to a request from the Victoria Institute, parcels of clothing are being made up to forward to needy settlers in the Peace River district. Arrangements were made for the annual turkey card party to be held on Friday, December 19. Twenty members were present and one new member welcomed. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. Rochon and Mrs. L. Thomson.

F. Lindsay and Roy Heyer have returned from a hunting trip at Qualicum, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lindsay.

Mr. Harding, Verdier Avenue, has returned from Vancouver after spending a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, former residents of Brentwood.

Mrs. Norman Broadhurst has returned to Prince Rupert after spending the summer with her brother, Captain Bakington, at Totem Beach.

Miss Edith Jeune of Saanichton was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wallace, Marchants Road, during the week-end.

CONSERVATIVES HEAR TALK ON OCEAN HIGHWAY

Repeating his illustrated lecture on the West Coast Road and Park project, C. L. Harrison impressed upon his hearers the advisability of backing such a scheme in his address before the members of the Victoria Conservative Association yesterday evening in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium.

The need for a road from Port San Juan to the mouth of the Alberni Canal was stressed by the speaker, who indicated the exceptional beauty of such a highway.

He also urged the establishment of a Government low altitude park on the West Coast below the Alberni Canal, and showed many fine slides revealing the magnificent scenery in the area.

Strawberry Vale

The W.A. of Wilkinson Road United Church held their monthly meeting on Monday afternoon at the parsonage, Glyn Road. Miss J. Scott led the devotional period. Mrs. A. E. Campion reported that $100 had been paid on the church debt. Arrangements were made for the forthcoming bazaar which will be held on November 28 in the schoolroom of the church. The Young People's Club will provide the programme for the evening. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Switzer served tea, she was assisted by Mrs. W. J. Jones.

Mrs. McFarlane has returned to her home at Gordon Head, after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Congdon, Glyn Road.

R. Layritz, Wilkinson Road, spent the week-end in Vancouver.

Garden City

There were eight tables in play at the card party held in Marigold hall on Monday evening by the committee of the Garden City Women's Institute. The prizes were all taken by gentlemen, three of whom were substitutes: First prize, J. Commodity Prices Are Definitely Lower

During the last few months Hudson's Bay Company buyers have invested many thousands of dollars in Winter and Gift Merchandise, purchased at the new low prices. This is the Company's answer to the question, "How's business?"

It shows our confidence in business conditions and our expectancy of a busy winter and holiday season.

Victoria people have a considerable buying power, and they will spend their money where the best values are offered. A striking evidence of this is shown in the fact that we are serving many more customers than we were last year.

Throughout the whole store customers are buying freely the things they want for gifts and their own use.

MECCANO Engineering Sets

Amateurs To-day—Experts To-morrow

If you want your boy to be imaginative and resourceful let him be a Meccano model-builder. There's no other hobby so wonderful or so fascinating—no other way in which he can spend so many thrilling hours at home. Meccano is real engineering in minature—all parts are miniatures of corresponding parts in real engineering practice. Give your boy a set this Christmas. We have all the new 1930 outfits from No. 000 to No. 4.

No. 000 Outfit builds 132 models.. 75¢

No. 00 Outfit builds 490 models, $1.25

No. 0 Outfit builds 344 models, $1.75

No. 1 Outfit builds 573 models, $3.50

No. 2 Outfit builds 628 models, $5.25

No. 3 Outfit builds 686 models, $8.75

No. 4 Outfit builds 748 models, $16.50

How to Enlarge Your Meccano Outfit

Outfits may be converted into the one next higher by our accessory outfit. Thus if a No. 00 is the first outfit you buy, it may be converted into a No. 0 by adding it a No. 00A. A No. 0A will then convert it to a No. 1 and so you may keep on enlarging it until you have one of the very large sets.

No. 00A Accessory Outfit .... 50¢

No. 0A Accessory Outfit $1.75

No. 1A Accessory Oufit $2.00

No. 2A Accessory Outfit $3.75

In computing the number of words in an advertisement, estimate groups of three or less figures as one word. Dollar marks and all abbreviations count as one word.

In estimating the number of lines in an advertisement, count five words for the first two lines and seven words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute guide to the number of lines, much depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one issue. Any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire it may have replies addressed to a box at The Times Office and forwarded to their private address. A charge of 10c is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their addresses changed should notify this office, as well as the carrier. If your Times is missing, phone E7522 before 8 p.m., and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

25b MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

THE PIANO COMING BACK TO ITS OWN

There is no substitute for the piano—it is the world's basic instrument. When your children learn the piano they are LEARNING to understand music, and without an understanding of music full enjoyment is impossible.

NOTE: The world's piano centres have recently proved that piano sales are increasing—and this is as it should be.

BARGAINS: If you want a bargain in a used piano see us before you come to any decision.

NEW PIANOS: Such as Knabe, Mason & Hamlin, Willis and the renowned Chickering may be obtained from us upon very convenient terms and with a liberal allowance for your used piano, player or organ.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

THE NORMAL INFANT CAN RECOGNIZE HIS MOTHER AT THREE OR FOUR MONTHS
HE WILL PUT OBJECTS IN HIS EYE THAT HE AIMS AT HIS MOUTH
THE AVERAGE INFANT CREEPS AT NINE MONTHS
PROPER NUTRITION PRODUCES RAPID DEVELOPMENT
TALKS AT THE END OF THE FIRST YEAR SAY DADDY

The mental progress of the child and its muscular development proceed normally at such a rate that the infant is able to hold its head up at about the third month.

About the same time he can begin to grasp objects but not too co-ordinate accurately. Thus, he will sometimes put in his eye that which he aims at his mouth.

By the age of six months, he can reach for objects and begin to guess properly at distances. By the seventh month, the normal infant can sit alone. It cannot sit steadily until the eighth or ninth month.

The average infant tries to creep by the end of the ninth month and to walk by the end of the first year. A normal infant can recognize its mother around the third and fourth month and begin to understand words at the end of the tenth month. It will try to speak a few words at the end of the first year.

There is, however, a great deal of difference among infants as to the time when they begin to speak and as to the time when they begin to put words together in order to make phrases in short sentences. Usually the infant can make a short sentence by the end of two years.

If the nutrition of the child is poor, it certainly will not progress as rapidly physically or mentally as one that is fed properly and that absorbs the food that is given to it. Thus a child three years old that has not been properly fed and that suffers from rickets may be unable to talk, to walk, or even it sit alone.

The average person may believe that the child is defective mentally, whereas the only difficulty may be the fact that it has not been properly fed or that it has failed to absorb the food that is given to it.

Just as soon as such children are given proper amounts of proteins, carbohydrates and fats; as soon as they receive the mineral salts necessary for proper building of blood and of bones; as soon as their vitamin deficiencies are supplied through the giving of cod liver oil, orange juice, liver and sufficient amounts of such vegetables as lettuce, spinach, cabbage, string beans and similar substances, they begin to show rapid development of the muscles, fat develops under the skin and co-ordinately the mind shows improvement, which is proof of the fact that there has been no actual mental deficiency, but only delay because of improper nutrition.

Freehold Earning At Rate of $126,000

Freehold Oil Corporation Limited, with production which totaled 3,658 barrels during October, approximately 120 barrels per day, from its south end well, furnishes a good example of Turner Valley investment.

The company received $3.69 per barrel for 3,858 barrels last month, making a total of $13,398 for the month. At this rate the well would earn $160,776 per year, Miller, Court and Company to-day say.

Deducting one-eighth royalty to Home and 5 per cent to the Alberta Government, which would leave a balance of $132,641 with a further deduction of approximately $6,000 for operating expenses, would leave a net revenue of $126,641.

On its south end acreage in 8-29-19-2 West 5th the company should be able to drill three or four wells.

However, its chief possibilities lie in the fact that No. 2 was drilled only a short distance into the production horizon and it is believed that by being deepened the well should do at least 300 barrels per day.

Within the next year geological conditions should be fairly well defined in the north end of the valley and undoubtedly its acreage there contains great possibilities.

U.S. LAWYERS FAVOR REPEAL OF DRY LAW

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The American Bar Association is going on record as favoring repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

A favorable vote of 13,779 to 6,340 was revealed to-day by the association's headquarters on a referendum proposing:

"That the American Bar Association favors repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the constitution of the United States."

The result of the poll, in which approximately 75 per cent of the membership voted, will be officially announced in the December issue of the American Bar Association Journal.

Seventy-two Years Ago To-day B.C. Was Made Crown Colony

(Contributed)

It is questionable whether any residents now in this province attended the notable gathering at the Hudson's Bay Company's Fort when British Columbia was a Crown Colony on November 19, 1858, just seventy-two years ago to-day. Fort Langley, on the Fraser River, was then a centre of activity, with crowds of miners visiting the fort, and passing up the Fraser River in all manner of boats and canoes, bound for the rich gold fields in the Cariboo Country, then known as "Couteau."

From The Victoria Gazette, published on the morning of November 25, the following extract was taken:

"New Fort Langley, Nov. 20, 1858:

"Editor Gazette:—Yesterday the birth of British Columbia was ushered in by a steady rain, which continued preseveringly throughout the whole day and, in a great measure, marred the solemnity of the proclamation of the colony. His Excellency, Governor Douglas, with a suite comprising Rear-Admiral Baines (commanding the Naval Forces on the Pacific station) Mr. Cameron, the respected Chief Justice of Vancouver Island, Mr. Begbie, the newly-appointed Chief Justice of British Columbia, Mr. Lira, and others, proceeded on board H. M. Ship 'Sattelite,' Captain Prevost, on Wednesday morning by the Canal de Haro to Point Roberts, where His Excellency and suite were conveyed by the Hudson Bay Company's screw steamer 'Otter' to the company's steamship 'Beaver,' which was lying moored within the mouth of the Fraser. Both vessels then proceeded in company as far as old Fort Langley, where the 'Otter' disembarked a party of eighteen sappers, under the command of Captain Parsons, who immediately embarked in the 'Recovery,' revenue cutter, joining the command of Captain Grant, R.E., who had previously reached the point with a party of the same corps. Both these gallant officers have recently arrived from England with small parties of men under their command. The 'Beaver' then proceeded with His Excellency aboard to New Fort Langley, where preparations were made for the ceremonial of the following day.

PROCESSION DISEMBARKS

"On Friday morning, the 19th inst., His Excellency, accompanied by Captain Grant, disembarked on the wet loamy bank of the fort and the procession proceeded up the steep bank which leads to the palisades. Arrived there, a salute of eighteen guns commenced pealing from the 'Beaver,' awakening all the echoes of the opposite mountains. In another moment the flag of Britain was floating, or to speak the truth, dripping over, the principal entrance. Owing to the unpropitious state of the weather, the meeting which was intended to have been held in the open air was convened in the large rom at the principal building. About 100 persons were present.

"The ceremonies were commenced by His Excellency addressing Mr. Begbie and delivering to him Her Majesty's Commission as judge in the Colony of British Columbia. Mr. Begbie then took the oath of allegiance, and the usual oaths on taking office and then, addressing His Excellency, took up Her Majesty's Commission appointing him the Governor and proceeded to read it at length.

"Mr. Begbie then administered to Governor Douglas the usual oaths of office, viz: allegiance, abjuration, etc. His Excellency being then duly appointed and sworn in proceeded to issue the Proclamation of the same date (the 19th inst.) viz: one, proclaiming the act; a second, indemnifying all the officers of the Government from any irregularities which may have been committed in the interval before this proclamation of the act; and a third, proclaiming English law to be the law of the Colony. The reading of these was preceded by His Excellency's proclamation of the 3rd instant, setting forth the revocation by Her Majesty of all the exclusive privileges of the Hudson Bay Company.

ON THE BEAVER

"The proceedings then terminated. On leaving the Fort, which His Excellency did not do until to-day, another salute of seventeen guns was fired from the battlements, with even grander effect that the salute of the previous day. On leaving the riverside in front of the town a number of the inhabitants were assembled with whom His Excellency entered into conversation, previous to embarking aboard the 'Beaver,' and by whom he was loudly cheered in very good-style as he was on his way to the steamer."

The late Sir James Douglas was Governor of Vancouver Island, during nine years, preceding the ceremony at Fort Langley. Previous to that time two other governors had been in office on Vancouver Island, the first, Governor Blanchard landing at Victoria in the year 1850, the year following the passing of an Imperial Statute entitled "An Act to provide for the administration of justice on Vancouver Island." A commission, also proclaimed by Queen Victoria, appointed the Governor of Vancouver Island to take office as Governor of the Colony of British Columbia as established by said Statute of 1858.

BIRTHDAY QUESTION

The late Sir James Douglas retained office until the year 1864, when he was succeeded by the late Governor Seymour, who died during his term, while traveling along the coast in a man-o-war. The question of the natal day of British Columbia has been a subject of discussion between historians of this country, and the matter was taken up by the B.C. Historical Association. At a meeting of the association the following resolutions were moved, seconded, and carried by a unanimous vote:

"Whereas during the past year (1925) there was celebrated in certain quarters an important historic incident that occurred at Fort Langley, B.C., on the 19th day of November, 1858, which was in said celebrations mistakenly described as the 'sixty-seventh birthday of British Columbia';

"And whereas it is desirable that the true history of our province should be known and duly commemorated;

"And whereas it appears:

"1. That in the year 1849 the Crown Colony of Vancouver's Island was established by the passing of the Imperial Statute of the twenty-eighth day of July of that year entitled 'an Act to provide for the Administration of Justice in Vancouver's Island,' and by the commission of Her Majesty Queen Victoria (dated the sixteenth day of July, 1849) issued to Richard Blanshard, Esq., to be Governor of the said Colony of Vancouver's Island, and its dependencies, and Commander-in-Chief of the same;

"2. And that the said Governor Blanshard was conveyed to Fort Victoria, the capital of said Colony, in Her Majesty's ship-of-war, the Driver, and on the eleventh day of March 1850, in the said fort, the said Governor, with appropriate ceremonial, publicly read his said commission and assumed the duties of his office, in which he was succeeded by James Douglas, Esq., in the year 1851;

"3. And that on the second day of August, 1858, there was passed an imperial statute entitled 'An Act to provide for the Government of British Columbia' and by a commission of Her said Majesty Queen Victoria the said James Douglas, being Governor of Vancouver's Island, was appointed to be Governor also of the new Colony of British Columbia as established by said Statue of 1858, and the said Governor Douglas, accompanied by the said Chief Justice of Vancouver's Island and other personages, in due course went to Fort Langley in the said new Colony of British Columbia and was there, on the nineteenth day of November, 1858, formally inducted into his new and additional office and continued to exercise the powers of both gubernatorial offices, and in the year 1864 was succeeded in that of the new Colony by Governor Seymour;

"5. And that by an Imperial Statute, passed on the sixth day of August, 1866, entitled 'An Act for the Union of the Colony of Vancouver Island with the Colony of British Columbia,' provision was made for such union, which was finally brought about by proclamation made under said Act and entitled the 'Union Proclamation 1866,' and duly promulgated on the seventeenth of November, 1866, after which date it was by the said Statute of 1866 declared, "Those two Colonies shall form and be one Colony with the name of British Columbia';

"6. And that by the said union of the said Colonies the United Colony succeeded to all the rights and privileges enjoyed by both or either of them, not the least of which was and is the honor of the seniority of the official establishment of the first British Colony on the Pacific Coast of America;

"And whereas it is most desirable that the principle of unity of spirit and community of interest which animated the union in 1866 of the former separated Colonies should be preserved in all respects and for all time in their successor, the present Province of British Columbia, therefore be it resolved;

"That if it be deemed advisable to celebrate the birthday of this Province that day is the eleventh day of March, 1850, being the day upon which the first Governor (Blanshard) first landed within the present boundaries of this Province as aforesaid, and exhibited and read to the people Her Majesty's commission to him as her first representative in her Dominions on these Pacific shores; and be it further resolved:

"That copies of this resolution be sent to the Honorable the Premier of this Province, to the Honorable the Speaker of the Legislature, and to the Honorable the Provincial Secretary."

At a meeting of the B.C. Natural History Society, held on March 27, 1922, Miss A. M. Russell, of the staff of the Provincial Library, read a paper which was both interesting and instructive, and which dealt with the early history of this country. In part, Miss Russell read as follows:

"The Oxford Dictionary defines history as the 'continuous methodical record of public events,' so, if I am to give any continuous idea of the history of British Columbia, I had better begin as far back as possible, and enumerate as many events as the time at my disposal will permit. The earliest events belong, strictly speaking, to the Island of Vancouver, as British Columbia did not become a geographical expression until 1858, in which year it was made a Crown Colony by an act of the Imperial Parliament. Previous to that date that territory was named New Caledonia by Simon Fraser of the Northwest Company of Montreal."

Although the late Governor Blanshard and Governor Kennedy landed on Vancouver Island previous to the date of the visit of Sir James Douglas to Fort Langley, there is on evidence of their presence on the mainland of British Columbia, prior to 1858, that the writer is aware of. After the installation of Governor Sir James Douglas at Fort Langley, he did not remain on the mainland. The colonies were separate, and Governor Seymour was appointed by the authorities in England. Prior to his arrival Colonel Moody administered affairs at New Westminster.

BACHELOR TAX TO BE DEBATED

Old Country Team of Orators to Meet Local Men Next Wednesday

"Resolved that this house would favor a tax on bachelors" is the subject chosen for the debate between the touring team of British orators and a local team including Hugh Allan and J. Villiers Fisher, which is to be staged at the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium on Wednesday evening, November 26, at 8.15 o'clock.

The debates will be under the joint auspices of the Service Clubs Council and the Civil Service Literary and Debating Society, and Judge P. S. Lampman, Professor E. S. Farr and B. C. Nicholas will act as judges.

VISITING TEAM

The visitors represent the student associations of Great Britain and their trip is being sponsored by the National Federation of Canadian University Students.

H. Trevor Lloyd, the leader of the team, is a graduate from the University of Bristol and has represented that college in inter-varsity debates throughout England. He was also a member of the Imperial team that met Canada at Bristol in the fall of 1928. He has held many positions in undergraduate activities at the English university and acted as director of commissions in the International Confederation of Students conference at Budapest in 1928.

John Mitchell, the other member of the team, holds the degrees of M.A. and LL.D from the University of Aberdeen Law School. He has taken an active part in student affairs, being president of the undergraduate council and the Scottish Student's Conference. He is at present the head of the Aberdeen University Unionist Association, which wields considerable influence in politics of the north-east of Scotland. His debating ability was shown in the work he did for the Aberdeen Debating Society.

GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

The teams will be the guests of honor at a joint luncheon of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Gyro and Buisness and Professional Women's Clubs to be held at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday at noon. Tickets for the debate may be obtained from Fletcher Bros. or from members of the service clubs.

MASEFIELD TOPIC OF ADDRESS AT COLLEGE SOCIETY

The last meeting of the term of the Victoria College Literary Society was held yesterday evening when the members of the sophomore year had charge of the programme. The meeting was opened with group singing of college songs under the leadership of Professor Walter H. Cage. Members of the Fossils Club rendered two delightful French-Canadian songs.

When Masefield was fourteen years old he ran away to sea and after numerous adventures landed in New York with five dollars and the clothes he wore. He worked in various places, spending all his spare money on books, for even then he had a great desire to write, the speaker said.

Going to England he started to write under the inspiration and encouragement of the Irish poet, W. B. Yeats. His first book "Salt Water Ballads," published in 1902, proved a great success. In 1911 he published "The everlasting Mercy," the poem which marked the beginning of his rise to fame, Miss Johnson said. During the war he worked with the Red Cross and acquired material for his novel "Gallipoli."

"Masefield is criticized as being coarse and harsh, but this is due to the realism in which he revels. He depends upon speed and vigor of style to carry him through. He introduced a virileness into poetry that was lost during the Victorian period. It was through him that poetry came to be read again by the common everyday person," Miss Johnson said.

Miss Johnson read portions of Masefield's works showing his marvellous power of description.

Geneille Cave-Browne-Cave gave two violin selections, Drydla's "Souvenir" and Gounoud's "Ave Maria."

The programme closed with a clever one-act farce entitled "Saving Samuel," presented by the Misses Pat May and Bernice Chapman.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The organ recital which Stanley F. Bulley was to have given at Christ Church Cathedral to-morrow night has been cancelled owing to Mr. Bulley's illness.

Mayor Anscomb, Reeve James Eirich of Esquimalt, Reeve E. Hayward of Oak Bay and Reeve H. C. Oldfield of Saanich will speak on "Civic Problems" before the Rotary Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-morrow.

The Oakland's Parent-teacher Association will hold a military five hundred card game to-night in the school auditorium at 8.15 o'clock. Merchandise scrip prizes will be given and light refreshments served.

The Victoria Assembly of the Native Sons of Canada will hold a special session to-morrow evening at 751 View Street. A roll call of the membership will be made and questions of importance will be discussed.

The Guild of Health is holding a fellowship meeting in the Y.W.C.A. to-morrow evening between 8 o'clock and 10 o'clock. A short programme and address will be followed by refreshments. All members and friends are welcome.

The November meeting of the Prayer Union for the Salvation of Israel will be held on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. Various extracts from papers relating to the Jews will be read, Dr. I. W. Hewett, president, announces.

Members of the Royal Society of St. George will meet at the Old Men's Home this evening at 7.45 o'clock, to give a musical programme, and to spend a social evening. Mrs. B. G. Ruddock will have the programme in hand. Mrs. Alfred Hallam is convener.

Before the New Education Fellowship at Victoria College to-morrow evening, Professor William G. Black, associate professor of education at the University of British Columbia, will deliver an address on "Some Important Educational Experiments of the Post-war Period." A large attendance is looked for.

Considerable enthusiasm in the proposed campaign for home products was shown at a meeting of the home products committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening. Further discussion took place on the proposal to suggest to Canadian manufacturers that a beaver or some other distinctive trade mark be placed on all Canadian products.

All members of the Amputations' Association of the Great War are requested to attend the regular meeting of the local branch to-morrow evening when Comade J. Curran, Dominion vice-president, and Comrades R. Myers and E. A. Baker of the Dominion Command, are to pay an official visit. Matters of importance to all members will be discussed.

The new building of the western division, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, is to be officially opened to-day. This building is located at 1101 Broadway West, Vancouver, and its erection was made possible through the donations of the public of British Columbia in a drive held one year ago. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor is officiating at the opening ceremony.

A very interesting pocket size booklet entitled "Compact Facts" has been prepared by the National Development Bureau, Department of the Interior, Ottawa. The booklet contains, in summarized form, a wealth of information on Canada and should prove of interest to business men, educationalists and others who require such data for handy reference. Copies can be obtained by adults upon application to the bureau.

Major Gordon Smith, head of the Provincial Information Bureau, and George I. Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity Commissioner, will leave Victoria this evening to attend the first annual convention of the Canadian Association of Tourist Bureaus, of which Mr. Warren is first vice-president. They will be joined in Vancouver by Charles Webster, Vancouver Publicity Commissioner. Before leaving Vancouver, Mr. Warren will attend a meeting of the advertising committee of the Puget Sounders and British Columbians Associated.

The second regular meeting of the Tuxis Council was held in the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday. Mayor Gordon Fields took charge of the meeting. After the routine business was disposed of, the planning of the elections for the Boys' Parliament was discussed at some length. It was decided that conclave of all Tuxis and Trail Ranger members should be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday, November 28. Here the nominees for Parliament would give their campaign speeches. The election of members will be held Saturday, a week later. The meeting then adjourned.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

Debate on National Advertising Is Feature of First United Church Gathering

The regular meeting of the Young People's Soicety of the First United Church was held on Monday evening. About seventy members attended.

The evening opened with a sing-song, led by Ken Simpson, followed by a brief devotional service in charge of Jean Menzies and Olive Heritage.

The main feature was the first of the inter-class debates between representatives of the Volunteers and Axioms classes, the question under date being resolved, "That national advertising, as carried on to-day, is both socially and economically harmful." The negative side, taken by Loretta McCall, Margaret Purves and Ruth Levers, of the Volunteers, received the decision of the judges over Mae Innes, Maxine Ewart and Muriel Hoy, of the Axioms. The judges were Mrs. Farr and Mr. Campbell.

The musical programme, which was presented by the following artists, was much enjoyed: Miss Deauville, vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Hammond, and Miss Ockenden, piano solo.

The meeting was brought to a close with a social half hour, during which refreshments were served.

DR. W. H. GADDES MEETS FARMERS IN CONVENTION

Land Settlement Problems Discussed By Advisory Board

Government Land Clearing Aid Feared Too Expensive For Farmers to Invoke

Dr. W. H. Gaddes, chairman of the Land Settlement Board, this morning discussed settlers' problems with the Advisory Board of Farmers' Institutes, in session at the Parliament Buildings. The advisability of permitting homesteading or pre-empting of adjoining quarter sections, in districts where much poor land exists, was examined, Dr. Gaddes pointing to difficulties in school and road provision in thinly settled areas.

J. Y. Copeman, Victoria, pointed out that section 15 of the Crown Lands Act covered the problem, by allowing the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council to decide, in individual instances, the amount of acreage granted pre-emption. Existence of the provision was a surprise to all the delegates and the matter will be taken up with the Minister of Lands.

Dr. Gaddes was asked to explain the Land Settlement Board's attitude towards revaluation of its land holdings. He said that over 500,000 acres of reverted land in the Bulkeley and Nechaco Valleys were being appraised, but nothing had been done with Land Settlement Board holdings, action on them being deferred until the larger area was valued.

CUT AIDS SALES

A report covering 200,000 acres in Vanderhoof, Prince George and Fraser Lake districts would shortly be released, Dr. Gaddes said. Lower valuations in many areas had stimulated land sales, which had exceeded $1,000,000 during the year. The total cited included sales in the Sumas district.

Relief to individual settlers was discussed by Dr. Gaddes, who told of settlers who were in debt to the board through interest and other charges, and had sought to be relieved of their agreements. The board had been willing to compound but legal barriers had prevented and repossession and resale to the settler had been the only way out of the difficulty.

"The board has never dispossessed any settler who has been willing to retain his holdings," Dr. Gaddes said.

MANY SATISFIED

To illustrate the difficulty involved in readjustments of prices, Dr. Gaddes said over seventy settlers in Bulkeley Valley held land from the Settlement Board. All but four were paying on their contracts without seeking modification. Dr. Gaddes pointed out that relief accorded complaints would possibly result in demands for concessions being filed by the great majority now paying without complaint.

Col. W. S. Latta, director of the Land Settlement Board, said few settlers were unable to carry on with their agreements, the proportion being only eighteen per cent. Each had to be dealt with individually, but the board was sympathetic.

Dr. Gaddes was asked to consider aid to settlers in land clearing, where the security was considered sufficient.

R. Blackburn, Nechaco, believed many settlers had sufficiently improved their holdings to warrant aid in extending their cultivatable acreage.

J. M. Yorston, Cariboo, feared the overhead charges would be too burdensome. He preferred a community clearing scheme, aided by the government by loan of a caterpillar tractor for stump pulling and breaking, the settlers doing the bulk of the work.

O. B. Appleton, West Kootenay, chairman, supported the alternative offered by Mr. Yorston, expressing fear of the charges of a wholesale government scheme.

Dr. Gaddes agreed that development schemes conducted by the government "generally cost too much." He told of government loans to settlers of stump pulling machines, but was not informed of the success attained.

Mr. Yorston said expert operators should always accompany machines, and A. B. Smith, of East Kootenay, recalled that well drilling machinery loaned some years ago to interior settlers, had been badly wrecked by inexperienced operators.

C. J. Killer, of Bulkeley Valley, asked Dr. Gaddes to consider pre-emptors to exchange poor holdings for better lands, reverted to the Crown.

Mr. Yorston said the Advisory Board had last year recorded itself in support of permitting pre-emption of reverted lands.

Dr. Gaddes said the Land Settlement Board frequently met such situations and was eager to place men on better land, but had no authority.

ORGANIZER OF PLUMBERS HERE

J. W. Bruce Guest at Smoking Concert of Victoria Local

J. N. Bruce, Caandian organizer for journeyman plumbers was a guest at a smoker in his honor at the Harmony Hall, Fort Street, yesterday evening arranged by local 324, Plumbers and Steam Fitters, Victoria.

Mr. Bruce gace an instructive talk on the conditions as they affect the building trade throughout Canada, and expressed the opinion that Victoria was in very good condition at this particular time. He was also glad to see the harmony that existed between the wholesalers, the master plumbers and the men in regard to the new by-law. He strongly advised that much thought should be given to any measure affecting the sanitary condition or health of any city before it became law.

Other speakers included Mr. Thacker of Thacker & Holt, who is president of Victoria Plumbing and Heating Society, J. Casson, vice-president, and James Barf, city building inspector, Robert W. Murdoch of Crane & Co. and E. Colbert.

MANUFACTURERS WILL GATHER IN CITY NEXT JUNE

The Canadian Manufacturer's Association will hold its annual convention in Victoria at the beginning of June next year, it was announced at the meeting of the local branch in the Empress Hotel to-day.

The sessions here will continue for four days with buisness meetings in the morning and evening.

In appreciation of the national executive's decision to hold the gathering here the Victoria branch will forward a letter of thanks to headquarters.

The entire provincial organization of the association will co-operate with the local body in staging the event.

Delegates to Institute Advisory Board Report on Conditions in Districts

Water Supply Appears Problem in Most Parts; Cariboo Doing Very Well

Four consecutive dry years in the Bulkeley Valley resulted this year in the most complete crop failure known in the district, C. J. Killer reported this morning to the advisory board of Farmers' Institutes. Owing to heavy fall rains the settlers were optimistic for next year.

Dairying had progressed steadily, tuberculosis had been nearly eliminated but contagious abortion had appeared and required control measures, Mr. Killer said. Livestock conditions had been bad, as feed shortage had compelled sale of cattle on a depressed market.

R. Blackburn, Nechaco Valley, stated lack of water was the most serious problem of his district. A test well was being sunk by the government, and if water was found to underlie the valley, most of the settlers would engage in dairying. Prices for produce had been better than in other districts because of local demand.

O. B. Appleton, West Kootenay, said water had proven a serious problem in his district. Fruit and poultry were the major activities and could only progress if water was assured.

A. B. Smith, East Kootenay, said the coyote bounty had been timely, many sheepmen in his district having experienced many losses. Heavy damage by gophers had been experienced in grain fields near the International boundary.

M. P. Williams, Okanagan, said large exports of Jonathan apples had cleared the market of that variety, but McIntosh Reds were a problem, lacking color. The apple growers were keenly watching the appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada as to the legality of the operation of the Committee of Direction. The hay crop was below average, while grain crops were good. Sheepmen had suffered losses from grizzly bears, and efforts would be made to induce the government to send hunters into the hills next spring ahead of the sheep.

J. M. Yorston, Cariboo, said an almost normal season had been experienced. Being a stock district the Cariboo had not been as hard hit as other areas. Ample hay was available and stockmen had not been compelled to sacrifice cattle.

BROKER ARRESTS NOT SETBACK FOR MINING

Bateman Declares Prosperity of Industry Does Not Depend on Them or Government

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—Arrest of a number of prominent Canadian brokers does not constitute a permanent setback for the mining industry of Canada. Prosperity of mining depends on the merit of properties, not brokers or the Government, declared George C. Bateman, secretary of the Ontario Mining Asociation at a luncheon to-day in connection with the anual convention of British Columbia division, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

The convention was formally opened by Lieut.-Governor Bruce. A review of the B.C. mining industry during the current year was given by J. D. Galloway, Provincial Mineralogist.

"You might think the industry has received a permanent setback because a number of brokers have been arrested, but fortunately this is not the case," said Mr. Bateman.

"The prosperity of mining does not depend on either brokers or Government, any more than the prosperity of the country as a whole depends on them. What the prosperity of mining does depend on are properties of merit, but unfortunately, during the past few years there have been too few new discoveries.

"To offset this lack of discoveries, artificial stimulation was tried, but the only stimulation we really needed were new discoveries to stimulate prospecting and new properties of merit to stimulate exploration."

STREET CAR THUGS HUNTED IN SEATTLE

Canadian Press

Seattle, Nov. 19.—Robbers were $452 richer to-day as a result of holding up two street cars, a grocery store and four individuals here yesterday evening. The robbers struck four times in rapid succession, beginning early in the evening with the robbery of a street car and the kidnapping of its operator, Truman R. Peterson.

Peterson told police two men ordered him into their car and drove him some distance before robbing him of $2 and releasing him. Shortly afterward, John Pederson, a pedestrian, reported two men in a car of the same description, a large maroon automobile, had robbed him of $82.

At 7.30 p.m. two men of the same description as those in the earlier robberies held up another street car and robbed three men passengers and James H. Kelly, operator, of about $18, Kelly said. Six women in the car were told: "Don't be afraid, ladies. We don't hold up women."

J. J. Geros, porprietor, informed police two men had entered his store, emptied the till of $170 and taken $50 from George Mahos, $75 from Bill Mahos and $55 from Mike Semaners, workmen who had been paid recently.

ALBERTA PACIFIC HOLDERS FACE HEAVY LOSSES

Responsibility For Unauthorized Speculations to Come Up at Calgary Meeting

Calgary, Nov. 19.—Shareholders of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, whose losses for the year ended June 30 of this year approximated more than two and one-half million dollars, met here to-day in annual session and important decisions governing the future management and development of the company will be made.

The fourth annual report issued by President J. C. Gage and his directors, which was made public at the first of the month, will be under consideration as well as plans for a reduction in the firm's capital account.

The report of the company's counsel, following lengthy investigation, into the responsibility of former officers for losses of $1,785,636 sustained through unauthorized transactions and purchase of stocks on margin will, it is understood, also be available for shareholders. The officers who were in charge of the company at the time are James Stewart, prominent financier and grain authority, former president; F. W. Riddell, former managing director, and A. C. Michael, then a member of the board of directors. These officers resigned following the announcement of the enormous losses, which wiped out a balance of $1,555,933 creased in the fiscal year of 1928-29.

Change of by-laws seeking reduction in the capital of the company from $6,412,354 to $4,000,000 will be considered at a special session of the shareholders. Ratification will be sought for the cancellation of $1,412,354, which is now represented by available assets. This will be done without diminishing the number of 30,000 fully paid shares of 7 per cent cumulative preference stock or the number of 80,000 class "A" common shares of no par value or the 20,000 shares class "B" common, also without par value.

INDEMNITIES DEMANDED

Madrid, Nov. 19.—The Spanish Government yesterday decided to ask indemnities of Brazil for the lives of Spanish subjects who died during the recent shelling of the German steamship Baden at Rio de Janeiro. Twenty-six persons were killed, most of them Spaniards, as the vessel was fired on when leaving Rio harbor during the Brazil revolution.

SUN-TREATED

A NEW PROCESS

CANADA'S most popular blended cigarette now flooded with sunshine . . . cool . . . smooth . . . fragrant. Made from the original choice selected tobaccos irradiated by a battery of giant sun lamps . . . bathed in powerful ultra-violet rays.

Here is another triumph for Buckingham . . . All the original richness of the blended leaf is here in this mild, mellow, sun-treated cigarette. The famous Buckingham flavor takes on a new meaning . . . a new thrill comes with every puff. Buckingham Cigarettes . . . sun-treated . . . are mellow as a day in June . . . fine-tasting as old wine.

Mild ::: Mellow ::: Satisfying ::: They're Sun-Treated

NO COUPONS ALL QUALITY — TWENTY FOR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

FIRST THE BLEND

The manufacturers of Buckinghams originated the famous Buckingham Blend—a secret process which employs selected leaf, matured in wood, heat-treated and air-conditioned to preserve the fine fragrance and mild aroma.

THEN THE PACKING

Buckinghams are packed by the famous Arenco machines which package Buckinghams at the rate of 1,000,000 per machine, per day. The freshness of Buckinghams is preserved by using the exclusive and patented sealed package.

AND NOW SUN-TREATING

Buckinghams are made from choice tobaccos treated by ultra-violet rays—the blended leaf passing under giant sun-lamps. Thus is achieved a new mellow richness of flavor and a satisfaction to smokers everywhere.

Four Freight Ships Berthed Here To-day

Yahiko Maru and West Notus Loading and Discharging at Rithet Piers This Morning

Gregalia and Corrientes Expected Later in Day From United Kingdom

With two freight ships at the outer docks this morning and two more expected later this afternoon and early this evening, the Rithet and Ogden Point piers to-day commenced the period of activity that will keep them busy for the next four or five days. Large gangs of longshoremen will be kept busy this week loading and discharging varied cargo for and from the Orient, Europe and South Europe.

The Japanese freighter Yahiko Maru arrived at the Rithet piers late yesterday evening, and this morning at 8 o'clock work was commenced on the loading of 650,000 feet of Vancouver Island timber for ports in the Orient. The Yahiko came here from Chemainus and after completing her local cargo sometime to-morrow she will proceed to the mainland to complete for across the Pacific.

The Munson freighter West Notus was still at the Rithet piers this morning discharging 1,100 tons of corn from South America. It is probable that she will proceed to Seattle late this evening. She has been here since early yesterday morning. King Brothers, local shipping agents, were busy with both the Yahiko Maru and the West Notus this morning.

FROM ENGLAND

Two British ships are expected from the United Kingdom before 9 o'clock this evening. They are the Donaldson freighters Corrientes and Gregalia. According to word received in Victoria this morning by A. E. Shanks, of Rithet Consolidated Limited, local agents, the Gregalia was due at Race Rocks this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from England by way of the Panama Canal and California ports. She was expected at the Rithet piers about two hours later and before proceeding to Vancouver early this evening will discharge about eighty-five tons of general cargo for local merchants.

The Corrientes will reach Race Rocks this evening at 6 o'clock, the captain of the ship this morning advised Mr. Shanks by wireless. She will proceed to the Ogden Point piers and to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock will commence loading 9,000 boxes of British Columbia apples for the United Kingdom. After completing here late tomorrow evening she will proceed to Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland, before sailing south to the Panama Canal en route to England. The Corrientes is a refrigerator ship and will take a full cargo of Pacific Coast apples to Europe this voyage. It will be the first time she has called at Victoria.

Although no word has yet been received regarding her exact movements, it is expected the Furness motor liner Pacific Reliance will sail from San Francisco this evening direct for Victoria, on her way to Vancouver from England. She will dock here on Saturday morning, according to present schedule in the hands of the local agents. She has passengers and cargo for this port and Vancouver.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Nov. 19.—Officials of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company yesterday interpreted the delay of W. R. Grace and Co., in awarding the contract for four new liners, as indicating the organization will not build the vessels for some time.

Bids for the work were opened more than two months ago. Bay region shipyard executives said there was no reason why the contract should not have been awarded weeks ago. Officials of W. R. Grace and Co., in sending out plans and specifications, said the vessels were needed as soon as possible.

The four liners will cost approximately $16,000,000.

The coast guard cutter Algonquin, built in 1899, is due here next Sunday from San Diego to be retired from active service.

The cutter is one of the veterans in the service of the government on the Pacific Coast. The armament of the cutter will be returned to the United States navy and the other equipment will be salvaged.

The crew of the cutter will probably be transferred to the new cutter Shoshone, to be completed early in 1931, coast guard officials said.

German Motorship Seattle Comes Off Columbia Mud Bank

St. Helens, Oregon, November 19.—The German motorship Seattle of the Hamburg-American Line, which went aground in the Columbia River, near here Monday evening, was floated at high tide late yesterday afternoon and continued downstream to the open Pacific Ocean at 11 o'clock last night.

After coming off the muddy bottom a survey was made of the ship's bottom. It was found intact and undamaged and the ship proceeded to sea en route to San Francisco. The weather was thick when the Seattle grounded, and she ran gently on to the mud bank as she swung at anchor. The mishap occurred at low tide.

HARBOR BOARD INQUIRY STARTS AT HALIFAX

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 19.—The investigation of activities of the former Halifax Harbor Commission before a Royal Commission was opened here to-day.

C. B. Smith, K.C., representing the Federal Government, charged the former harbor commission had improvidently contracted for $300,000 worth of work previously provided for; that it had entered into leases whereby the lessees were not required to pay an amount sufficient to meet the carrying charges of the properties involved; that it had purchased 24,000 tons of cement made from a formula yet to prove its fitness for use in submarine construction, previous to approval of the contract in the carrying out of which it was to be used; that the contracts for two of the piers at present under construction are not being fulfilled according to specifications; and finally, that 1,372 extra men were paid $5,000 on election day.

Mr. Justice F. Orde of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario is presiding over the commission. Peter R. Jack, chairman of the former commission, and C. W. Ackhurst are represented at the hearing by L. A. Lovitt, K.C., while John Murphy, third member, is not represented.

Bids Received For Old Light Ship Umatilla

Four bids for the old Umatilla Reef Lightship, which is now lying idle at the Lake Washington ship canal locks in Seattle, have been received in Portland by R. R. Tinkham, superintendent of the Seventeenth Lighthouse District. The old lightship was well known to mariners of Victoria and to Victorians who traveled up and down the coast between this port and California. The lightship was painted red with the word Umatilla printed across her side in huge white letters.

The big bid of $873.25 was submitted by the Pacific Metal and Salvage Company of Seattle. Other bids were: Capt. J. C. Brownfield, Seattle, $777.77; Nieder & Marcus, Seattle, $777; C. Weinstein, Portland, $500. The bids were referred to the Bureau of Lighthouses at Washington, D.C.

Umatilla Reef Lightship No. 67 for more than thirty years was stationed off Umatilla Reef, fourteen and a half miles south of Cape Flattery, warning shipping of these dangerous shoals. She was retired from service recently and replaced by one of the new modern Diesel-powered lightships.

The Umatilla was built in 1897 in the yards of Wolf & Zwicker in Portland. With the exception of one year on the station off the mouth of the Columbia River, the Umatilla's entire service was off Umatilla Reef.

NEW DOLLAR LINER WILL BE LAUNCHED

President Hoover to Be Christened By Chief Executive's Wife on December 9

Interesting details of the first of four new Pacific liners, the President Hoover, which will be launched at Newport News on December 9 and christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the president, after whom it will be named, were received in Victoria this morning by Wm. Allen, local representative of the Dollar Lines for whom the ship is being built.

The President Hoover will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000,000 and will be the finest ship ever turned out by a United States shipbuilding yard. She will enter service between California ports and the Orient early next summer.

The new President Hoover is a steel twin-screw vessel with nine decks, with slightly raked stem and semi-cruiser stern, and will boast two stacks. She has a length of 653 feet, a breadth of fifty-two feet, a beam of eighty-one feet, a displacement tonnage of 31,000 and 67,000 tons of refrigerated cargo space. She will have a total passenger capacity of 1,260 people and will carry a crew of 300. She will do twenty-one knots average speed, with extra speed in reserve.

DE LUXE HOTEL

The President Hoover will be a de luxe hotel at sea in every sense of the word. She will have elevators, a swimming pool, both indoor and outdoor, a gymnasium, children's playroom, verandah cafe, smoking room, library, private dining rooms, tea room, music and dance salons, a talking picture theatre, a shopping lobby, a broadcasting system, stock exchange rooms, writing room, beauty parlor, telephones in every room, a magnificent lounge and a big dining room extending the whole breadth of the ship. There will be four de luxe suites, consisting of sea verandah, living room, bedroom with bath, and dining room.

The main lounge, a room forty-five feet by fifty-three feet, will be set off by walls of carved satinwood and ivory panels. The furnitures, carpets, tapestries and hangings for this room were specially made and will be the latest and most luxurious possible. Art of the Spanish-California type will mark the smoking room, with walls of well matched wood. There will be a huge firefplace in this rom, opposite which will be a tapestry executed by a group of nationally-known artists illustrating an episode in the life of Rip Van Winkle. In every way the new ship will be one of the finest and most beautiful on the Pacific.

NEW EUROPE SERVICE MAY TOUCH HERE

Five Freighters, All Well Known at This Port, in New Pacific-Europe Trade

A new freight service between the United Kingdom and the Pacific Coast of North America was inaugurated recently when the freighter Jefferson Myers sailed from London for this coast. The company operating this service is known as the Pacific Atlantic Line and the five ships that will ply in the new service are all well known at Victoria, having been here several times discharging general cargo and loading lumber.

They are, besides the Jefferson Myers, the San Lucas, the San Julian, the San Pedro and the Peter Kerr. King Bros. are local agents. The new service does not call for regular stops at Victoria, but it is expected the ships will be frequent callers here while on the Coast.

These five vessels are all oil burners of between 10,000 and 12,000 tons deadweight capacity. They are all of modern design and admirably equipped for the trade, carrying mainly timber, grain, copper, canned goods, flour and all the principal commodities from the Pacific Coast. The itineraries call for stops at Liverpool, Manchester, London, Philadelphia, the Canal Zone, San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver with stops at other ports when business offers. Victoria is in this last category.

The new line is a subsidiary of the States Steamship Company of the United States. The United States Lines, at their London offices, will act as agents throughout Europe. Kenneth C. Dawson is at the head of the Pacific Atlantic Line. It was his original intention to construct a fleet of five twenty-knot vessels for the new service at a cost of about $800,000 each, but this high speed and consequent outlay was deemed too excessive for present conditions. It is believed, however, that new tonnage will shortly be added to the service.

SWEDISH SHIP BELIEVED LOST IN THE BALTIC

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 19.—Considerable fear is entertained here for the Swedish steamer Tanja, of 715 tons, which may have sunk in the Baltic.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Nov. 19.—The apple trade had one of its busiest days on the waterfront here yesterday with four vessels loading more than 400,000 boxes of the fruit.

Representing extra tonnage the Parana of the joint service of the Royal Mail and Holland-America Lines was stowing 80,000 boxes, the Canonesa of the Furness Line 100,000 boxes and the Edda, of the Canadian-American Shipping Company 130,000 boxes.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—Wheat: Strong cables with export business worked overnight estimated at around 1,000,000 bushels, gave the local market a firmer tone to-day and prices were higher, with the market acting nervous at times. Offerings were much lighter than on Tuesday, and there was no pressure from local interests.

At one time Chicago was a fair seller of Winnipeg May which was understood to be unwinding of spreads, and later were buying Winnipeg July against sales of their July. Later in the day there was scattered buying that was understood to be largely short covering by sellers earlier in the day which carried prices to top levels, and about two cents over the previous close in the deferred months.

In the cash market there was a fairly good demand for the top grades with shippers buying to fill cargoes, while mills were also in the market. Offerings were again light and spreads on the top grades were 1-8 to 3-8 better and unchanged on others. Liverpool closed unchanged to 7-8 higher. Buenos Aires was also steady. Country marketings Tuesday were 1,742,000 against 619,000 on the same date a year ago.

Broomhall estimated the total exportable surplus as follows: United States 240,000,000, Canada 353,000,000, Argentine new crop 200,000,000, Australia 152,000,000 Argentine was reported to be offering wheat 64 pounds to the bushels guaranteed at 72 1-8 cents in England. This is taken as an indication that the quality of the new crop is good. Winnipeg futures closed 1 3-4 to 1 3-8 higher.

Coarse grains: There was little feature to the trade passing in the pit, but offerings were very light. The stength in wheat was reflected in the coarse grains to some extent, especially rye.

There was a fair amount of oats worked to eastern Canada overnight, and a little export business in rye was confirmed.

Flax: There was only a small featureless business in flax, but the market was firmer with light offerings. Closing prices 1-4 to 2 1-2 higher.

Liverpool cables 7-8 to 1-2 higher, based on Winnipeg.

Liverpool

Open—1⅛ lower.

Close—Unchanged to ⅞ higher.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Wheat: The trade was somewhat smaller to-day, with absense of pressure and prices hovering fractionally over the previous close foreign markets were firmer. Liverpool closing unchanged to ⅞ higher and Buenos Aires being 1⅝ and 1⅞ higher at midday.

The Liverpool cables note more active buying by importers owing to the expecation of smaller Russian shipments. New crop Argentine wheat is being offered at low prices in Europe and crop news was generally favorable from both the southern growers.

Domestic cash markets were relatively steady and there was much better volume of flour business reported, buyers having more confidence now that the farm board has stepped into the breach to steady and stabilize prices.

Prospective stocks of exporting countries the coming year are much larger than estimated requirements, but it would not be surprising to see a much closer adjustment between supply and demand in this country before the end of the year.

It is reasonable to assume that the domestic feeding of wheat to stock will make up for a normal export business, while reports indicate a much larger per capita consumption of wheat for human food, owing to the hard times and also to the cheaper prices for flour and bread. Favor a trading position with preference to buying side around present levels.

GRAIN TRADE STUNNED BY WINNIPEG COLLAPSE

After yesterday's plunge to the lowest depths ever recorded in the history of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, wheat prices were steadier to-day at levels a few cents above the low of the plunge, but still down near the uttermost depths.

Chicago wheat was steady around yesterday's levels, with the trade and range both narrow.

In Winnipeg the trade was still stunned, not having yet recovered its senses after Tuesday's terrible trouncing. No one apparently has any courage or money left and most of the biggest men in the trade have taken unbelievable backings.

"Buying by the Farm Board agencies saved the Chicago market from crashing downward in sympathy with other world markets yesterday," The Chicago Journal of Commerce says to-day.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The Journal of Commerce says surplus countries see that the total available supply of wheat is going to be in excess of normal needs and are anxious to make sales.

It is estimated by a Liverpool authority that the excess wheat in exporting countries will be about 400,000,000 bushels above indicated requirements. Importers are taking just enough wheat to carry them along, due to the uncertainty of the market.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—"The situation in Canada has been aggravated by the uneasiness regarding the condition of the pool," The Journal of Commerce says to-day. "Banks have stated they will not force liquidation and the premiers of the three western provinces are now awaiting the return of Premier Bennett to confer over possible action by the government."

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—One of the outcomes of the conference at Ottawa was to reveal the amount of the 1929 crop carry-over which the wheat pool still has unsold. The quantity mentioned at the conference is 7,000,000 bushels, according to reports received here.

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—Despite the unparalled decline yesterday, a more hopeful feeling prevails among wheat traders. Many regard the break at Winnipeg as the culmination of the downward trend and perhaps the final clean-out. The purpose of low prices is to stimulate consumption and discourage production until supplies cease to be excessive. It appear logical to believe that world's supplies are low enough for this and that a healthier situation will develop.

Uhlmann: Every government that ever attempted to sustain prices artificially finally gave it up. We don't believe this will be an exception. It will make it worse for the farmer in the end. It is impossible to make any guesses as to the immediate future.

Stein Alstrin: Uncertainties surrounding the maintenance of the present support in wheat suggests the inadvisability of either following or opposing it. Other grains look lower.

Broomhall Liverpool cable received to-day by Miller, Court and Co., says:

New Argentine wheat is quoted, c.i.f., Europe, equivalent to 70 cents a bushel. No. 2 Manitoba afloat is 76 and Australan afloat 82 cents. Offerings from Australia are scarce, which explains the great premium being paid for this wheat now. The color is excellent and the berry is moderately strong, which is particularly useful for mixing with Russian varieties.

Supplies of Russian wheat have diminished sharply this month, so that offerings for future shipment are much smaller. This is confirmed by the decreased chartering fleet in the Black Sea and at the Baltic ports.

Arrivals of foreign wheat in the nine principal continental ports last week totaled 6,544,000, compared with 8,168,000 the previous week. Italy and Holland received the greater share. Seeding of winter wheat in Europe is now practically completed, but some countries were very backward in this work.

HOW NICKEL MET EARLY EMERGENCY; ENCOURAGING NOW

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Heavy liquidation in Dominion Stores featured afternoon trading on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The market as a whole held fairly firm in view of the depressing influence of the wheat situation.

In the morning pressure had been exerted against the farm implement stocks but they were well supported and yielded only a small fraction.

Decline in Dominion Stores was attributed to selling from New York, due to the suspension in Wall Street of the firm of Bauer, Pogue and Vivian. Vivian is a director of Dominion Stores. Locally the stock sank to a new low of 12½, although in New York large blocks changed hands even lower. The final few minutes' support was better.

C.P.R., Bell Telephone, Ford of Canada, Consumers' Gas, and Walkers were among those on the general list up a point or less. Nickel and Brazilian were unchanged. Oils were firm.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Metal producers who are inclined to be pessimistic at the present state of affairs should find encouragement in a review of the recent history of International Nickel, according to editorial comment in the Engineering and Mining Journal:

"To meet the emergency in which the company found itself soon after the termination of the war, when its major markets were abruptly cut off, and to avoid what to many would have seemed an impasse, was brought a virility in initiative and performance that has few parallels in the history of commercial enterprise. The results are well known, use of nickel is spreading rapidly, even in the United States, where none is produced."

TO-DAY'S REPORTS ON CALGARY OILS

By Special Service of Miller, Court & Co., Victoria Office

Throwing significant light on the company's extensive southern Turner Valley holdings, Mayland No. 3 started preparations for a production test on Tuesday, J. H. McLeod, production manager of the Imperial Oil, stated bailing operations were under way late in the day. At that time, he said, the well had not yet undertaken voluntary cleaning by gas. Past experience in Turner Valley has shown that a well may be bailed practically to bottom before any gas performance materializes. The latest Mayland well drilled to more than 6,180 feet, about 350 feet in the limestone.

Recent drilling samples at Mercury No. 5 indicate the Home sands should be struck 100 to 150 feet below present drilling depth. Field reports stated hole was being made at 4,507 feet.

At the No. 1 well of the company crew was hauling 8⅛ inch casing to the site. The string will probably be run this week and cemented in the limestone.

The other active well, No. 7, was running 16-inch casing which will be carried when drilling resumes from 1,540 feet. Recent production at No. 3 has been exceeding an average of 200 barrels daily. On Monday the well yielded 221 barrels. No. 2 was making about 50 barrels a day.

Miracle No. 2, located on former Askalta acreage on the west flank of southern Turner Valley, will be ready to spud in within a week or ten days, it is reported from the field. Construction of derrick and installation of machinery are in the final stages. Drilling contract has not yet been awarded, but it is though probable an agreement will be made shortly. The property involved in the transaction between Miracle and Askalta comprises 40 acres. Meanwhile, Miracle No. 1 well is producing steadily at 350 barrels a day.

NEWSPRINT CONSUMPTION HOLDING HIGH

Analysis of Canadian Production Figures Show Industry in Encouraging Shape

Monteral, Nov. 19.—With the power issues geenrally higher and Montreal Power in particular, leading the way, the Montreal Stock Echange issues to-day advanced to a firm close. Montreal Power was 2¾ better at 58 when trading ended. Power Corporation has registered a ent gai nof 1½, and Shawinigan and B.C. Power were each slightly higher.

Consolidated Smelters ran up eight points to 150 in light trading. Dominion Bridge picked up a full point at 56 and Nickel, Canada Power and Paper, Canadian Pacific and a few others were fractionally higher.

In its first board lot appearance in some time Penmans sold at 53, down ten points.

St. Lawrence Paper preferred also showed a big loss, down four points at 31. Brazilian held in narrow limits, the close at 26¼, representing a loss of ⅜.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—What is the real meaning of the volume of output of Canadian newsprint mills during the month of October? It will be objected to the figures that they show a considerable falling off from the total for the month of October last year, 213,817 tons, as compared with 251,914 tons—a decline of 38,097 tons, a substantial drop.

Two facts, however, should be remembered in this connection. One is that the figures for October of last year showed the highest production of Canadian mills for any month in history, and that the month of September, when newsprint commitments for October were really made, marked the peak of the sustained upward swing of industry, and to a great extent of public buying as represented in advertising and newspaper circulation.

The other point to notice is that the figures for October, 1930, show a substantial increase, some 18,000 tons, over the total for September, 1930.

In other words, this year has witnessed a seasonable increase in newsprint consumption as compared with the month of September—a situation that has not been very much in evidence so far this year in any industry.

SHIPMENTS

A third point that might be added to this is that shipments of newsprint for Canada in October were nearly 8,000 tons in excess of production, so that a condition that has applied to some extent in previous months this year, namely, the piling up of surplus stocks at the mills, was not only not repeated, but was relieved to some extent. Total shipments in October amounted to 221,748 tons, or nearly 23,000 tons in excess of shipments during the month of September. Nor was this greater business of Canadian mills secured at the expense of United States mills, thereby offsetting what might be termed improved consumption. United States mills themselves showed an increase of over 10,000 tons in production for September, and of nearly 7,000 tons in shipments. The October figures carry several encouraging features.

Toronto Mining Market

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Beyond a slight stiffening of prices in the afternoon, chief points of interest in a light mining session to-day were movements of a few fairly active issues which gave evidence of renewed attention.

Acme Gas was in brisk demand, particularly in the forenoon, and closed with a gain of several cents for the day. Nordon, touching a high of 80, was up 5 on end, and East Crest advanced 4 in light trade. Chemical Research and Imperial were both around a quarter higher. Calmont eased another 5, however, and Merland also sold down a couple.

Hudson Bay recovered an early recession to close unchanged. Sherritt Gordon, Ventures and White Lake made point gains. Abana softened several points to 20.

Big Missouri, opening at 50, sold above that figure al day. Mining Corporation, Howey, Wright-Hargreaves, Kirkland Lake Gold and Bidgood were slightly higher, but Teck Hughes, Vipond and Bunker Hill sustained minor recessions. Other golds were steady.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—(Miller, Court Service)—Among the recently developed products of International Nickel Company is a corrosion-resisting, nickel-copper-chromium, cast iron, which has been named "Ni-Resist." The new material, except for being more resistant to corrosion and heat than plain iron, is said to be in general quite similar to the latter in characteristics and fabricability. "Ni-Resist" is said to be particularly useful in mining equipment.

GOLD STOCKS SLIP

The easiness which has spread over the leading gold producers, while disturbing to shareholders, finds no reflection among company officials or at the mines themselves. Teck Hughes has undoubtedly had much to do with spreading a sogginess over the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake issues by evident strong selling which took place on the appearance of the annual report. Whether some big shareholders started to liquidate upon finding disagreement with statements contained in the annual report can only be surmized.

TECK HUGHES' TALK

There is much talk going the rounds about Teck Hughes, and about questions that may be presented at the annual meeting next week in Buffalo. The same talk spread a year ago, but one person in particular who dared ask questions was rather subdued. There is understood to be an item of some 100,000 shares, or on the basis of 10,000 to 12,000 shares annually, over so many years, which some shareholders may question. The talk concerns whether these shares are being granted as a bonus to the management.

AMULET MINES

While announcement was made several weeks ago that Amulet Mines would suspend operations pending a return of better metal prices, the mill has been operating steadily cleaning up broken ore in stopes and on the dump. President Connell states shipments of copper concentrates to Noranda smelter during October were exceptionally heavy. These shipments will be paid for on the average price prevailing this month, "so that the rise in copper is beneficial.

AWAIT HIGHER LEVELS

That Amulet can make money on copper selling under ten cents a pound, is the president's statement. However, the management does not care to deplete ore reserves on a small margin of profit, and the metal will have to find higher levels before the Amulet operations will be turned on full blast again. With copper on a permanent basis between 11 and 12 cents, consideration to reopening will be given, but it is not proposed to open and close with each succeeding fluctuation. Everything will be kept in readiness to take advantage of improving conditions.

Premier Gold Up to 80; Good Operation Reports From Salmon River

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—A strong move in Big Missouri was the feature of the forenoon session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange trading to-day. The stock sold up to 52 and 53, on the strength of good operating reports from the Salmon River, which seemed to be utilized as a background for market operations.

There was a good demand for Premier, which was up to 80.

The balance of the mines were inactive, Pioneer bringing bids of 90, Woodbine standing at 1 and 1¼, Porter-Idaho at 6 bid, Planet at 10 bid and Snowflake at 2 to 2½.

The oil section was under the leadership of Home, selling at 2.20 and 2.22, and Mayland, which brought 92. Amalgamated and Crow's Nest were both inactive and unchanged.

A.P. Consolidated sold in small volume at 32 and Calmont held between 31 and 34, which were bid and asked prices in the forenoon.

C. & E.'s range was from 54 to 57, and East Crest sold at 70 and 72. Royalite brought bids of 18.50, with the stock held at 19.75, and United, offered at 30, was quiet.

Coast Breweries is down at a new low at 14.00, with a continuation of nervous selling inspired by reports emanating from political circles, against which are the statements of local beer leaders that British Columbia is getting the purest beer in Canada and that there will be no change in the method of purchasing by the government.

NEW FINANCING RUNS HEAVY ON BOND MARKET

New York, Nov. 19.—Trading was dull in bond market to-day. Small fractional fluctuations either way brought virtually no change in the price level and reflected a firm undertone.

The large volume of new financing this week has attracted much attention. Five issues appeared to-day, the largest of which was $20,000,000 five per cent one and two-year notes of New England Power Association. The General American Tank Car Corporation marketed $3,000,000 4½ per cent trust certificates. Bond issues included $8,500,000 fives of the Illinois Power and Light Corporation and $3,600,000 Central Ohio Power and Light fives.

While somewhat spotty, the main trend of railroad and utility bonds continued upward. Rails presented a firmer appearance than utilities where some high grade issues, such as American Telephone and Consolidated Gas 5½s yielded small fractions. Among the rails New York Central 5s, Pennsylvania Gold 5s and Canadian National Railway bonds showed the most firmness.

GERMAN 5½s BREAK 70

Industrials were inclined toward lower levels but moved slowly.

United States governments held around the best prices of the year. The 4¼s were very strong and again moved into new high ground for the year. Foreigns were irregularly lower in quiet trading. German 5½s slumped to a new year low, breaking 70.

RATIFY OIL DEAL AT VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—Shareholders of the Baldwin Oil Company, at the general meeting last night ratified the deal with Atlantic Keystone Petroleums, Limited, entered into recently by Baldwin directors. The approval given by shareholders was unanimous.

Under the terms of the deal, Baldwin shareholders receive a cash dividend of twenty per cent on the outstanding stock of the company, with a substantial stock dividend going into the Baldwin treasury, Baldwin continuing as an active oil company.

Three Premiers Are Honored In Edinburgh

Canadian Press

Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 18.—Three Empire Prime Ministers—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett of Canada, Rt. Hon. James Scullin of Australia and Rt. Hon. G. S. Forbes of New Zealand—spent to-day in Edinburgh. After a visit to the Scottish National War Memorial in Edinburgh Castle, where each laid a wreath, they received the freedom of the city at Usher Hall.

At the ceremony when the freedom of the city was conferred, Lord Provost Whitson welcomed Premier Bennett as the representative of Canada, to whose freedom and advancement Scotsmen had so largely contributed.

This afternoon the three Premiers received honorary degrees from the University of Edinburgh.

Nearly Half-million Bushels Now Stored In Victoria Elevator

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—Canadian wheat in store as at November 14, according to reports received here to-day, totals 197,398,333 bushels—a gain of 2,663,700 bushels from the preceding week, but a decrease of more than 20,000,000 bushels as compared to a year ago. Ocean shipments during the week totalled 3,554,159, as compared with 6,501,730 bushels for the previous week. From Canadian Pacific seaboard ports, shipments total 907,396 bushels and from Canadian Atlantic ports, 1,563,763 bushels.

The greatest change in the status of storage occurred in Western county elevators stocks, which were shown at 78,163,679, as compared with 69,469,494 the preceding week.

Amounts in store include 10,056,145 bushels in Vancouver, New Westminster elevators; 459,906 bushels in Victoria elevators and 1,050,294 in Prince Rupert elevator.

Ex-King Hussein Dangerously Ill

London, Nov. 19.—Official information from the Island of Cyprus late yesterday said former King Hussein of the Hedjaz was still alive, but dangerously ill.

Previous reports from Bagdad, Irak, had said the former sovereign, who has been in exile on Cyprus, had died.

TWO LEAP TO SAFETY AS HOTEL SWEPT BY FIRE

Everett, Wash., Nov. 19.—Fighting their way through a smoke filled corridor to a window, two women leaped twenty feet to safety from the burning Woods Hotel at Silver Lake, near here, to-day. Mrs. Nora Wood, owner of the structure, placed the loss at $10,000, with $1,000 insurance.

ROYAL WEDDING RUMOR

San Sebastian, Spain, Nov. 19.—Another royal marriage in Europe involving the Prince of the Asturias, twenty-three-year-old Spanish heir, and Princess Maria Della Espanza, sixteen-year-old Andalusian beauty, is reported likely next year in circles close to the Spanish court. These sources say official announcement of the engagemetn is being considered for early next year, and that the marriage may be held next October. The princess is the daughter of the Infante Carlos de Bourbon, Captain-General of Barcelona.

WHITNEY LETTER

SECONDARY REACTION NEARING COMPLETION

"The normal tendency for Tuesday's rally, plus the fact that almost any kind of a market would have called for some rebound from Monday's severe drop, undoubtedly accounted for yesterday's mild rally. To this extent, as well as to the fact that the absence of pressure during the day did not permit of anything worthy of being called a test, we have not had what is really needed to give us a reasonable degree of safety in starting a buying programme. What I think will actually happen in here is another day or two on the down side, this constituting the second and final instalment of the secondary reaction which should bring the market to its bottom prices. It is upon this technical consideration as well as the probability of being presented with some rather disagreeable developments in the news of to-day that it appears advisable to hold off another day.

"Most of the nearby trouble, or at least uncertainty, appears to be in the wheat situation, with the Chicago market affected by several menacing factors. Understand that the government attitude in its wheat operations has now boiled down to practically an attempt to engineer a corner in the December option, which they have literally pegged at 73 cents. The December option closing at that price last night in turn has something to worry about in the Winnipeg price of about 54 cents, which normally has a 9-cent differential over Chicago. With the Canadian banks pretty well loaded up with wheat loans upon which they have extended 50 cents per bushel, the whole situation is uncomfortable, to say the least, for both markets, and certainly contains some possibility which ought to be considered in relation to the stock market.

"In addition to this, I understand that, in spite of official offerings of copper at 12 cents, a large quantity is selling at 10 1-2 to 11, even though this did not find its way into yesterday's news.

"On top of all this, expect a rather poor exhibition to be given by car loadings figures announced before the opening to-day.

"Between one thing and the other I certainly believe that, in spite of the market's closeness to a bottom, you can weigh in the above mentioned news possibilities, and add one more day to the long list of days upon which it has been better procedure to hold off than do any actual buying."

CONSUMERS' GAS EARNINGS HIGHER

Toronto, Nov. 19.—The Consumer's Gas Company for the year ended September 30, 1930, showed net earnings of $2,218,771, an increase of $47,218 over the preceding years, according to the annual report presented to the shareholders.

Before writing off plant and buildings renewal fund, the company showed earnings of $17.66 per share on the capital stock outstanding, against $16.39 in the preceding year.

N.Y. STOCKS MOVE HIGHER IN RECOVERY

Steel Issues Develop Renewal of Firmness, Leading Rest of Market Upward

Industrials Get Up Over Four Points and Utilities Over Two Points

New York, Nov. 19.—At the close of the market this afternoon the Dow Jones average of thirty industrials stood at 187.57, up 4.15 points for the day; for thirty rails at 108.31, up 1.69 points; and for twenty utilities at 66.95, up 2.02 points.

Trading was in moderate volume, transactions aggregating 2,500,000 shares, but the list developed considerable buoyance during the afternoon and there were many net gains of 2 to 4 points.

The ability of the market to turn upward yesterday, and the equanimity with which it received news of a commission house failure to-day, sent the bears into full retreat.

The advance became pronounced in the motor and motor accessory shares, and some of the rails during the morning, and switched into the utilities and prominent industrials during the afternoon.

Shares closing 2 to 4 points higher included American Telephone, North American, American Can, American Power and Light, Hudson Motors, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem, Baltimore and Ohio, Westinghouse, Air Reduction, United Aircraft, Allied Chemical, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and Atchison; Union Pacific gained 4. Ingersoll Rand shot up 10.

Bulova Watch lost about 7.

From a technical standpoint the action of the stock market was reassuring, but in the absence of any outstanding constructive overnight news, it was hardly expected that anything more than steadiness would feature the opening to-day.

Such turning out to be the case, it was gratifying, if anything, toward the strong undertone displayed, accompanied as it was, by a number of instances of fractional gains.

The firmness continued through the morning, with particular strength developing in the steel issues toward the noon hour. This was a reflection of the hopeful attitude of Iron Age, especially in reference to the expectation of greater demand from the railroads.

It was also said that the railroads are increasing their shop forces.

In the early afternoon, the stronger tone had spread throughout the list, encouragement being derived from several items in the current news, such as prediction of firmer steel prices after the first of the year, the advance in brass prices and the increased sales for October over the corresponding month of last year, reported by Studebaker.

The upward momentum gathered force and breadth as the afternoon progressed, with several leaders such as U.S. Steel, General Motors, American Can, American T. and T. and Cons. Gas moving up into new territory.

Associated Gas and Electric Co. has extended to January 1, 1932, from January 1, 1931, this convertible date of the 6 per cent convertible debentures certificates "D," "E," and "F."

Judge David G. Jenkins, who presided during the long hearing of the suit to enjoin Bethlehem Steel-Youngstown Sheet and Tube merger, has returned from a short vacation following the trial. A decision is not likely before January 1, 1931, as more than 900 exhibits must be examined.

BANKERS HEAR PREMIERS ON WHEAT ISSUE

Prairie Heads Confer With Montreal Financiers; Statement Expected To-night

Canadian Press

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Continuing their visit to eastern Canada for discussion of matters in connection with wheat, with banking, and Government officials, the premiers of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba reached Montreal to-day. In a brief interview on their arrival the premiers had little to say, preferring to wait until they had something definite to announce.

"We will undoubtedly see some of the leading bankers during the day," Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Premier of Alberta, said, but he did not care to amplify the remark. A statement would be issued this evening if the day's activities should warrant it, he added.

Hon. J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan and Premier John Bracken of Manitoba accompanied Mr. Brownlee. Their visit to Montreal would end this evening when they would leave for the prairies, it was stated.

Asked as to whether or not he expected [illegible] the present wheat crisis, Premier Brownlee gave and emphatic "no."

PRAIRIES ARE URGED TO GROW LESS WHEAT

Federal Minister of Agriculture Says That Is Way to Stabilize Market

H. S. Frye, Grain Leader, Holds Acreage Should Not Be Reduced

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Smaller production of wheat in the prairie provinces as a means of solving the grain problem was advocated by Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, in an address before 500 farm boys of Ontario here yesterday evening. The young agriculturists are here as guests of the Ontario Government for the duration of the Royal Winter Fair.

"The solution I see is to decrease our growing of wheat so it will not be too far above our actual requirements," declared Major Weir. "After all, the only market we really control is the home market. We have no control over the markets of the world.

"We are at a psychological time in agriculture to-day," the minister continued. "It is recognized there must be a readjustment and I believe the mind of Canada is such that the people will support anything that will further the interests of agriculture. The danger lies in following a wrong policy and it behoves us to do all in our power to see we take the right path. I have no fear for the future of agriculture in Canada, because we have all the requisites a country needs to prosper."

DECLARED MISTAKE

Toronto, Nov. 19. — Reduction of acreage seeded to wheat by farmers of the prairies in an effort to cut down production and thus limit the exportable surplus of stocks would be an economic fallacy, in the opinion of Harold S. Fry of Regina, chairman of the general publicity committee of the World Grain Exhibition and Conference, which will be held in the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

According to Mr. Fry, Canada produces in largest quantities the world's best hard spring wheat and ranks as the world's greatest exporter of wheat. He held it paramount that Canada maintain this supremacy, either by finding new markets for wheat, lessening the cost of production, finding new uses for wheat—or a combination of all three.

GROWTH OF PRODUCTION

Mr. Fry offered these observations in response to an invitation by R. J. C. Stead, director of publicity of the Department of Immigration, Ottawa, at a meeting of the World's Exhibition committee here yesterday. He revealed, in substance, the extent to which world wheat production has been increased in all countries, and declared the world surplus had been steadily increased since the period 1920-1924, without the world really awakening to the extent of the economic change.

THREE OUT OF FOUR

"Canada stands to-day as the world's greatest exporter of wheat," said Mr. Fry, "the United States stands as the largest producer of wheat. Whereas Canada exports three out of every four bushels grown, the United States exports about one out of every five.

"There is some logic in the programme of the Federal Farm Board for a reduction of acreage in the United States, with a view to placing that country on a domestic basis, but there is no logic in such a programme in Canada, because we would have to reduce our production to twenty-five per cent. of our present production. To do that would mean to practically abandon three out of every four acres in Western Canada now under cultivation to wheat, because Canada has not yet adopted a mixed farming or diversification system. Our farmers lack the capital to make that change now, even if it were advisable economically, and we must, therefore, continue to produce wheat."

The quality of Canada-grown wheat, Mr. Fry declared, gave the Dominion a definite advantage over other wheat-producing countries. The spring wheat areas of the United States, he admitted, produced wheat as good as Canada's, but their production was so small relatively that it was lost in the tremendous quantities required for domestic purposes.

"The best wheat of Russia makes bread of about the quality of our No. 2 Northern and her pre-war exports were about 160,000,000 bushels annually," he said. "In Argentina, the second of the world's great wheat exporting countries, they produce a quality that approximately equals our No. 3 Northern. Australia has a hard white wheat of excellent quality, not quite in the same class as Canadian wheat, but it is produced to the extent approximately of 160,000,000 bushels a year, a considerable portion of which is exported. The United States exports up to 200,000,000 bushels annually, mostly of soft winter and hard red winter types.

"These four countries, with Canada in the lead, the United States and Argentina second and third, and Australia fourth, constitute the world's exporting countries of any particular importance. Russia at present is exporting relatively little."

NEW MEASURES NEEDED

The World Grain exhibition and Conference, to be held in Regina, Mr. Fry submitted, would afford an opportunity for all grain producing countries to focus their attention on the critical problems, which, he said, were sufficiently serious to affect the industrial development of Canada as well as the United States and many of the European countries.

Potato Crop Big In Canada

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—Canada raised 49,160,000 hundredweight of potatoes this year, according to the estimate in a crop report issued to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is slightly above the ten-year average and over nine million hundredweight more than last year's crop.

Real Estate Loans Showing Increases

Average size of loans on city residential property funded by Investors Syndicate during October showed an increase over September, according to a report issued to-day by E. E. Crabb, vice-president of the company. The average of October loans was $4,391.51, compared with $3,859.67 in September. The average in October was also larger than for the year ended October 31, which was $4,123.70, the report showed.

Loans funded by Investors Syndicate in October totaled $685,075.80, compared with $590,530.00 in September. The October loans numbered 156 in thirteen cities, compared with 153 loans in September in fourteen cities.

The report showed loans on residential property in Los Angeles amounting to $173,775.80, the largest funding for any city during October. Houston and Fort Worth followed in order with $128,150.00 and $111,200.00. Increase in average size of loans was largest in Los Angeles where the October average was $7,240.65 compared to $6,286.25 the previous month, and increases over September averages were also shown in Houston, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Atlanta and Vancouver. The October loan average in Houston was $4,576.78, in Fort Worth $4,276.92, in Oklahoma City $4,242.85, in Tulsa $4,050.00, in Atlanta $3,797.22, and in Vancouver $3,338.88.

In the year from November 1, 1929, to October 31, 1930, loans funded by the company on city residential property totaled $7,402,033.45, compared with $7,705,457.16 in the year ended September 30. Loans were made in twenty-six cities in the last twelve month period. Following is a report for October loans:

POOL ASSETS GO TO MAKE LOSSES GOOD

Over $17,000,000 of Properties Handed Over to Saskatchewan Government

Canadian Press

Regina, Nov. 19.—Security on surplus assets amounting to $17,349,419.55, consisting of elevator properties, both terminal and country will be given to the Provincial Government by the Wheat Pool, according to an announcement yesterday by Hon. Howard McConnell, K.C., Provincial Treasurer.

The statement of the Provincial Treasurer was as follows:

"In the session of the Legislature held early this year, the government, by legislation, guaranteed the banks against loss on account of advances made by them to the Wheat Pool's central selling agency to finance Saskatchewan's share of the 1928 and 1929 crop.

"The amount of the loss, if any, will not be known until the full balance of the 1929 crops has been fully disposed of. In the event of any such loss occuring, plans have been taken by the pool to take care of this loss out of the ordinary revenues of the pool.

"In the meantime, the government, continues liable on its guarantee to the banks. As security to the government against such contingent liability, the Wheat Pool is giving to the government security for all of its surplus assets, consisting of elevator properties, both terminal and country, such surplus assets amounting to $17,349,419.53.

"As a consequence, if the government should be called upon to implement any portion of its guarantee to the banks, it will have more than ample security to cover any sums so paid."

"GOING DOWN"

Read me to-day's lows, mother,
Give me the bottoms new;
Tell me if "Steel's" still quoted,
Is there a chip called blue?
What of the oils and railroads?
Is there a stock called Penn?
Tell, me, is New York Central
Yet down to five and ten?

Go through the table slowly;
I will be brave, I vow;
What are Gillette and Carbide?
How cheap is Simmons now?
Is there a quote on Richfield?
Is there a bid for Nash?
What can I get of Chrysler
If I've a dollar cash?

What has become of Byers?
What is it now per pound?
How low is Coca Cola?
What price is old Howe Sound?
Gen'ral Electric—tell me—
Is a dime per load?
What is the price per bucket
Now for New Haven Road?

Tell in a gentle whisper
How did the coppers close?
Is it true Anconda's
Lower than Gotham Hose?
Is A. & T. now selling
Ten points below Budd Wheel?
Speak! Is the quote on Eastman
Cheaper than Newton Steel?

Don't hesitate to tell me
What price Raybestos Man?
Will six or seven dollars
Buy full control of "Can?"
Is J. I. Case still sinking?
And do the tables show
U.S. Tobacco lower Than Briggs or Radio?

Read on and spare me nothing—
Is "Motors" down to three?
And is "Gas" selling under Rumely or Armour B?
Oh, tell me where is Timken,
And what of Alcohol?
Then you may bring the poison—
For I possess them all.

SUGAR MARKETS

New York, Nov. 19.—Raw sugar was unsettled early to-day owing to the setback in futures, which allowed operator-owned sugars to be offered at concessions. Buyers, however, showed no very keen interest and the only sale reported was of 7,000 bags of Cuban from store, worked yesterday, at 3.42 duty paid, while offerings to-day were at 3.38.

Refined was unchanged at 4.75 for fine granulated, with some second-hands avail[illegible] of liberal proportions, but there was no new business reported.

VIEWS DIFFER ON FIXING OF WHEAT PRICE

Manitoba Farm Leader Opposes Proposal; Saskatchewan Leader Approves

$1 a Bushel Named as Price Government Should Guarantee Growers

Canadian Press

Portage la Prairie, Man., Nov. 19.—Divergent attitudes on the proposal for a Federal Government move to stabilize the price of wheat stood outlined to-day before the annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba. At opposing points stood Thomas Wood, president of the Manitoba farm body, and George H. Williams, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section.

The plan for government managed price stabilization for wheat was characterized by Mr. Wood as an untimely subsidy.

"Such a payment," he said, "would, of course, involve subsidizing grain growing by the taxpayers and would tend to stimulate wheat production at a time when the problem is to dispose of wheat crops and stocks."

According to Mr. Williams, however, Federal Government intervention to "peg" the price of wheat is as much the right of the farmers as tariff aid is justified for the industrialists. In a speech to the convention he favored a plan whereby the price would be set at $1 a bushel, with the government paying to the growers the difference between the fixed amount and the eventual selling price of the grain.

100 PER CENT POOL

In his presidential address, which stood also as a report of the board of directors, Mr. Wood urged the convention to deliberate very carefully before committing the body to any policy on the 100 per cent pool. He recalled that two years ago, the U.F.M. board declared itself opposed to compulsory membership in the Manitoba pool as contrary to the principles of co-operation, which was in its very nature voluntary.

On the contrary, Mr. Williams upheld the 100 per cent pooling plan as a means of gaining a livelihood for the farmers through control of the wheat yield of Saskatchewan, and, he urged, of the rest of the prairie country. He forecasted Saskatchewan farmers would vote strongly in favor of the compulsory plan in a referendum soon after passage of provincial legislation enabling the ballot.

To permit of debate on the price-fixing proposal and the compulsory pool idea, reports scheduled for presentation this afternoon were postponed.

International operations by the proposed grain marketing body were urged by the Saskatchewan delegate. He suggested that the grain board should, "in co-operation with boards representing other wheat-growing countries, cooperate and set a world's price with respect to grain."

Mr. Williams claimed that any subvention offered to wheat growers until the board operations were successful in stabilizing wheat values would be only an implementing of Premier R. B. Bennett's election promise to give equalization of opportunity to the people of Canada.

LIKE TARIFF FOR FARMERS

The farmer leader asserted that his plan, which he compared to tariffs as a means of aiding other industries, would not be a burden on taxpayers. He estimated that if wheat prices were set at $1.00 and the wheat was eventually sold at eighty cents, appropriation from the treasury would be but $50,000,000 on an export of 250,000,000 bushels. He said that such a cost—$5.00 per capita throughout the Dominion—would be money not lost but invested in returns of increased purchasing power in the west.

MUST FOLLOW RUSSIAN LEAD

"We must eventually meet Russian methods with similar methods," commented Mr. Williams, after stating that the Russian trade situation was largely the reason that finance would not risk increasing world purchasing power. "We must either compete or co-operate with Russia," he stated, in brief reference to the situation in that country," and in the end co-operation would be the least painful."

Saskatchewan farmers will vote in favor of the 100 per cent pool when a plebiscite is taken, Mr. Williams believes. He recounted how the Saskatchewan farm body had stood back of the compulsory pool idea and how members of the Wheat Pool in the province had voted in favor of the plan. Now, he said, legislation will be introduced permitting a plebiscite and the plan will be supported by general vote.

But Saskatchewan's control, though it exists to the greater portion of the exportable surplus of Western Canada's grain, is not enough.

"We must have all of it," he affirmed.

Later on in the course of the convention, delegates are expected to be called on to take a stand on the so-called "compulsory" pool, which was rejected by a majority vote of delegates at the last annual session ten months ago.

CHANGING ECONOMIC SYSTEM

The farm body president stated frankly that he agreed with those who argue there is no solution to the problem of equitable distribution of wealth under a profit-taking system and that the old system must be changed.

He added that holders of such opinions have a moral responsibility to do their utmost to alleviate suffering by "changing, altering, yes, even patching the present economic system."

SEES ECONOMIC SUICIDE

Picturing southern Saskatchewan farmers as being forced, in many cases burdened under growing debts, to leave their farms and go to work as road laborers, Mr. Williams exclaimed, "This is economic suicide." Though he said he spoke primarily "of southern Saskatchewan conditions, Mr. Williams added that the situation is rapidly approaching the same point in other parts of the province.

He was confident, however, of the ability of the western farmer to establish control of his destinies, "to bring about a situation where, instead of despair and destitution, we may have hope and happiness."

At the educational conferences on four topics, Mrs. E. L. Downing, director of Marquette, discussed poultry. Livestock work was outlined by Fred Downing, vice-president of U.F.M. Farm accounts were discussed by A. E. Bell, chairman of the committee, and a rural women's extension programme was explained by Mrs. S. E. Gee-Curtis, [illegible] toba.

Crude Oil Cuts Forecast Poor Industry Showing

According to the current Analyst, published by The Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., recent price cuts in crude oil prices, forecast a poor showing for the industry during the balance of this year. The Analyst goes on to say:

"So long as drilling continues at a high rate and new potential production comes in each month at the rate of 1,000,000 barrels per day, we see little hope of improvement in prices. Results of operations for the oil companies which make quarterly reports reflect adverse conditions within the industry during the third quarter. Net profits declined more than 50 per cent, as compared with the same quarter of 1929. Since recent price cuts were not yet in effect during the third quarter, even less favorable showings can be anticipated for the current quarter. We believe it will take many months to cure the ills of the oil industry."

FOG UPSETS PRAIRIE AIR MAIL SYSTEM

Canadian Press

Regina, Nov. 19.—Fog, chief enemy of airmen, again played havoc with the prairie airmail schedule to-day. Not one plane got off the ground on its regular run this morning.

The fog blanket was reported to have extended over the whole prairie region from west of Winnipeg to Calgary and Edmonton. The service was considerably upset by fog yesterday also.

Pilot Roy Brown, who had made a forced landing at Balgonie after flying through fog in several great loops and criss-crosses near Regina for more than one hour and a half Tuesday morning trying to find the municipal airport, soared away for Winnipeg in the afternoon, landing in Winnipeg at 7.30 o'clock. Gasoline and mail were taken to him at Balgonie by Archie Turnbull, local airways agent, in a truck.

Seven For a Secret

By MARY WEBB

"Bob for me, then; but if you'm going to be a friend of the gaffer's, I dunna sees as we can call each other the like of thatn. It 'ud mortify the owd mon."

"We'll say nought when he's there, then. Old folks are bad to cross. But when we're alone, my lad, I'll learn you a thing or two, see if I don't. Maybe we'll get a piano at the "Naked Wench" and get some girls in."

He slapped Robert on the back, and took his turn in the saddle. Robert walking stolidly on, hoped that Gillian would stay in Silverton a long time. He had not hoped this before. Now he did, intensely. The sparks that came into Elmer's cold eyes at the mention of the randy would flash into Gillian's in a second, and ignite God knows what fire in her wild heart.

"Lord only knows what'll come to pass if they meet," he thought. "I wish I'd kept a still tongue. Send him a stiff price as he canna pay." And half-consciously, as he walked with his ungraceful plowman's gait over the aromatic crushed bracken, his left hand crept beneath his Sunday sleeve, beneath his course blue and white shirt, to the muscle that came and went obediently, hard and full as a cricket ball, between his heavy shoulder and his mahogany-colored elbow.

So, turn and turn about, they traversed the twenty miles very quickly. When they came to the top of the slope leading down to the "Mermaid's Rest," Robert was riding, and Elmer saw him outlined on the pale sky, not graceful, but broodingly strong. Below him, the inn with its huddled roofs, its bright, pale-green square of winter cabbage and dark blue of orchard, its small windows gleaming forlornly, its whole air proclaiming that within it held a revelry, not a bridal chamber, not a new-born child, but corruption. Dimly aware of discomfort of soul, Ralph turned to the surrounding country, and his gaze traveled over it. There, lower than the inn, one field away from the browny-white ribbon of road, lay the unket place—a long inky smudge with a long silver streak of water below. He stiffened a little, like a dog at a new scent, pricked his ears slightly, stared. And out of nowhere, like the faint lament of a sheep from cloudy heights, came the knowledge that this place was prepared for him, quietly and unobtrusively, and would not let him go until what must be had been accomplished.

Weirdly, alarmedly, he turned his eyes upwards to Robert's moonlit face. Robert was looking at it, too. No sound came from the vast surrounding country, the mysterious sky, the death-enfolding homestead. Even the two men, so live, so real, with the bright blood in their cheeks and the sweat of their galloping still in their armpits, even they held their breath, staring into one another's souls, but seeing only the unket place. Then suddenly, as if at the releasing of a spring, Elmer withdrew his eyes, unpricked his ears, loosened his taut muscles, laughed with a curious forced dismalness, and said:

All was dark at the inn.

"Tabor on the door," said Robert.

Ralph knocked, and hollow sounds ran down the passages. Then a wild head appeared at an upstairs window, and Thatcher said:

"Who be that, drumming on door?"

"Me," said Robert. "Here's a chap wants a shakedown and a mug of beer or summat, and he dunna mind payin' for what he wants. And seein' the expense you've been under, I thought you wouldna mind."

"You're kindly welcome, sir," said Thatcher, "and if you inna afraid of my poor missus 'ere, you can take potluck, and I'll give you my bed—for that's all we've got, saving the little uns' bed. Rideout here knows as the sticks of furniture's gone bit by bit, for times be bad."

"Where's the body, then?" asked Robert.

"On the palliasse on the table in the parlor," said Thatcher. "It wouldna do to have her upstairs wi' the little uns about. Yo can see her if yo've a mind."

Robert, with country courtesy, accepted. They went into the parlor, up three crazy oak stairs from the flagged kitchen. On the table, covered with a sheet, lay the stone-still figure. In her folded hands Thatcher had put a bit of silver honesty. "For an honest woman she was, and a tidy," said he with a heavy sigh. "And it's bad to be left with a two-year child, and nobody to do so much as a bit o' washing."

"Ah."

"I mun find another, I reckon, but I shanna better poor Minnie. When your time comes to choose, Bob, take care you dunna go for a gallus eye and a flaming cheek and a white bosom. Watch 'er, my lad. Watch 'er for a tuthree week, a tuthree month. See 'er on a Monday at the washtub. See 'er with a chyild. Harken at 'er chaffering at market. Drum 'er up early in the morning and see if she flies into a tantrum. If she does—go wi'out 'er."

Robert, standing beside the shrouded figure of the perfect wife, saw, conjured by love in the close, death-scented place, Gillian the desired, the radiant; Gillian, whose cheek flamed, whose eye was gallus, whose bosom—ah! he must not think of that—Gillian who would have failed in every one of those examinations.

"I'll get Mr. Elmer's supper for you, if you've a mind," he said eagerly, "and I wish there was more I could do. You needna bant the price," he added, "he can pay for what he wants."

Elmer was smoking by the dying fire, sitting in a corner of the settle. Robert brought in an armful of chips, and the fire soared in the wide chimney; then he helped Thatcher to make a bed for himself on the floor upstairs; he opened the huge cupboard of black oak that filled a recess in the kitchen, and brought out a rough repast. Elmer was not dainty. He tossed off glass after glass of the weak whisky, looking round the room with an appraising eye, noting the pewter measures on the dresser, the bread-oven built of brick, in a corner, the built-in cupboards, the soot-encrusted, solid beams.

"Who baits here mostly?"

"There's a tuthree come by to fairs and market, and there's a minister comes of a Sunday and gets his dinner, and there's two farms over yonder where the chaps come from, evenings, and stepfeyther and me come, and now and agen a wagoner lugging lime or summat from the Keep, and gipsies and a peddlar or two, and a carrier, Fridays. That's all as I mind."

"But in the old days it must ha' bin a prospering place?"

"Oh, ah! Folk traveled by road then, and it was twenty mile from any dwelling, saving our farm. There was a mort of folks came by then—the coach tuthree days a week, and carriers and run-away couples and dear-knows-what. Highwaymen, they seyn, too. Larders and cellars was kept full then. And our maister's grandfeyther was used to say it was a sight to see on a frosty night, when the landlord and the maids and men turned out for the coach. They'd hear the horn whining acrost the moor, and the coach 'ud come spanking up, and then there'd be a to-do. They'd all got to be thawed and fed."

"Good money flying about then, I bet," said Elmer. "But I've a mind to see if I can't beat up a bit of business, though them days are gone. Rwth can be barmaid, and Fringal can see to things when I'm away."

"Who be they?"

"Rwth's my housekeeper. Fringal's my man."

"There'd be three of you to keep the ghosses out, then."

"Ah."

"I shan't."

Again the peculiar look of the afternoon was in his eyes.

"I thought maybe you'd got your eye on some one," said Robert, wistfully. If only Elmer would marry, he need not be so afraid for Gillian.

"I've no mind for a wife. Argling and bargling; this not to her pleasure, that not to her mind. Rights of bed and board; grumbling if there's no brat, grumbling if there's too many. You're not your own if you've got a wife, Rideout."

With a suppressed, agonizing power, a great flood of longing rose up in Robert's heart—longing for that very argling and bargling, that grumbling, those divine rights of bed and board. Again, very delicate and vivid, Gillian stood before him—flushed, as she was in her tantrums. Oh, God! to hear her grumbling—grumbling at not having any children!

"Here, help yourself," he cried. "I'm off."

As he strode through the meditative night, he felt sick with passion, frantic with longing, with tenderness. And with the acute intuition of the poet he saw that Gillian would assuredly come back; that she would meet Elmer; that Elmer's philosophy of self would go down before the passion she would arouse; that maybe she would be his.

When he came to that, Robert stood still in the middle of the moor. A faintness and weakness melted his heart, his limbs. He trembled like an animal that has seen a spirit.

"Oh, Lord," he whispered huskily, "it's coming. I can see it, I can hear it. Blackness of darkness! And I fetched the chap here, fool that I be."

The farm and the cottage, the huddled ricks, the great crossed and twisted boughs of the orchard, riddled with moonlight, slept. The black-purple moat of shadow slept beneath. Only the white owl went her soundless way, like a pale spirit of evil, incandescent with phantasmal sin.

CHAPTER XI

Long before daylight, Robert lit his candle and wrote a letter to Gillian.

"Miss Gillian;

"I wish to acquaint you as poor Mrs. Thatcher's gone, thinking you met like to send a wreath or summat for the grave. All very quiet and lonesome here. Nobody comes by in a week of Sundays. Mother heard tell at market as the May Fair at Silverton was to be summat odd this year.

"With respects, and I keep the picture on the mantelshelf.

The Bidding

At contract, although the hand does contain a four-card diamond suit that is biddable, the possibilities of going game are far better in no trump than in a suit declarations, therefore South should bid no trump, North would take his partner to two no trump, South three no trump which would close the contracting.

The Play

West's longest and strongest suit is spades. The five spot, the fourth best spade, should be opened, dummy covers with the seven, East winning the trick with the king, declarer plays the three. East returns the six of spades, declarer plays the queen, West should refuse to win this trick. As he has no incard, he must hope for his partner to get in and return the spades to him. Therefore, the four is played by West, dummy playing the nine. Declarer now runs four diamond tricks, winning the last trick in dummy with the king, East follows with the jack of diamonds and discards the deuce of hearts and the deuce and five of clubs.

The declarer has only eight tricks in sight—four diamond tricks, a spade, two hearts and a club. He has a fair count on the East hand. He realizes that East must hold another spade, otherwise West would have won the spade trick. This would leave East with three hearts and three clubs. Declarer's only chance to go game is to throw West in the lead with the jack of spades and force West to squeeze his partner. Declarer discards the three of hearts on the spade lead, West winning with the ace.

West leads the ten of spades, dummy discarding the five of hearts. East is now forced to discard the nine of clubs and declarer discards the four of clubs. West continues with the eight of spades, dummy discarding the six of clubs and East is helpless. If he discards a heart, the declarer will discard the ten of clubs and all of his hearts are good. If East discards a club, the declarer will discard a heart and cash the four remaining tricks.

By forcing West to squeeze his own partner, the declarer has successfully made three no trump.

BROADCAST HEADLINERS

A very interesting schedule of entertainment is before CFCT for presentation this evening, from 6 o'clock onward. The first fifteen minutes will be devoted to popular music, following which the nightly "Sunset Hour" of fine music will be offered for the pleasure of all those who understand and appreciate classical music. Then will follow a fifteen-minute programme which features the weekly radiotorial, "Cutting Out Waste in Industry." With the arrival of 7.30 o'clock a half-hour programme of popular music will be offered, during which a short interesting address on aviation will be given by Miss Nan Eve. At 8 o'clock the theme song will welcome the weekly presentation of the "Barnstormers" Old-time Orchestra. Their programme for this evening will have as a locale the South Seas, and characteristic music from this part of the world will be the keynote. Eileen Bennett will assist the orchestra during this programme. Then at 9 o'clock, book lovers will enjoy the weekly "Marionette Book Chat," conducted by Thomas Sturgess. A number of the new books will be under review, and the fifteen-minute presentation will prove of interest to readers. This will close an interesting series of programmes from CFCT, Victoria's radio station.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1930

Good and evil planetary aspects contend to-day, but the benefic influences are strong, according to astrology.

This should be a lucky day for opening new shops or for starting in a new position.

Beginnings of many sorts are well directed under this day's planetary government, which is stimulating and encouraging.

It is a favorable sway for signing contracts, leases and agreements. The best luck will come to those who have made their decisions under another configuration.

Afternoon should be an auspicious time for women and their plans. Social entertainments and meetings of every sort should be successful.

This is read as a happy wedding day, making for happiness and success, although the bride's will is likely to dominate.

Prosperity for theatres is indicated for the coming ten days, in which at least two plays will gain fame and make money.

Trade connected with the sale of women's wear, jewels, furs and all articles of adornment should be exceedingly good under this configuration.

Much sumptuous entertaining is foretold from this date and many distinguished foreign visitors are indicated.

Artists of all lines of work should profit greatly in the coming months, when there will be success especially for musicians and sculptors, it is predicted.

Crimes actuated by greed will increase with the coming winter, it is prognosticated, and many sensational highway robberies are presaged. Women should safeguard their jewels.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unusual pleasure. The young will court and marry, while older men and women will not be immune to romance.

Children born on this day probably will be intelligent, serious and studious. The subjects of this sign usually are lovers of liberty and idealist.

Thomas Chatterton, famous English poet, was born on this day, 1752. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include William Blackwood, 1776, Edinburgh publisher, Josiah Royce, 1855, educator.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Golf Game

(Copyright, 1930).

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day Uncle Wiggily stood at the front window of his bungalow looking out. There was a little snow on the ground, but not enough to make a big snowball, a snow man or a fort.

"In fact," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking out loud, "there isn't enough snow to stop me from playing golf if I wanted to."

"Fore!" called Uncle Wiggily.

"Don't tell me you are going to start in at the beginning of winter to play golf!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears who was mending Uncle Wiggily's socks and who heard what he said. "The idea! Just when other rabbits are putting away their clubs and their knickers and big stockings you start in talking about golf."

"Oh, I didn't mean to start out now and play a big game of golf," said Uncle Wiggily. "I was thinking of this new kind, garden golf, baby golf or Tom Thumb golf, whatever you want to call it. I could sort of make a baby golf game right in my yard here, before the snow gets too deep."

"Oh, if you mean that kind all right," spoke Uncle Wiggily's wife. "I'm [illegible] do for golf balls?"

"I think I could make some snowballs hard enough so I could knock them around a bit," Mr. Longears said. "You know in this new baby golf game you don't need to hit the ball as hard as you do in a big, long golf game. You just tap them. Of course a snowball would never last in a regular golf game. But for Tom Thumb it's all right."

"And what will you do for clubs?" asked Nurse Jane, who was using the new feather broom on the end of her tail to dust the piano. Nurse Jane was like one of the family. Uncle Wiggily and his wife didn't mind her joining in their talk. So Nurse Jane asked about clubs.

"I only need one club," Mr. Longears answered. "That's all the players use in baby golf. I have an old red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch somewhere around the bungalow, haven't I, Nurse Jane?"

"Yes," the muskrat lady housekeeper answered. "It's one I gnawed for you out of a cornstalk."

"That will do very well for my new golf game," said the rabbit.

Soon Uncle Wiggily was in the yard laying out his baby golf course. He swept the snow aside, making many paths. Then he found some of his rabbit children's old toys of which they had become tired, and used them to make traps, or hard places for him to drive his golf snowballs through.

"For hole number one," said Uncle Wiggily as he swept clean the first path, "I'll use this old jumping Jack of Baby Bunty's." He put Jack upright on the path, his legs far apart so as a ball would roll between them, and unless Uncle Wiggily drove his ball straight, the Jack would lean over and catch hold of it in his wooden hands.

"That's a good obstacle for my golf game," murmured Mr. Longears. Nurse Jane had given him some old tea cups which he sunk here and there about the yard for holes into which to knock the golf snowballs.

On hole two Uncle Wiggily put an old Noah's Ark that Jingle, one of his rabbit girls, had thrown away. There was a hole in one end and another hole in the roof of the little wooden house-boat.

"So if I drive my golf snowball into the Ark and it pops out of the roof that will be a fine shot!" chuckled Mr. Longears.

On hole three the bunny gentleman put a little old sea-saw teeter tauter game which Jangle had tossed aside. Once two little rabbit dolls used to teeter up and down on the tauter. But the dolls had broken off and now it was just a piece of wood, that moved up and down.

"I'll drive a ball up the down end of the see-saw, it will roll to the middle and off the other end and into the cup," thought the bunny. "I'll have a swell Tom Thumb golf course here pretty soon."

So Uncle Wiggily worked away until he had his garden golf course all laid out with many old toys for obstacles. Then he made himself some round, hard balls of snow and took his old rheumatism crutch for a putter and he began to play.

"Fore!" called Uncle Wiggily as he teed his snowball on the end of the first snow swept path. "Look out, jumping Jack!" The rabbit drove the ball right between Jack's legs. Jack made a grab for it but missed and Uncle Wiggily found the ball down in the cup.

"Ha! Ha! A hole in one!" cried the delighted rabbit. Then he went to hole two, to drive the ball through the old Noah's Ark. This thime he didn't call "Fore!" which means "Look out!" But he suddenly banged the snowball. He hit it hard. It went up in the air instead of rolling in the end and out of the roof of the Noah's Ark, and then some one yelled:

"Ouch! Oh, my eye!" Mr. Twistytail, the pig, coming along just then, caught the snowball on his left eye.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" said Mr. Longears. "I didn't mean that!"

"I know it, so I'll forgive you!" grunted the pig. "And I'll play golf with you. It's lots of fun."

Merrily the game went on and Mr. Longears won. But perhaps this was because Mr. Twistytail could only see out of one eye. Anyhow they had a good time. And if I can find a lollypop with a stick as large as a clothes post and a piece of candy as big as a washtub, I'll tell you next time about Uncle Wiggily and little Chuckle.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The 16 ounces thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

DON'T SUFFER WITH DANGEROUS INDIGESTION

Do you suffer after meals with a belching, from sour and acid stomach? Many believe they have heart trouble and tremble with fear, expecting any minute to drop dead. This condition can be prevented, likewise relieved.

Take Carter's Little Liver Pills after meals and neutralize the gases. Sweeten the sour and acid stomach, relieve the gas and encourage digestion.

The stomach, liver and bowels will be cleansed of poison, painful and dangerous indigestion disappears and the system enjoys a tonic effect. Don't delay. Ask your druggist for a 25c pkg. of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

How Do You Size Up People?

Dorothy Dix

Finds We Each Have Personal Method

Each of Us Has Some Little Secret, Private Acid Test That We Apply to All With Whom We Come in Contact and by Which We Really Test Their Characters—What Is Yours?

HOW do you judge people? Of course, there are certain signs and symbols by which we are all branded and which enables he who runs to read whether an individual is good-looking or homely or well-dressed or ill-dressed or sophisticated or provincial or egotistical or modest or intelligent or stupid. But beyond this we all have some little secret private acid test that we apply to all with whom we come in contact by which we really estimate their characters

We were talking of this the other night and a young man said: "The thing I watch for in every new girl I meet is her reaction to a situation that calls for tenderness and sympathy. None of your hard-boiled flappers for me. I like a woman who is filled with delicate sensibilities, who has what somebody once called 'the divine gift of tears.' And that doesn't mean a hysterical weeper who slops all over the place, but a woman whose heart is touched with pity for everything that suffers.

"When I get married I am going to need a wife who has enormous capacity for being sorry for a poor, blundering sinner and who will shed a few tears over him when he strays off the straight and narrow path instead of haling him into the divorce court.

"I want a wife who will still be romantic and sentimental even after she has half a dozen brats and who will keep on thrilling when I kiss her and give me her lips instead of the back of her ear, and the way I try girls out to see if they are likely to come up to my specifications is by taking them to see some poetic and romantic and touching little play that pulls at the heartstrings. If they sit up dry-eyed through it all or smile when the impassioned hero is pouring out his soul to the heroine, I'm through with them.

"One girl lost a mighty good husband, who would have been a grand provider, because she didn't cry when I took her to see Maud Adams play 'A Kiss for Cinderella' while I was sitting up gulping at every word. I took that Jane home and dumped her on her doorstep, and she never has understood why she didn't see me more."

"Pretty much the same with me," said another man. "I used to have a favorite novel that I would present to girls that I thought I was in love with, and if they didn't understand it or find out what it was really about I knew they would never understand me and that we would have nothing in common after we got through asking each other ''oose ducky is oo? And are you really truly sure you never loved before?' "

"I judge a man by the way he treats servants," said a woman, "and there is no surer way for a girl to tell what sort of husband a man will make than for her to watch his attitude toward those who are dependent upon him and who cannot resent his conduct.

"If a man habitually speaks to a servant as if he were ordering a dog about; if he always gets into rows with taxicab drivers and ushers in theatres and waiters in restaurants, and if he fails to tip or gives the least possible tip that he can, you can set it down that he is tyrannical and overbearing and bullying and stingy and that he will treat any woman the same way as soon as she is in his power as a wife and that he will make one of the tightwad husbands who has to be chloroformed before the price of the baby's milk bill can be extracted from him."

"I judge a girl by the way she treats her family," said a man. "Whenever you see a girl going about looking like the Queen of Sheba while her mother looks like something that was fished out of the ragbag, watch out. Her husband is going to have his shoes half-soled six times so Friend Wife can have forty-seven pairs of assorted reptiles on her little tootsie-wootsies.

"When you see a girl who corrects mother's and fathe'rs grammar and pronunciation and whose parents are afraid to speak or move in her presence, beware. She will tell her husband where to get off and on. That's the reason when I go to see a girl I take a good long look at father and mother to see whether they are daughter-pecked or not, and I also observe whether little brother and sister think Mamie is a little tin god at whose feet they worship or whether they flee at her approach."

"I judge people by the things they laugh at," said another man. "If the only thing that tickles their funny bone is some misfortune that has happened to a poor devil, then I know they are cruel and hard. If they deride a fellow creature's infirmity, such as lameness or a hunchback or being too fat or too thin, I know they are lacking in all understanding and sympathy. And if their favorite stories are about how they outwitted somebody in business or took advantage of someone's simplicity to outtrade them, I know that they are nothing but thieves and will cheat me if they get a chance."

"I judge a man by the way he plays," said another man "When I'm through with a game with one I know whether he is too optimistic or whether he gives up too quickly, whether he plays fairly or will take advantage when nobody is looking. I know whether he is a good loser or a boastful winner, and I have a pretty accurate idea of what sort of judgment he has and how honest he is."

"I once went into a business deal with a man of whom I knew nothing whatever except that my dog jumped on him and licked his face at sight. I have never known a dog's judgment to fail to be correct," said a woman.

Possibly none of these tests are scientific or infallible, but the subject is interesting. How do you judge people? DOROTHY DIX.

Ella has been informed that she is going to Europe with the Coles. Is she excited? Well........
HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE YOU TO PACK ALL YOUR THINGS, ELLA?
MRS. COLE, WHEN I BUTTON THE TOP BUTTON ON THIS DRESS, MY TRUNK IS PACKED!
DON'T YOU THINK IT'S FOOLISH FOR A WOMAN TO STOCK UP HER WARDROBE IN PARIS AND PAY SUCH HEAVY DUTY? I FIND IT MUCH MORE PRACTICAL TO BUY GOWNS HERE!
YES, MY GOWNS ARE LOCAL PRODUCTS AND I SLEEP WELL IN BOTH OF THEM!
I ONCE BOUGHT SOME GOWNS IN PARIS AND PAID MORE DUTY THAN I PAID FOR THE GOWNS! I THOUGHT IT WAS OUTRAGEOUS! IT'S POOR POLICY TO TRY TO HIDE ANYTHING, TOO!
I SUPPOSE IT'S JUST AN OLD AMERICAN CUSTOM! IF A WOMAN BUYS ANYTHING VALUABLE IN EUROPE, HER SAFEST BET IS TO GREET THE CUSTOMS OFFICER WITH THESE WORDS: "LOOK WHO'S HERE—A CUSTOMS OFFICER! WELL, I DECLARE!"

THAT MADE HER SO MAD SHE RAN ME UNTIL MY SHOELACES HUMMED LIKE BANJO STRINGS!
DID YOU GET AWAY?
IF YOU CALL THIS GETTING AWAY, I DID. WHAT DO YOU THINK?
I DON'T KNOW. I AIN'T GOT NO EAR FOR MUSIC!
I RAN SO FAST SHE COULDN'T CATCH ME. WHEN SHE COULDN'T CATCH ME SHE HAD ME ARRESTED FOR DESERTION!

GORDON McLEOD TO APPEAR WITH CAST IN CLEVER COMEDY

To-night the English Players will present "The Bride," a play both charming and delightful. Lilian Christine in the title role has a part where her versatility is shown to the best advantage. Gordon McLeod also has a part where his skill as a character actor will again be demonstrated. Eily Malyon, one of the talented members of the new organization, will, in "The Bride," have the opportunity of showing to the Victoria public what a splendid character actress she is. Rex Devlin, also one of the new members, will make his first appearance at the Royal with this company. Others who have already made themselves notable, Robert A'Dair, Patrick Ludlow and Wylie Watson, will all appear in this production.

Next week, instead of "Outward Bound" being the offering as previously announced, "Tons of Money," the most amusing farce ever written will be presented, as being more suitable to the season. The other play will be given later.

RONALD COLMAN IS "BULLDOG DRUMMOND" AT THE COLISEUM

Every important member of the cast of "Bulldog Drummond," the mystery thriller which Samuel Goldwyn brings to the Coliseum Theatre to-day with Ronald Colman as star, is an actor of considerable stage experience.

Colman himself was a prominent juvenile on the English stage before coming to the United States and got his first chance in pictures after Henry King, the director, saw him in a New York production and signed him to play opposite Lillian Gish in "The White Sister." Joan Bennett, who plays the leading feminine role opposite him, is making her first appearance in films, having recently completed playing in "Jarnegan" on Broadway with her father, the famous Richard Bennett.

Lilyan Tashman, the blonde temptress of the picture, began her stage career as one of Florenz Ziegfeld's glorified show girls. Montagu Love and Lawrence Grant are both well-known American stage actors in character specialties and Claude McAllister, playing Algy Longworth, Bulldog Drummond's bosom friend, played the same role in the days when "Bulldog Drummond" was the stage hit of London.

THRILLNG SCENES IN GAMBLING HALLS SHOWN AT CAPITOL

Ernst Lubitsch, famous international director, who has just made "The Love Parade," has just completed his newest picture, "Monte Carlo," for Paramount, which will show in Victoria for the last time to-night at the Capitol Theatre.

In the famous gambling halls of Monte Carlo, says Lubitsch, the croupier, at the start of the roulette's play, calls out, over and over again in an even, emotionless tone, "Faites vous jeux, monsieures," meaning, "make your play." The words are droned much as the clerk of the court hurries through his oath for witnesses in any typical American tribunal. The French word "faites," thus spoken by the croupiers, could easily be mistaken for "fade," and indeed it has been, according to Lubitsch.

SPLENDID CAST IN "HOLIDAY" NOW AT DOMINION THEATRE

William Holden, veteran stage actor, first went to Hollywood in the capacity of a stage producer. Three years ago he produced Willard Mack's play, "The Noose," at the Vine Street Theatre in Hollywood.

Holden acquired a taste for pictures before returning to New York, and this was strengthened on subsequent visits. In 1929 Holden cast his lot with motion pictures, and has since appeared in such outstanding talking films as "Weary River," "Dynamite," "The Argyle Case," "Fast Life" and "The Trespasser."

He will be seen as Ann Harding's father in "Holiday," Pathe's picturization of the Philip Barry stage success, which Edward H. Griffith directed and which will be seen and heard at the Dominion Theatre for the last time to-day.

TENSE SITUATIONS MARK PICTURE NOW AT THE COLUMBIA

Few all-talking pictures can boast of more tense situations than "Wild Company," Fox movietone production, now at the Columbia Theatre H. B. Warner and Frank Albertson portray the leading roles of father and son, while Sharon Lynn and Joyce Compton appear in important characterizations.

OWEN NARES WILL BE STARRED HERE IN ENGLISH FILM

"Loose Ends," coming to the Coliseum Saturday, is the dialogue version of the remarkable stage play of the same name by Dion Titheradge, which ran at Wyndham's Theatre recently. It is one of the most interesting productions which have ever emanated from the British International Studios at Elstree.

Owen Nares plays the part created on the stage by Dion Titheradge—that of the down-and-out and embittered man who is rescued from the depths by an ultra-modern young actress, only to find his new-found faith in humanity shattered.

GEORGE SIDNEY, NOW AT THE PLAYHOUSE, IS MUCH TRAVELED

Thirty-five years on the stage and screen and stranded eight times is the record of George Sidney, who is co-featured with Charlie Murray, in "Around the Corner," the Columbia all-talking comedy riot now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. It is Sidney's boast that he has played every hamlet from Maine to California, and from the Canadian border to the Mexican line. He has been starred on Broadway, on the road and in pictures.

Health Campaign Is Described To Dental Society

Dr. H. S. Thompson, field secretary of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, addressed the regular meeting of the Victoria Dental Society at its dinner meeting in the Pacific Club yesterday evening.

Dr. Thompson described to the society the working of a province-wide oral campaign for health of the mouth. This movement has the full support of the local society.

The speaker was heartily thanked for his address and for his efforts in conducting the campaign, through which a message of health will reach every home in British Columbia.

The future meetings of the Dental Society will be held on the third Tuesday of every month. The regular meeting of the Victoria Inlay Dental Study Club will be held on the [illegible] Tuesday of each month at 7.30 p.m. at 225 Sayward Building.

SCHOOLS ACT BEING REVISED

Farmers Appreciate Efforts of Minister and Municipal Union to Relieve Land

Members of the Advisory Board of Farmers' Institutes, with representatives of the agricultural associations, were yesterday evening the guests of the Department of Agriculture at a dinner at the Dominion Hotel, which was attended by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Acting Minister of Agriculture.

At the afternoon session yesterday Mr. Hinchliffe, as Minister of Education, stated the Schools Act was being drastically overhauled in preparation for the next session of the Legislature. Delegates asked whether teachers had the privilege of accumulating their annual fortnight of sick leave with pay when unused, and were informed that such was the case for a limited number of years. This was one of the matters under review. Another point of interest was the fact that in rural schools the salary of the teacher was paid by the department, but when a substitute teacher was necessary the rural district had to levy a local tax for the salary of the substitute.

The board endorsed the efforts of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and of Mr. Hinchliffe to relieve land of part of the school tax.

VALUELESS SCREENINGS

J. B. Munro, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, informed the board that elevator screenings exported to Seattle were of inferior feeding value, all the good broken wheat, buckwheat and wild oats being retained in Canada.

Mustard seed, when a large factor in ground cleanings injured the mouths of cattle, a matter of no moment when animals were being fattened for slaughter, but important where dairy stock were concerned.

The cost of thorough grinding was high and at present market prices barley and oats were actually cheaper than ground elevator screenings, Mr. Munro said.

LEVEL CROSSINGS

The urgency of elimination of level railway crossings on main highways was brought before the board and the Railway Commission and Provincial Public Works Department will be asked to provide overhead crossings or subways at certain notably dangerous points.

WILD HORSES

"Between 1,200 and 1,500 useless cayuses were counted one morning by one man on St. Mary's Prairie," declared A. B. Smith, when successfully appealing for a resolution requesting the government to destroy wild horses. He recalled that two years ago an appropriation of $1,000 had been used to pay for shooting stallions and decrepit animals, but the range was again infested, the amount of feed consumed being a serious loss.

SEEDING BURNT AREAS

Prompt seeding to grass of burnt-over provincial forest lands was discussed with approval, the suggestion being advanced that such pasturage should be added to the public range. Seeding immediately after a fire would prevent weed infestation and in course of years would greatly extend the range available for stock, delegates asserted.

Reports of an experimental seeding at Hillcrest, near Duncan, showed that the test had not been successful, the failure being attributed to spring seeding. It was believed that better success woud be attained by fall seeding. The matter was approved and referred to the Department of Agriculture for action.

The Provincial Government will be asked to change the rebate on stumping powder, now $2.50 per case up to twelve per settler annually, to provide that the rebate on the first six cases be increased to $3.00 and on the second six cases reduced to $2.00 per case. The change was unanimously supported as a means of encouraging the small settler to clear land.

DR. H. VERNER GOLDING NOW ENDORSES IT

Former Boston City Hospital Physician Tells of Amazing Results From New Scientific Treatment

"I desire to inform the public for their benefit just what Sargon has done to alleviate my troubles," recently stated Dr. H. Verner Golding, formerly an intern in the Boston City Hospital, now living at 12 Christie-Grant Block, Edmonton, Alta.

DR. H. VERNER GOLDING

"My troubles started back in 1900 with a bad case of chronic constipation that defied every effort I made for relief. My whole system became toxic; a rheumatic condition settled in my arms and limbs; my digestion was impaired; I had headaches and dizzy spells all the time, and was almost a nervous and physical wreck. I was finally forced to give up my practice.

"Knowing something of the scientific background of the new Sargon formula and the recent discoveries upon which it was based, I resolved to try the treatment. Words can't express the praise I have for this remarkable preparation: The Sargon Pills especially—they have re-established a regularity of bowel movements that I haven't had in years and are the only thing that ever completely overcame the toxic condition of my new system.

The Sargon liquid toned up my digestion and had a strengthening, invigorating effect that helped me to recuperate my former energy and vitality. In fact, every trouble I had has disappeared and I expect to soon be able to return to active work in my [illegible] have no hesitancy whatever about recommending the Sargon treatment at every opportunity."

Sargon may be obtained, in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the Rews Drug Company; in Esquimalt from Fulmer's Drug Store, and in Oak

FIFTY PER CENT OF VICTORIANS USE LIBRARY

Membership of Victoria Public Library Now 19,989 For Victoria City Alone

Few libraries in the whole North American continent can boast of a finer record than the Victoria Public Library, which now has a Victoria City membership of 19,989 and a Greater Victoria membership of 23,615, which is an increase over last year of 895, officers of the library report.

The Victoria City membership comprises fifty per cent. of the population, and in view of the fact that the American Library Association, which includes libraries of Canada, the United States and South America, recommends 27.5 per cent of the population as a good average for any library, the fifty per cent. of the local institution is remarkable.

OPERATING COST LOW

Each year the American Library Association publishes figures which serve as standards. These statistics concern expenditure for salaries, books, periodicals and binding, maintenance and janitor service. In every case the Victoria Public Library's running expenses compare favorably with these standard figures. For example, the A.L.A. recommends a minimum cost of one dollar per capita of poulation; the local library runs efficiently at a cost of sixty-one cents per capita.

With regard to circulation, last Saturday was the second largest day in the history of the library. No less than 3,022 books were given out and, though there are no means of accurately checking, it is estimated that as many people visited the library. From January to the end of October last year, the circulation was 294,764. For the same period this year it has been 317,314, an increase for ten months of 22,500. To the laymen this is somewhat startling, for it might be thought that the increase of subscription libraries in Victoria would have a bad effect on the institution's circulation.

This expansion has brought about a corresponding need for space, lack of accomodation is the greatest problem that the library officials face.

NEW BOOKS

During the last month approximately 130 books have been added to the shelves. Following is a list of books received in the last week. Fiction—"Imperial Palace," by Arnold Bennett; "Vagabonds" by Knut Hamsum (a Nobel Prize winner); "Marivosa," by Baroness Orczy; "Over the Hills," by Jeffery Farnol; "Certain People," by Edith Wharton; "Swan House," by Von Hutten; "Yolk of Life," by Frederick Philip Grove; "Martyr's Folly" (based on the life story of Louis Riel), by M. Constantine-Weyer; and "Forest Barriers; a novel of pioneer days," by Marian Keith (a Canadian writer). General—"Bengal Lancer," by F. Yeats-Brown (the autobiograhy of a white man in India); "Tariff Walls; a European crusade," by Sir Clive Morrison-Bell, with a preface by Viscount D'Abernon; "Harlequinade," by Constance Collier, with an introduction by Noel Coward (the life story of an actress); "Queen Victoria," by Sir Frederick Ponsonby; "My Life," by Leon Trotsky; "I Spy," by Baroness Carla Jenssen (the true story of a woman secret service agent); "Confessions in Art," by Harrison S. Morris; "As We Were," by E. F. Benson; "Russia To-day and Yesterday," by E. J. Dillon (an instructive commentary); "Conquest of Happiness," by Bertrand Russell; "Stricken Deer, or Life of William Cowper," by David Cecil; "Memories and Vagaries," by Axel Munthe; "Mind and Mischief," by W. S. Sadler; "Go North, Young Man," by Courtney Riley Cooper (an appeal to American youth to come to Canada); and "Go Wset, Go Wise," by Marjorie Harrison (a scathing attack on Canada by an Englishwoman who recently visited Victoria). In addition to these books, four new volumes on aviation have been added to the library.

PIONEER FIGURE ADDRESS TOPIC

Peter Skene Ogden, one of the most picturesque figures in the early history of the Pacific Northwest, will be the subject of an address by Prof. F. C. Elliott, historian for Washington State, at the Provincial Archives, Parliament Buildings, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Those interested in this subject are invited to be the guests of the B.C. Historical Society at the lecture.

Professor Elliott is one of the best posted men on the history of the Northwest. He has made a particular study of the doings of Ogden. Peter Skene Ogden was one of the foremost officers of the Hudson's Bay Company west of the Rockies in the colorful days when the great fur trading concern was paramount authority in the western world.

Professor Elliott resides at Walla Walla, Wash., and has devoted years to the study of the lives of John Wark, David Thompson and Ogden. Ogden's work and position were commemorated in the naming of Ogden Point in this city.

CHRISTIANITY HISTORY TOLD

J. A. Pearce Traces Growth of Religion From Earliest Stage at Club Dinner

The history of Christianity from the days of the golden age of Jewish history, during the times of David and Solomon, was traced by J. A. Pearce at the Round Table Club dinner in the Empress Hotel yesterday evening. The lecture was one of a series given on religion before the clubmen.

Following the historical summary of the rise of Christianity, during which he pointed out the Messianic expectation developed to a point where it became the centre of Jewish national life, the speaker explained the various elements in this concept. The mission of John the Baptist, and its relation to the Messianic hope, was discussed.

Before referring to the establishing of the early Christian churches and the work of Paul, Mr. Pearce dealt with the story of the Gallilean teacher, avoiding as far as possible scriptural interpretations.

The first general council was held at Nice in the year 325 A.D., with Constantine presiding, he informed his hearers. This marked the conquest of Christianity over the Roman Empire, he stated.

Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell will be the next speaker in this series, and his subject will be Buddhism. The final lecture of the series will be on Islamism, and will be given by W. T. Straith.

On Tuesday next Major Kirkpatrick-Crockett will speak on "India; Her People, Religions and Army."
